Boston Zoning Code Amended

Private drinking and entertainment clubs, including fraternal organizations, that want to open in apartment and local business districts in Boston now require a public hearing and approval by the Board of Appeal, as the result of an amendment to the Boston Zoning Code made earlier this year.

With support from concerned residents, and at the recommendation of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, the Zoning Commission voted in February to make private clubs conditional instead of allowed uses in H (apartment) and L (local business) zoning districts throughout the city.

The amendment is not retro-active, but affects any new club facilities in these districts. Through the review and public hearing procedure, the city's residents will be better able to regulate the kind of activities that occur in their neighborhoods.

When any private club wants to set up quarters in an existing building, the owner of the building must apply for a Change of Occupancy permit from the Building Department. If the building is in a district where private clubs are conditional, the application will be rejected. The owner will then have to petition the Board of Appeal for a Conditional Use Permit, also through the Building Department.

Private clubs are also conditional in general residential and industrial areas. They are allowed in general business districts, but forbidden in single-family districts.

The Board of Appeal sends a copy of the petition to the BRA zoning staff, which informs the Little City Hall and BRA district planner for the area, as well as the Office of Public Service and other BRA and city departments, so community opinion and staff reviews can be obtained. The BRA, as advisor to the Board of Appeal, has thirty days to review the request and make a recommendation to the Board.

The Board of Appeal also schedules a public hearing on the petition, allowing about six to eight weeks from the time the petition is received. It sends a hearing notice to the person requesting the Conditional Use Permit, the BRA, the owners of property affected by the appeal (usually abutters), and to anyone else who has requested notification. It also advertises the hearing in the classified section of The Boston Globe.

Notification and advertisement occur about seven days before the hearing.

Proponents and opponents of the request are allowed time to speak at the public hearing, although it is likely that local residents will have made their opinions known to their Little City Hall and district planner before the hearing takes place.

The Board of Appeal then takes the matter under advisement. There is no stated time limit within which they must reach a decision.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS PROGRAM: A REPORT

Community Schools

It is anticipated that these schools will help stabilize neighborhood populations as well as provide an avenue for increased parent involvement in the educational process. The schools have already demonstrated their ability to stimulate more efficient use of municipal facilities and have furnished many neighborhoods with new swimming pools, basketball courts, and gymnasiums.

Ten community schools are currently in operation and five more are under construction, with three to four more scheduled to begin construction this year.

Since 1968, almost every elementary and middle school built has been a community school. These schools are designed as both educational centers and community facilities. They are open afternoons and evenings after school hours and on weekends, twelve months a year. They are open to all community residents for a variety of uses including swimming, day care, theater arts, cultural activities, and classes ranging from automobile repairing and bartending to child rearing and knitting. Community schools are, in short, available for all purposes within the imagination of local residents and the scope of the facility.

The Zoning Code amendment grew out of concerns expressed by the South Boston Residents' Group to the BRA's South Boston district planner that private clubs, located in store fronts and operating like speakeasies, were a threat to the neighborhood.

The BRA planning staff and the South Boston Residents' Group agreed that private clubs located in ground floor spaces of apartment buildings or in store fronts, which sometimes have apartments in their upper floors, tend to be noisy and to create traffic problems in the evening.

The residents' group suggested making the clubs conditional only in South Boston. The BRA, however, learned from the Boston Police Department that the private club problems are not limited just to South Boston. Their concern was confirmed by district planners in touch with other city neighborhoods. The BRA's zoning staff, consequently, wrote the amendment to regulate private clubs in apartment and local business districts on a city-wide basis.

Capital Improvements . .

Community school activities are generated by local elected councils who assume responsibility for directing the program and hiring staff. In conjunction with the Public Facilities Department, the councils coordinate use of the facility.

BOSTCO

Since 1969 the Public Facilities Department has been involved in the development of the Boston Standard Component System (BOSTCO), an effort to apply sophisticated systems-building techniques to the construction of schools. Boston is one of the first cities to use a systems approach for municipal construction and the results are encouraging: higher consistent quality, reduced design and construction time, substantial dollar savings, with increased control over all phases of design and construction. Public Facilities recently received a Progressive Architecture Award in Applied Research for development of this program.

BOSTCO uses preengineered systems which are standardized for the design and construction of all schools in the current building program. These systems include: heating, cooling and ventilation, structure, electrical lighting and power, plumbing, and a sophisticated system of partitions and ceilings providing interior space division. All systems have been designed specifically to meet the requirements of school construction in Boston and are the product of a continuing research and development program. Working with these basic components Public Facilities can plan schools that reflect diversity in design as well as diversity in educational program and neighborhood site requirements.

So far experience has demonstrated, through the construction of the Agassiz Elementary School and Grover Cleveland Middle School addition, that construction time can be halved, with a dollar savings of 10-15 percent over conventional methods. The BOSTCO system is being used for all schools under construction, as well as those in the planning and design stage.

PARKS DEPARTMENT PRESENTATION

Parks and Recreation Commissioner Anthony E. Forgione has announced that the annual girls' gymnastic exhibition was held on May 10, at the Hyde Park Recreation Center.

The event marked the culmination of a rigorous six-month gymnastic training program in which 300 girls, aged nine through seventeen, participated.

"In keeping with the national trend to promote physical fitness at an early age, I am pleased that the Parks and Recreation Department has arranged for Boston girls to receive training in this sport," Mr. Forgione said.

"The girls have demonstrated great dedication, and I know many of them will compete successfully in the state competition next year," he added.

In addition to group exhibitions, the following girls presented individual performances:

On the trampoline: April Marando, Lisa Wirtz, Ann McCall, Ann McDougall, and Cindy McDougall;

Floor exercise: Linda McGill, Robin Guara, Janet Landers, Meg McDougall, and Andrea Giacobbi;

Vaulting: Ann Sullivan, Michele Casey, Ginny Flahive, Margaret MacIsaac, Noreen Murphy, Eileen Clifford, Pat Falcione, and Mary Ellen Johnson; Uneven parallel bars: Stephanie Cole, Chris Campbell, Kathy Galvin, Joanne Gibney, Nina Guerra, and Kathy Rose.

Commissioner Forgione said the success of the program is due to the dedication and hard work of both the girls and their four gymnastic coaches who are members of the Northeastern University varsity gymnastic team.

They are Carol Alpert, Denise Desrosiers, Peggy Dowd, and Mary Ellen Martin.

CAN SECRETARIAT READ?

The socially prominent owner of Secretariat, thoroughbred racing's first Triple Crown winner in twenty-five years, says the famed stallion "always gets his mail" — regardless of how it's addressed.

"Somehow I get it," said Mrs. Penny Tweedy. "Sometimes the envelopes bear only his name. On other occasions letters and gifts are sent either to newspapers, magazines, or to race tracks, and then forwarded.

"Mailmen have really been our friends. We have even had mail delivered to us after being sent to a track where none of our horses have ever raced."

The owner of the famous horse has six addresses, but mail is generally sent to either her Syosset, New York, home or to her horse farm in Darswell, Virginia.

At the height of Secretariat's popularity in 1973, after he won the Belmont Stakes, the final jewel in the Triple Crown diadem, Mrs. Tweedy estimated mail volume reached more than 7,000 letters a week. It has now evened off to about 200 or 300 letters.

The one-hundredth running of the Kentucky Derby, won last year by Secretariat as the first leg of the Triple Crown, was held this year on May 4, with Churchill Downs, as usual, the scene of the event.

Also on that date, at Churchill Downs, a ten-cent stamp to commemorate the "Sport of Kings" was issued by the Postal Service.

NEW ALCOHOLISM CLINIC AT CITY HOSPITAL

The Alcoholism Division of BCH has opened a new day clinic under the direction of Ms. Nancy Stevenson. The walk-in clinic, located on the sixth floor Allergy Aisle of the Out-Patient Department, operates from 1:00 to 3:30 P.M. on Monday and Friday, and from 1:00 to 4:30 P.M., on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The day clinic will supplement the existing evening clinic services. According to Ms. Stevenson, "One of the reasons for its existence is to help people who cannot come to the evening clinic.

"The aim of the clinic is obviously to help people obtain sobriety, but in addition, we want to help improve the persons' functioning in life and improve their relationships to their jobs, to their families, and to their communities. By doing this we hope to help them better use other available resources," continued Ms. Stevenson.

Unlike the evening clinic, the day clinic will work with patients within the hospital as well as those from outside. Referrals to appropriate clinics or other services will be made when the inpatient is ready to leave the hospital. The clinic will also take referrals from community agencies and self-referrals.

For the most part, the clinic will use group counseling techniques; however, individual counseling will also be available if necessary.

The present staff, which consists of a social worker-director, a nurse and a psychologist, all of whom are alcoholism specialists, anticipates cross-referrals with the Emergency Ward's Room 5, the center for alcoholism crisis counseling.

The new clinic is looking for qualified volunteers. It may be reached by calling 424-4893 or 5263.

EXHIBITION OF COLORS AT MUSEUM OF SCIENCE

In this day of color television, printing, film, clothes in every rainbow hue, and vibrant interior decorating, the new exhibition and two upcoming lectures on color at Boston's Museum of Science are particularly pertinent to everyday life.

The Museum is offering the free lectures as a complement to "Color Around Us," the exhibition now open in the Design Gallery there. A companion exhibition, "Color in Art," is on view at the Fogg Art Museum, Cambridge, where a related lecture will be given on May 29. The Science Museum lectures, slated for June 12, each feature two outstanding researchers speaking on the level of the layman.

Neither admission fees nor reservations are required. Admission will be on a first come, first served basis, limited only to the capacity of the auditorium.

In June, John J. McCann of Polaroid, and David L. MacAdam of Eastman Kodak, will speak at the Museum on color as it applies to their work.

ICA PRESENTATION

An exhibition of Saul Steinberg's drawings, lithographs, and wood constructions are being displayed at the Institute of Contemporary Art, 955 Boylston Street, Boston, and will continue through June 21. More than thirty works executed since the 1960s have been lent for this exhibition, offering an unusual opportunity for people to discover the richness and variety of these works.

Mr. Steinberg's success as a brilliant cartoonist has unfortunately impeded his recognition as a "serious" artist — a recognition which he unquestionably deserves. Even critics who are convinced of his importance admit the difficulty of placing or discussing his work, and people who arrive at the exhibition confident of their familiarity with Mr. Steinberg may find themselves unexpectedly captivated by his color work and matchless draftsmanship.

The works in this exhibition touch on familiar Steinberg subjects: the mad abutments and pomposities of modern life, the disorientation of time, of architecture, language, and social facades, and, always, an investigation of the artist's own purposes.

NEW LCH APPOINTMENT

Mayor White has announced the appointment of Pedro Mendez as assistant manager of the South End Little City Hall.

Mr. Mendez, a resident of the Fenway, succeeds Daniel Soltren, who is now a housing specialist with the Emergency Tenants Council, a nonprofit housing corporation based in the South End.

"We are lucky to have found such an enthusiastic and capable man to work in our Little City Hall program," Mayor White said.

"Pedro Mendez brings with him not only a strong background in teaching and administration, but he has a keen sensitivity of the problems facing the Spanish-speaking community as they adjust to life in a new culture," he said.

Born in San Juan, Puerto Rico, thirty-three-year-old Mr. Mendez came to the Boston area in his youth, and was graduated from Curry College in Milton, Mass., with a B.A. degree in history.

He has worked as a Spanish teacher in St. Croix and as an English and history teacher in Puerto Rico. He also served for several years as a district executive involved in recruiting and promotion for the Boy Scouts of America in Puerto Rico. He returned to the Boston area last December.

Mr. Mendez said he will work closely with the Spanish-speaking community to help ease the problems presented by language and cultural barriers.

"I would like to see the Spanish-speaking community get more involved in civic groups," he said.

"A major problem facing the community is a lack of orientation. I will concentrate on ensuring that they are kept aware of their rights and of the many agencies available to serve them," he added.

VII. UNITED STATES SAVINGS BONDS

The following letter is published for members of the department:

"DEAR FELLOW CITY EMPLOYEES:

I am writing directly to you personally to tell you of my complete support for the City of Boston's 1974 United States Savings Bonds campaign and to encourage you to think seriously of enrolling or stepping up your participation in the plan.

It is impossible to overemphasize the importance of United States Savings Bonds to our nation, or to you. From the nation's viewpoint, their purchase combats inflation and makes funds available to implement essential government programs. From your viewpoint, savings bonds provide an excellent return and readily accessible capital for the education of children, down payment on a new house, a financial emergency, or the like.

United States Savings Bonds, purchased on or after December 1, 1973, earn 6 percent interest compounded semiannually when held to maturity of five years. The interest is not subject to state and local income taxes and the federal tax payment may be deferred until redeemed. Because savings bonds are backed by the United States government, they represent one of the safest investments in the world.

So that Boston city employees can benefit by this method of savings, a campaign will be conducted during the month of May. During that period you will be contacted by a fellow employee and given the opportunity to buy bonds through regular payroll allotments.

Today, more than 26 percent of Boston city employees have learned that the easiest and surest way to save money is by buying bonds through the payroll savings plan. We are proud of this achievement and it is my sincere hope that you will join me in making this year's drive more successful than those of the past. For your future, as well as our nation's, I urge you to invest in United States Savings Bonds.

Sincerely,

KEVIN H. WHITE,
Mayor."

Between May 1 and May 31, 1974, a person to person campaign will be conducted among all employees of the Boston Fire Department to purchase United States Savings Bonds through the payroll savings plan.

The necessary forms and further information will be forwarded to all division heads and company commanders who will be responsible for seeing that every member is canvassed and fills out a Form SBD 1072. These forms will then be returned to Fire Lieut. Daniel J. Gallagher at Headquarters prior to May 31. If further information is desired, contact Lieut. Gallagher, extension 250 at headquarters.

Post until May 8, 1974.

The Tactical Patrol Force is currently in the process of changing its method of operation from uniformed patrol to plain-clothes operations in high crime areas. Some officers will operate as decoys, disguised as a typical victim, while their backup officers will be dressed to blend in with the neighborhood. They will utilize vehicles owned by the various utilities, taxicab firms, and private companies, in addition to using leased cars unlike the stereotyped "unmarked car." As the unit gains experience, it will be utilizing various other strategies to combat street crime.

The unit will be deployed to problem areas identified by statistics. Officer Albert Orlandino (Tactical Patrol Force) will be collecting crime figures from the various districts and talking with commanders and other personnel to determine the specifics of the problem.

District commanders will be notified in advance of Tactical Patrol Force operations in their district. Announcements will be made at roll calls each day informing officers of the location of Tactical Patrol Force operations in the district. Because officers in this unit will dress and act to hide their identities as police, it is important that officers use extreme caution when coming upon a street incident which could involve a Tactical Patrol Force plainclothes officer. Tactical Patrol Force officers, when in the process of making an arrest, can be identified by a colored headband, the color of which will be sent out by teletype each day and announced at roll calls.

When encountered by another police officer, Tactical Patrol Force officers have been instructed to identify themselves as Boston Police officers and also indicate where their badges and identifications are located.

When the unit is alerted for emergencies which require uniformed officers, the Tactical Patrol Force officers will wear a blue nylon jacket which has emblazoned on the front "Boston Police" with an embroidered badge. The rear of the jacket will read "Boston Police Anti-Crime Unit."

Currently, two squads are engaged in this method of operation, and over the next several months the remaining squads of the Tactical Patrol Force will be trained and will begin plainclothes operations.

All officers will familiarize themselves with this order, as it is important that members of the department are aware of the unit's operation for the safety of all concerned.

EXTRAORDINARY STEP-RATE ADVANCE UNDER COMPENSATION PLAN FOR EMPLOYEES OF SUFFOLK COUNTY.

SUPERIOR CRIMINAL COURT

DUNCAN T. FOLEY,
Supervisor of Personnel.

DEAR SIR:

On May 8, 1974, Irene A. Mason was appointed a principal clerk, Grade R-8, in this office, at a weekly salary of $141.

Although she is designated as a principal clerk, I intend to use her for secretarial work during those periods of vacation and other justifiable absenteeism of the two secretaries in this office.

Therefore, because of her outstanding qualifications, it is requested that her one (1)-year and two (2)-year increments be determined under Rule 15F of the Compensation Plan for Suffolk County Employees.

Very truly yours,

EDWARD V. KEATING,
Clerk.

Boston 200: Operation Preparation

In less than a year, 6,000,000 visitors are expected in Boston and the city's bicentennial office, Boston 200, is on a countdown course with a program of city-wide trails, exhibits, commemorative events, and community celebrations scheduled to be completed.

"Boston 200 begins April 18, 1975, a year ahead of the rest of the country," said Boston Mayor Kevin H. White. "We hope to have an extra special celebration particularly because of Boston's pivotal role in the American Revolution and her later contributions to the development of the country."

Three major exhibits have reached finalization, highlighting "The City in America" and life in eighteenth-, nineteenth-, and twentieth-century Boston. The Quincy Market building in the historic Faneuil Hall Market area (now under renovation) will house "The American Revolution in Boston, 1760-1780" — a tribute to the conflicts, opinions, occupations, and lifestyle of people in the colonial years.

In Boston's Back Bay — itself a nineteenth-century creation — the nineteenth-century exhibit will highlight the inventions, politics, immigration trends, and new buildings in Boston after the Civil War. Nearby, at Boston's Prudential Center, a bicentennial pavilion will house a 300-seat theater presenting a multimedia look at Boston today, and an orientation to the other exhibits and trails of the Boston 200 "Citygame" program.

Under Citygame, Boston's Freedom Trail will serve as a prototype for neighborhood walking trails in eight downtown neighborhoods.

Other trails, built around architecture, Black history, visual arts, medicine, education, women in history, and over a dozen other such themes will weave throughout Boston to institutions, museums, historic sites, parks and gardens, and exhibits designed especially for the bicentennial.

"Several of these planned exhibits include 'Paul Revere's World' at Boston's Museum of Fine Arts," said Katharine D. Kane, director of Boston 200. "'Yankee Ingenuity' at the Museum of Science will explore the city as a center for scientific achievement. The Museum of Afro-American History will highlight the contributions of Boston's Black community. 'Literary Boston' at the Boston Public Library, 'Boston Medicine' at the Museum of Science, and 'Boston Women' at the new Greater Boston Women's Center will also be featured," Mrs. Kane added.

Culture in Boston will be highlighted in a program called "Festival American" which will also commemorate historical events of the Revolutionary years. Performing arts programs by local groups and ethnic festivals in the Boston neighborhoods are planned to involve residents and visitors in the cultural life of the city.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS PROGRAM: A REPORT

Monitoring Maintenance Systems

The rapid construction of new elementary and high schools furnished with millions of dollars of sophisticated equipment systems, including central air conditioning and heating plants, full-service cafeterias, and extensive physical education facilities, has created problems of maintenance and repair unknown in previous school buildings. In some cases, the new physical plants require levels of knowledge and experience never before needed for ordinary maintenance work; more often the sheer size of the plant with its unseen intricacies and sensitive equipment is simply too great a load for an overburdened school maintenance and janitorial staff.

A computerized monitoring system has been developed to assist on-site staff with routine maintenance, repairs, locating problems in the system, as well as regulating the basic functions of the physical plant. The computer scans all of a building's systems twenty-four hours daily, checking for problems, correcting them when possible, and notifying maintenance staff when necessary. Further, the systems can be programmed to perform routine, even complex actions automatically. For example, the building's

The National Center for Afro-American Artists is the principal subject of a federal film, "We Hold These Truths," which shows how an individual (Elma Lewis) with dedication and purpose can improve a community and the nation. The film will be shown on television and in theaters all over the world.

Already under way, is a new Revolutionary era revue by The Proposition, entitled "The Boston Tea Party." The Boston Conservatory of Music is planning a week-end of musical activities, kicking off the bicentennial in Boston, April 18, 1975. The Boston Symphony orchestra plans to commission a new work by a major American composer, as well as extend the Boston Pops and Esplanade concerts.

An "Environment" program is also under way to spruce up the city with historic preservation projects, new street signs, and restoration of green areas and pathways. To handle increased visitors, there will be Gateway Centers for parking on the fringe of the city, and mass transit for travel into and around town.

For the estimated 15,000,000 visitors expected during 1975-1976, Boston 200 is also creating a new and comprehensive information system. Boston City Hall and the new John Hancock tower in the Back Bay will host the two major visitor information centers, supplemented by others at points of entry to the city, at hotels, and stores, and at an expanded Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce Information Center on the Boston Common.

The Boston 200 Official Guidebook, ready in January, 1975, will give visitors a thorough orientation to the city and the Boston 200 program. New facilities and services — child care, check cashing, lost and found, and foreign language programs — will help residents and visitors enjoy the bicentennial in comfort and safety.

"Related to all the other Boston 200 program areas — Heritage, Culture, Environment, and People — will be a program of lasting improvements to the Boston economy," said Mrs. Kane. "The bicentennial is expected to permanently strengthen the local tourist industry, providing 10,000 to 15,000 more jobs than today. We hope visitors will enjoy Boston and make several return visits."

heat and lights go on and off at predetermined times (and at predetermined levels) during the day, saving maintenance staff the task of turning off all lights at the end of the day and arriving early to turn on the heat or air conditioning. This conserves not only manpower, but prevents misuse of valuable fuel and electricity. It is estimated that the capital investment needed to install such a monitoring system in a typical school — $100,000 to $125,000 — is recouped in three years by fuel savings alone. Environmental systems function more efficiently and more comfortably, and maintenance problems are greatly reduced. A central computer and teletype operation in City Hall serve as a backup system when local monitors or their operators fail.

The system is fully in use at the new English High School and plans are under way to install it in seven schools under construction. Maintenance monitoring systems also have been installed at City Hall. Other municipal buildings, including the new facilities under construction at Boston City Hospital, will soon be plugged into this operation.

Vandalism and Security

As the number of new municipal facilities increases, the problems of vandalism and break-ins become more serious. It is estimated that school buildings alone suffer over a million dollars worth of damage yearly. In an attempt to produce some practical answers to vandalism and security problems, two studies have been contracted by the Public Facilities Department.

The first study is being carried out by the Harvard School of Education, funded from a grant to the city by the Educational Facilities Laboratory. Drawing upon interviews with school personnel, students, police, and neighborhood residents, as well as the experience of successful programs in other cities, the study will look into the causes of school vandalism. It will develop preventative approaches, including design changes that encourage more intensive use of school facilities and administrative changes emphasizing community and student involvement in planning programs and schools. The study will include several controlled experiments in conjunction with new school construction.

The second study will focus upon the development of alternative security systems. It will investigate the feasibility of a central alarm system utilizing radio-equipped security patrol cars, review the latest electronic and mechanical equipment used for building security, and look into the desirability of emergency power supply systems for all municipal buildings. Estimates will be made on the cost, manpower, and administrative changes needed to implement a modern security system. Special attention will be given to tying in security proposals to the City Hall central computer system used for monitoring maintenance of municipal buildings. The study is being

It is estimated that the capital investment needed to install such a monitoring system in a typical school — $100,000 to $125,000 — is recouped in three years by fuel savings alone. Environmental systems function more efficiently and more comfortably, and maintenance problems are greatly reduced. A central computer and teletype operation in City Hall serve as a backup system when local monitors or their operators fail.

The system is fully in use at the new English High School and plans are under way to install it in seven schools under construction. Maintenance monitoring systems also have been installed at City Hall. Other municipal buildings, including the new facilities under construction at Boston City Hospital, will soon be plugged into this operation.

Vandalism and Security

As the number of new municipal facilities increases, the problems of vandalism and break-ins become more serious. It is estimated that school buildings alone suffer over a million dollars worth of damage yearly. In an attempt to produce some practical answers to vandalism and security problems, two studies have been contracted by the Public Facilities Department.

The first study is being carried out by the Harvard School of Education, funded from a grant to the city by the Educational Facilities Laboratory. Drawing upon interviews with school personnel, students, police, and neighborhood residents, as well as the experience of successful programs in other cities, the study will look into the causes of school vandalism. It will develop preventative approaches, including design changes that encourage more intensive use of school facilities and administrative changes emphasizing community and student involvement in planning programs and schools. The study will include several controlled experiments in conjunction with new school construction.

The second study will focus upon the development of alternative security systems. It will investigate the feasibility of a central alarm system utilizing radio-equipped security patrol cars, review the latest electronic and mechanical equipment used for building security, and look into the desirability of emergency power supply systems for all municipal buildings. Estimates will be made on the cost, manpower, and administrative changes needed to implement a modern security system. Special attention will be given to tying in security proposals to the City Hall central computer system used for monitoring maintenance of municipal buildings. The study is being conducted for the Public Facilities Department by a local engineering firm, funded by a grant from the Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

Recycling Buildings and Sharing Sites

The greatest obstacle to building a new public facility is not money, but space. Assembling an adequate site within the dense development of an urban environment is difficult in itself. Avoiding relocating residents or taking taxable properties off the rolls complicates the process even more.

Boston is taking a new look at ways to use sites and buildings. One approach that has been successful is recycling old buildings for new uses. For example, Boston has converted a bowling alley and a car dealership into two new elementary schools — the Haley School and the Hernandez School. At the city's urging the state recently approved a bill to extend eligibility for school building reimbursement to cover buildings that were not school buildings prior to renovation.

On the other side, new public facilities often replace old buildings that are obsolete but not structurally unsound. The city has begun to recycle these structures back onto the market by using Public Facilities as a broker, selling the surplus buildings to buyers in the private sector. This recycling technique keeps attractive and historic buildings in continual use, while strengthening the city's tax base.

The Harvard Elementary School in Charlestown and the old Bowdoin School on Beacon Hill will be sold to developers for elderly housing. A former police station on Boylston Street now houses the Institute for Contemporary Art.

Several cities have been experimenting with site sharing by public and private uses and under a new "Condominium Law" Boston will be trying this approach in two projects: the Quincy School in South Cove, where elderly housing and a public health clinic will share an elementary school site, and the Battery Wharf fire station, where harbor and local fire companies will share a recycled coal bin with private commercial space.

One of the lessons learned from the Urban Renewal experience is that a city is far more livable when it preserves and builds up on what it already has. All of Boston's new approaches are guided by the idea of conserving and enriching each neighborhood.

INTEREST RATES INCREASED

The effective interest rate on new commitments to make FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed home loans increased during the first week of April, according to figures released by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development. The effective rate on new FHA-VA commitments averaged 8.70 percent in early April, up from 8.68 percent in early March.

The effective interest rate on FHA-VA new home loans closed also rose in early April to 8.67 percent, compared to 8.62 percent in early March, while the effective rate on existing home loans closed declined 5 basis points to 8.71 percent.

Among the major lender groups, the effective rate on loans closed in early April at mortgage companies was 8.72 percent; at commercial banks the rate was 8.80 percent; at mutual savings banks, 8.45 percent; and at savings and loan associations the rate was 8.71 percent.

The average effective interest rate on newly closed FHA-VA loans in the New York metropolitan area was 8.88 percent; in Philadelphia it was 9.04 percent; in Washington, D. C., 8.74 percent; in San Francisco, 8.66 percent, and in Denver, 8.65 percent.

The data are derived from a nationwide survey conducted by HUD with the assistance of the Veterans Administration covering loans closed and loan commitments made during the first seven business days of the month. The maximum contract interest rate on FHA-VA loans during the period covered in the latest survey was 8.25 percent.

MEMORIAL DAY

Each year every state in the Union sets aside a day to commemorate the services of the soldiers and sailors in the Civil War and, since 1898, of those in the Spanish-American and other wars.

The custom arose from the practice in the south of decorating the graves of the Confederate dead; this is the derivative of the name "Decoration Day."

It is observed in all northern and southern states alike, and in most of the states on the same day, May 30. In many localities, the day has come to be a commemoration for all dead, and graves, even those of nonsoldiers, are decorated with flowers and wreaths.

BCH EDUCATION PROGRAM FUNDED

Boston City Hospital's primary care education program has been awarded a $395,451 grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. Pediatricians and internists will be trained to be primary care physicians. Dr. Joel J. Alpert, director of the Division of Pediatrics at BCH, said the goals include:

The development of a primary care teaching team of physician-nurse working with other health professionals that will change the traditional doctor-nurse relationship;

Creation of a learning environment for both students and faculty which emphasizes interdisciplinary interaction and will eventually be the basis for a primary care pathway in nursing;

Improvement in the delivery of primary care services to the poor and to minority inner city residents.

The program was originally funded for three years by BCH and the Bureau of Manpower Education, National Institutes of Health. BCH was the only municipal institution to receive federal funds for the new concept, and the new Johnson grant supplements the original funds for the period beginning in July to June of 1976.

BASEBALL TAUGHT TO HUB YOUNGSTERS

The familiar call to "play ball" has a special meaning on Boston's playgrounds as youngsters are learning the fine points of the sport from former Red Sox and Oakland Athletics star Mike Andrews.

"This is a tremendous opportunity for Boston young people to learn the fine points of the sport from a professional whose expertise is well known to millions of fans who have seen him at second base," said Parks Commissioner Anthony Forgione.

"The clinics will cover all the fundamentals of baseball, with offensive and defensive techniques illustrated," he said.

"CLEAN-UP" TIME IN SOUTHIE

The City of Boston annual "clean-up" time is currently taking place in South Boston, according to Edward King, manager of South Boston's Little City Hall, West Broadway.

"It's clean-up time again, time to get rid of all those useless items hanging around in your attic or cellar," said Mr. King as he asked for resident participation in the campaign which Little City Hall will conduct in conjunction with the Public Works and other city departments.

Dumpsters will be located at five points in the district, as follows:

Vacant lot at East Second and O Streets; vacant lot at Dorchester Avenue and Woodward Street; vacant lot at West Seventh and E Streets; the site of the former Gaston School at East Fifth and L Streets; and a vacant lot at East Fourth and G Streets.

It was pointed out that there is an opportunity for volunteer groups to make a project of cleaning rubbish and debris from public areas in South Boston. This is particularly applicable to the national shrine at Dorchester Heights, the condition of which has caused South Boston unfavorable publicity in the public press in recent months.

Mr. King indicated that the Little City Hall will continue its campaign with the objective of having every vacant lot in South Boston cleaned.

"It is our hope that all South Boston residents interested in a cleaner community will participate in this effort to make South Boston stand out as the cleanest section of the city," Mr. King added.

REGISTRY ISSUES WARNING

Registrar David J. Lucey has issued a warning to owners and operators of motor vehicles who might be tempted to obtain and use a stolen inspection sticker.

Stickers have been stolen and the thieves will attempt to sell these to operators who know that their vehicle will not pass inspection, but for some reason want to remain on the highway without being properly equipped.

Registrar Lucey reminds the public that a person who steals or assists in the theft, has in his possession, or uses a stolen inspection sticker shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the state prison for not more than five years or in jail or house of correction for not more than two years.

IV. COMMENDATIONS

The following members of Engine Company 12 are hereby commended for responding to and assisting in company operations at Box 2132, on May 1, 1974, while they were off duty:

Fire Fighter Arthur A. LaPorte and Fire Fighter Louis F. Lentini.

V. HIGH COMMENDATION

At 2154 hours, April 12, 1974, the department responded to 645 Summer Street, South Boston. Upon arrival they were informed that a vehicle had plunged into the channel about fifteen feet from the sea wall and in sixteen feet of water.

Members of Ladder Company 19 fully extended and tied a 35-foot extension ladder and placed it in close to the vehicle. Fire Fighter Walter E. O'Hearn of Ladder Company 19 immediately removed his protective clothing and descended the ladder, and with the aid of a wheat light, made repeated dives down to the car in an attempt to determine if it contained occupants. Fire Fighter O'Hearn carried out these activities for approximately twenty minutes in 37' sea water until he determined that it contained no victims.

Fire Fighter O'Hearn carried out this operation in an underwater environment which is strewn with discarded hardware, pilings, junk, and other obstructions. He was treated for immersion and relieved from duty due to his physical condition from the cold sea water.

Because Fire Fighter O'Hearn distinguished himself by this act which involved a degree of great personal risk to his person and health, the Fire Commissioner is pleased to commend him highly, and his case is referred to the Board of Merit for further consideration.

LET'S KEEP AMERICA CLEAN

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS

April 29.

Special Order No. 74-46

To: All Bureaus, Divisions, Districts, Offices, Sections, and Units.

Copies to: All Sworn Personnel.

Mention at Roll calls.

Post until May 30, 1974.

One of the problems most frequently brought to my attention in in-service training and roll calls is the large amount of paper work required of patrol officers. The paper work simplification project has been testing a new field reporting system which soon will be implemented in the department. We have, in addition, been able to eliminate some unnecessary reports.

A number of officers have made suggestions leading to the following modification of procedures for reporting routine, noncriminal incidents the department is called upon to handle. The following incident types are added to the present routine miscellaneous incident reporting table, eliminating the need for written reports in such events. These changes will be effective immediately.

No. 17 — Injured person assisted — no criminality involved (exclude vehicular).

No. 18 — Maternity.

No. 19 — Sick person assisted.

No. 20 — Sick person assisted — heroin ingestion.

No. 21 — Sick person assisted — narcotic drug other than heroin.

No. 22 — Sick person assisted — harmful drug ingestion.

No. 23 — Mental case.

All the above codes will refer to P — Paul — police services rendered.

BOSTON POLICE DEPARTMENT ROUTINE MISCELLANEOUS INCIDENT REPORTING PROCEDURES

Henceforth, the "missile" will be used in cases involving routine police investigations listed in the following table, which can be adequately handled in the manner specified. Upon completion of the investigation of a routine miscellaneous incident, the responding unit will return to service by announcing its car designation and stating to the dispatcher "Missile," and the appropriate incident number and police action letter code from the routine miscellaneous incident reporting table. One incident number and police action letter usually will describe the incident and the service rendered. However, it may be necessary occasionally to use two or more police action letters. Officers will use the phonetic alphabet when reporting letter codes.

EXAMPLE

To report a false fire alarm — state "Missile-Five Ocean."

To report family trouble, peace restored and warrant advised — state "Missile-Six-Frank George."

The number-letter code will be written on the complaint message card, and together with the district control log, they will serve as the official department record of such investigation.

In on-view routine miscellaneous incidents, the observer will radio the dispatcher advising him of the car sector, address, and that an investigation of an on-view incident is being conducted. Upon completion of the investigation, the officers will return to service by giving the dispatcher the motorized beat of occurrence and the complainant's name, followed by the correct number-letter code. If as a result of an investigation a written report must be submitted, a number-letter code will not be given to the dispatcher.

No.	INCIDENT	PHONETIC	POLICE ACTION
1	ADT and/or burglar alarm	A-Adam	Not bona fide incident
2	Citizen alarm	B-Boy	No person can be found
3	Citizen calling for help	C-Charles	No such address
4	Escort duty	D-David	No police service necessary
5	Fire alarm	E-Edward	Perpetrator gone on police arrival
6	Family trouble	F-Frank	Peace restored
7	Gathering causing annoyance, outside	G-George	Advised warrant
8	Investigation, persons routine	H-Henry	Advised to recontact police if repeated or returned
9	Investigation, premises routine	I-Ida	Taken to district station
10	Landlord-tenant disturbance	J-John	Field interrogation, report prepared

22	Sick person assisted, harmful drug ingestion
23	Mental case

Numbers 20, 21, and 22 are included to facilitate the compilation of statistics for the Drug Control Unit.

Should an occasion arise requiring additional information on a miscalled incident, the unit needing the information can obtain it from the Records Division at Police Headquarters.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

COMMERCE AND MANPOWER LEGAL SERVICES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

Your permission is requested to dispense with advertising and to award a contract to Gadsby & Hannah, of 140 Federal Street, Boston, to provide legal services for the Boston Base Reconversion Task Force. This information will be furnished to the chairman of this task force, Gerald W. Bush, Director of the Boston Economic Development and Industrial Commission. The cost to the city for these services will not exceed $15,000, for a time period of one year.

The purpose of this request is to retain legal counsel to represent the Boston Base Reconversion Task Force in connection with the proposed transfer of land in the South Boston Naval Annex and the Charlestown Navy Yard to the City of Boston. The firm of Gadsby & Hannah is a medium-sized law firm, with offices in Boston and Washington, D. C. The areas of practice common to both offices include government contracts, real estate, securities law, tax planning, litigation, legislative representation, international trade, etc.

I have thoroughly investigated law firms within the city and have concluded, on the basis of this investigation and for reasons mentioned above, that Gadsby & Hannah is the only firm which will meet our deadline at a price within the amount specified above.

On the basis of the foregoing, I respectfully submit that no advantage would be gained by publicly advertising this contract. Thus, I ask that you present this award to Gadsby & Hannah.

Your honoring this request will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

GERALD W. BUSH,
Director.

ENGINEERING, RECONNAISSANCE STUDY

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

Your permission is requested to award a contract to Booz, Allen and Hamilton, Inc. of Bethesda, Maryland, to study and update the engineering, structural, and plant components of the Boston Naval Shipyard and South Boston Annex. Since Booz, Allen and Hamilton's proposal is the third lowest in price out of ten proposals, your permission is also requested to award a contract to the third lowest bidder rather than the lowest bidder. The cost for this study will not exceed $83,000, and the time period will be thirteen weeks from the date of approval.

On November 1, 1973, the Mayor's Office of Commerce and Manpower solicited proposals for a physical plant study and comprehensive site evaluation of the recently closed Boston Naval Yard and the South Boston Naval Annex. In order to clarify this request for proposals a "Bidders' Conference" or Prospective Consultants' conference was held on November 15, 1973. This conference was held at the Administration Building (Building 39, second floor), at the Boston Naval Shipyard. In attendance at the conference were the Director of the Mayor's Office of Commerce and Manpower, civilian engineers, and appropriate military personnel from the Boston Navy Yard. Prospective consultants submitted proposals by December 3, 1973.

Ten consultants submitted proposals: Metcalf and Eddy, Tipetts-Abbott-McCarthy-Stratton, Booz-Allen-Hamilton, Joseph P. Mangan, Universal Engineering, Fenton Keyes-B. M. J. M., Stone and Webster, Wilbur Smith, Madigan Praeger, Charles T. Main.

The Mayor's Office of Commerce and Manpower screened these proposals with several important aspects in mind:

(a) Reporting—Did the consultant respond to the R. F. P. properly?

(b) Firm experience—The past experience of the firm concerning the issues at hand and the capability of the firm to carry out such a study.

(c) Personnel—The staff capacity to conduct such a study.

(d) Quality—The contextual quality of the response.

(e) Time frame—Does the consultant meet the city's time frame?

(f) Engineer expertise.

(g) Method—How the consultant plans to document the reconnaissance information—hopefully in an orderly fashion that responds to the city's needs.

(h) Data retrieval—How the consultant responds to the city's need to have a systematized information retrieval program.

(i) Progress reporting.

(j) Boiler plant information—How the consultant responds to the city's cost benefit request concerning the boiler plant.

(k) Transportation and access—How the consultant responds to these important problems.

With these above-aspects in mind, the Mayor's Office of Commerce and Manpower has ranked the consultants in the following fashion.

(1) Booz, Allen and Hamilton (2) Fenton Keyes (3) Wilbur Smith (4) Charles T. Main.

Therefore, the firm of Booz, Allen and Hamilton was selected to conduct the engineering, reconnaissance study for the City of Boston. The firm's proposal was the most complete and best catered to the request of the Mayor's Office of Commerce and Manpower.

On the basis of the foregoing, I respectfully submit that no advantage would be gained by accepting the lowest bid. Thus, I ask that you present this award to Booz, Allen and Hamilton, Inc.

Sincerely,

GERALD W. BUSH,
Director.

Mayor Urges Effective Drug Legislation

Mayor Kevin White has urged the State Legislature to shelve legislation that would make the sale of heroin subject to a mandatory sentence of life in prison.

Similar legislation was recently passed in New York.

"Boston's drug problem is critical and in some respects increasing. But Boston's problem does not require the kind of drastic counteract that New York took," the Mayor said.

"Already the New York law has proved to be overly hard on the desperate street pusher and visibly ineffective against the organized crime elements that really perpetuate the tragedy of drugs in New York.

"Stricter laws against the sale of heroin are probably needed, but we are not yet anywhere near the point where the sentencing of pushers should be taken completely from the discretionary power of the judiciary.

"Boston has worked long and hard to eradicate the pusher of hard drugs, and has supported the drug treatment and rehabilitation programs based in every neighborhood in the city.

"I am not prepared to stand by quietly while hastily considered legislation jeopardizes this immense human investment."

House Bill 6045 would provide for life imprisonment and remove the option of a suspended sentence for persons convicted of possession with intent to sell heroin.

"While I recognize the need for effective drug legislation, I believe that capital punishment, life imprisonment, or sentencing without any rehabilitation or access to parole and probation is at the extreme end of the corrections spectrum and should not be passed at this time," Mayor White said.

Cautioning that such penalties have historically been counterproductive, the Mayor cited the present law, which provides up to twenty-five years imprisonment as currently adequate.

"Under our present law we can continue to rid our streets of the hard-core pusher. My commitment to that remains firm," he said.

"But we must use the judicial system to heal individuals and families whose lives have been disrupted by the misuse of drugs.

"I urge the Legislature to support legislation which is both just and effective."

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS PROGRAM: A REPORT

Funding Sources and the Projected Program

The capital construction program of the City of Boston is financed in three ways: bond issues, state or federal aid, and cash revenue funds.

Bond Issues

The majority of city capital projects are financed through long-term (five- to thirty-year) loans secured through the issuing of bonds.

The debt limit, established by state law, places a ceiling amount of money that a city may borrow for most capital expenditures. The debt limit for Massachusetts cities is from 2.5 percent to 5 percent of equalized valuation. The city can borrow up to the 2.5 percent level without obtaining any approval, but each loan authorization from 2.5 percent up to 5 percent must be approved by the Emergency Finance Board. Boston's current 5 percent debt limit is $105 million.

The city's borrowing "inside" the debt limit has tended in recent years to be confined to public works projects, land acquisitions, major equipment purchases, and extraordinary renovations to public buildings.

Borrowing "outside" the debt limit is regulated both by the general law and by various special statutes. School construction funds, which are a major portion of the capital budget, are borrowed outside the debt limit under a state law dating from 1948. School construction funding authorizations since 1962, representing present and future project commitments, now equal $329 million, of which $300 million was borrowed under the 1948 laws, $24 million under another special statute, and about $5 million was borrowed inside the debt limit.

Urban renewal bonds are issued by the city under a debt limit of 6 percent of equalized valuation, or $126 million. Parking garages are built under a 1946 statute, amended over the years, to allow a total of $40 million for parking projects. This limit represents a total dollar amount and is not regenerated as the parking bonds are retired.

When the Public Facilities Department was created in 1966, it was given special authority to obtain $230 million worth of loans outside the debt limit. The City Council authorized $115 million of this between 1966 and 1973. These funds may be expended for an extremely broad category of public purposes.

Since 1966, construction of public buildings, which was formerly done "inside" the debt limit, has been financed mainly by these Public Facilities loans. The Parks Department Capital Improvements Program is also funded largely by Public Facilities loans. But Public Facilities Department loans are not used for public works projects — such as street and sidewalk reconstruction — unless they are done as part of a Public Facilities Department project.

Federal and State Aid

Federal and state aid to capital improvements projects comes in a number of forms. The majority of federal aid programs for which Boston is a recipient are state administered. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation Grants, which provide park funding, Urban Systems monies, which finance highway construction, and Law Enforcement Assistance Administration funds, which are helping to modernize and update Boston's correctional and court facilities, are examples of state administered grants. However, Urban Renewal and Model Cities program monies come to the city directly from the federal government.

The state provides and regulates a larger proportion of capital construction funding than the federal government. A major portion of the state aid is allocated to school construction reimbursements. In 1948 the state paid 20 percent of school construction costs, paid in annual installments over the life of the bonds. Over the years it has increased and Boston now receives up to 65 percent of project cost, plus the interest on bonds, for schools that help eliminate racial imbalance.

In theory state aid is also available to reimburse the city for half of the city's Urban Renewal project costs, but inadequate appropriations combined with the refusal to reimburse necessary increases in the city's matching expenditures have kept reimbursements low — approximately $2 million a year in recent years.

In another program titled "Chapter 90" the state reimburses the city for work done on state roads within city boundaries. These receipts average about $500,000 a year.

Aid funds are not without their regulatory drawbacks. School aid illustrates this. The School Buildings Assistance Bureau, which administers the aid program, requires four separate approvals for each school project. Then the State Board of Education must approve, also; without the State Board of Education approval, the city cannot finance even its own 35 percent share of the loan. Recently a state environmental impact review was added to the list of necessary approvals. At any point during this process, a project may have to be revised to obtain approval.

Cash Funding

Nearly all departments generate some income from their activities, most of which goes into the general fund. Some departments have revenues that are specifically reserved for debt service payment. Cash surpluses from these revenues can be appropriated by City Council for direct capital expenditures. In addition, cash revenue from most sales of city property are legally reserved for capital items.

Trust funds are also available for some capital purposes. For example, the Parkman Fund may be used only for maintenance and improvement of the Boston Common, the Public Garden, and other parks in existence as of 1877. The George Robert White Fund, reserved for worthy and extraordinary improvements, has been used recently for modernization of health centers originally built by the White Fund, and for the White Schoolboy Stadium.

MAYOR DISAPPROVES PROPOSED PROJECTS AT LOGAN AIRPORT

The City of Boston has moved in United States District Court for a temporary restraining order to halt runway construction projects at Logan Airport that were approved recently by the Massachusetts Port Authority.

In a separate move, a group of East Boston residents and the Massachusetts Air Pollution and Noise Abatement Committee has filed a class action suit in the same court to block the airport projects.

In its suit the city alleges that Massport did not properly comply with either federal or state environmental laws. The city has filed suit to permanently stop the projects.

Mayor Kevin White said the projects threaten the health and safety of Boston residents by exposing residential areas of East Boston and South Boston to aircraft overflight. Further, he said the proposed construction threatens to disrupt more than $30 million of new investment in community-related development.

Massport awarded a contract for lengthening runway 4L, which aims at South Boston and Orient Heights, lengthening runway 9, which aims at Winthrop, and construction of a new STOL (short takeoff and landing) runway, which would be directed at East Boston, the downtown waterfront, and the North End.

FIRE DEPARTMENT HONORS HERALD AMERICAN

The Boston Fire Department awarded a plaque May 21, to Harold G. Kern, publisher of the Boston Herald American and Sunday Herald Advertiser, for "his outstanding contribution to life safety through progressive journalism."

Boston Fire Commissioner James H. Kelly made the presentation at the newspaper office. He was accompanied by Fire Chief George Paul and Capt. John J. Collins.

Captain Collins said the award was in appreciation for the efforts of the Herald American in assisting in the passage of legislation for both a high-rise sprinkler bill and a home fire alarm bill.

The sprinkler bill, which was passed in 1973, made Massachusetts the first state to have sprinklers in new high-rise buildings.

It became mandatory in all new buildings 70 feet or higher, constructed after March 1, of this year.

BOSTON FACES CUT IN FEDERAL MANPOWER FUNDS

Gerald W. Bush, Director of the Mayor's Office of Commerce and Manpower, has announced that the city faces a 17.5 percent cut in federal Manpower funds beginning July 1, raising to 40 percent the amount of funds slashed from Boston's Manpower programs during the past two years.

Mr. Bush said Mayor White will fight to restore the funds to the city's Manpower programs for the unemployed and disadvantaged.

Labor Department officials say the cuts are caused by the implementation of a special revenue-sharing program for Manpower.

"This isn't revenue sharing, it's revenue paring," Mr. Bush said, "and all the city gets is the parings."

The cuts have come, he said, despite a congressional limit of 10 percent on all cuts in Manpower programs.

Last year, during FY 1974, the city received $9,643,000 for Manpower programs. Officials from the Department of Labor notified Mr. Bush that the city would receive only $7,958,000 for Manpower programs during FY 1975 which begins July 1, 1974.

Since FY 1973, which began July 1, 1972, the Department of Labor had cut Boston's Manpower programs by 40 percent, from $12,895,824 to the presently proposed level of $7,958,000. The cuts came as a result of a special revenue-sharing formula devised by DOL for the national distribution of Manpower funds based on the Nixon Administration's concept of the "New Federalism."

According to Labor Department officials, Boston's Manpower programs will continue to be cut each year until the funding level is down to $5.5 million, the amount which administration officials have said is the maximum necessary to provide Boston's 24,000 unemployed with skill training and job placement services. Last year, with close to $10 million, Manpower programs in the city served about 5,000 persons.

Notification of the cuts comes at a time when Mayor White is preparing for the first time to take direct responsibility for funding Manpower programs under a recently passed Manpower special revenue-sharing program authorized by the Concentrated Employment and Training Act of 1973 (CETA).

Under CETA, all Manpower funds are given directly to the city rather than to individual program sponsors such as OIC, ABCD, and other skill training and job placement agencies. The CETA legislation also limits Manpower program cuts to a maximum of 10 percent of the previous year's level.

"Mayor White and his Manpower Advisory Planning Council had planned to continue to fund OIC, ABCD, and the other agencies at their previous year's level of $9.6 million," said Mr. Bush, "because $9.6 million is the absolute minimum necessary for a Manpower program to be effective in Boston.

"The Mayor will now submit two plans for next year's Manpower program, one based on the DOL funding level of $8 million and one based on the city's need to continue funding at last year's $9.6 million level.

"Although DOL claims the cuts are caused by their formula for national distribution," Mr. Bush said, "we honestly believe these are arbitrary cuts and can therefore be changed. We have been meeting daily with DOL officials, and they are aware that we cannot accept this level of funding. What we must do now is turn that awareness into action to increase our funding level back to last year's level of $9.6 million."

The mayor also intends to request special funds from the state to make up for cuts in the city's Manpower programs. "As Boston's Manpower programs have been cut back by millions, other Manpower programs in the state's suburban areas have increased by as much as 900 percent," Mr. Bush added. "The state's Manpower Office must take a stronger role in assuring the continued funding of skill training programs in major cities, where the problems of unemployment and poverty are concentrated."

Boston's Manpower programs include skill training in auto repair, office machinery repair, commercial cooking, diesel repair, office and clerical skills, computer processing, English as a second language, basic education, the New Careers program, special programs for ex-offenders and alcoholics, training in para-medical skills, Neighborhood Youth Corps programs, on-the-job training, Neighborhood Employment Centers, and the NYC Summer Work program.

"SENIOR PROM" FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

On June 5 the Boston Parks and Recreation Department will sponsor the first annual "Senior Prom" for the enjoyment of the city's elderly citizens. Commissioner Anthony Forgione announced on May 24.

The dance, complete with an old-timers dance band, a grand march, and the crowning of a prom king and queen, will be held in the City Hall Mezzanine from 5 P.M. to 8 P.M. There will be flowers for the ladies, boutonnieres for the gentlemen, and refreshments for everyone.

"Proms are not just for teenagers," Mr. Forgione said. "They are for everyone who is young at heart. We hope that this event will bring back the best memories of high school days, and perhaps create some new memories for all those who attend."

Mayor Kevin White, who will be on hand to greet the guests, said, "Our elderly citizens enjoy a zest for living that many people younger in years could do well to emulate. I am looking forward to sharing a lively and enjoyable evening with elderly friends from every part of the city."

Transportation will be provided for those who need it, and the main departure point in each neighborhood will be the local Little City Hall. Groups with special transportation needs or other questions may contact Frank Kennedy at 722-4100, Extension 156.

"We are urging everyone to brush up their fox trot and waltz, put on their best party clothes, and join us for an evening of old-fashioned fun," Commissioner Forgione said.

PARKS DEPARTMENT PRESENTS ANNUAL BICYCLE MARATHON

Parks Commissioner Anthony Forgione has announced that the annual bicycle marathon to benefit the Camp Joy Recreation Fund for special children will be held on June 9. The ride, which follows the famous 26-mile 385-yard B.A.A. marathon route, is sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Department in cooperation with the Prudential Insurance Company of America, St. John's Evangelist Church of Hopkinton, the League of American Wheelmen, and various local cities and towns.

"The Camp Joy Program for special children provides a rich and varied recreational experience for thousands of children with special needs," the Commissioner said.

"By riding in the marathon, or by pledging money to those who are riding, the people of Boston can assure that this important program will continue to offer the quality of services which has gained recognition from all over New England."

The riders will register at the St. John's Evangelist Church Parish Hall in Hopkinton at 11:45 A.M. They will leave Hopkinton at 1 P.M. and will pass through Ashland, Framingham, Natick, Wellesley, Newton, and Brookline, finishing at the Prudential Center in Boston at about 3 P.M.

Before beginning, each rider will secure pledges for mileage. The pledges are recorded on forms available from the Parks and Recreation Department, Room 802, Boston City Hall, or from local Little City Halls. For more information call Lou Antonellis at 722-4100, Extension 154.

MBTA PREPAID PASS PROGRAM

To Department Heads:

The MBTA initiated a voluntary payroll deduction program for the purchase of MBTA passes on March 1 of this year. The John Hancock Insurance Company, the state, and the United States Transportation Systems Center in Kendall Square have all signed on. City employees will be eligible to participate beginning June 1.

The credit-card-like pass will allow its owner unlimited use of the MBTA system, restricted only by the basic fare zone for which the pass is purchased. Payments for the pass will be made automatically through payroll deductions on a weekly basis. A detailed description of the program and a sample questionnaire is attached for your information.

Because of the newness of the program, the number of people working for the city, and the scattered locations of city jobs, we will begin by providing passes at City Hall only, although all employees are eligible to participate.

I am asking your support and cooperation in two ways:

1. Your strong encouragement to employees to take advantage of the pass program, stressing the economies of saving gas, paying reduced fares, and the social good of supporting our transit system.

2. Please designate someone from your department to supervise this program.

Please have your department representative attend a meeting on Wednesday, May 22, at 2 P.M. in Room 606 to discuss the program and to answer any questions, at which time a supply of questionnaires will be given.

EDWARD T. SULLIVAN,
Director.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

COORDINATING COUNCIL ON DRUG ABUSE

TRAINING AND CONSULTANT SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

I hereby request your written permission to dispense with public advertising, and to award to Carl Edwards, P. O. Box 86, Village Station, Medway, Massachusetts, a contract to develop, operate, and evaluate an information system for TASC/A Management and to provide the system's staff with training and on-going consultant services.

The contract will cover the period December 15, 1973, to July 30, 1974, and will not exceed $9,500, which I believe is a fair and reasonable amount.

In view of the fact that Carl Edwards has the expertise and experience to provide this professional service, it is my opinion that there would not be any benefit to the city in advertising for these services.

Respectfully,
PAUL E. ROBINSON,
Executive Secretary.

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

You approved the contract between the City of Boston and Carl Edwards, P. O. Box 86, Village Station, Medway, Massachusetts, in the amount not to exceed $9,500, for the period December 15, 1973, to July 30, 1974.

The purpose of the contract was to allow Carl Edwards to provide consultation and technical assistance services for Boston's Treatment Alternatives to Street Crime — adult program.

The Mayor's Office of the Coordinating Council on Drug Abuse now has the opportunity to increase the amount of the contract by $750. The award of this increase is made pursuant to funds being made available for the City of Boston under the TASC-A grant award.

I respectfully request your Honor's written authorization to dispense with public advertising in the City Record for this increase to Carl Edwards.

In view of the unique services required to perform the functions of this contract, it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful or practical purpose.

Sincerely yours,

When the new Matadors were purchased, those equipped with safety partitions had the rear window cranks removed so persons placed in the back seat, if left unattended, could not crank down the window and escape. One crank was placed in the glove compartment for the convenience of the officers.

It has recently been brought to my attention by a number of officers that the cranks in some of the vehicles have disappeared. These cranks have already been replaced once. They are being replaced once more for your comfort and convenience, but they should be kept in the glove box so that they are not misplaced and lost.

HON. KEVIN H. WHITE, MAYOR OF BOSTON

GERALD F. O'LEARY
PRESIDENT, CITY COUNCIL

VOL. 66

NO. 23

Gerald W. Blakeley Heads "Sister Cities" Program

Mayor Kevin White has named Gerald W. Blakeley, president of Cabot, Cabot & Forbes Co., as chairman of the Boston-Kyoto Sister City Committee.

He succeeds the late Eli Goldston, who served as chairman since inception of the Sister City program more than a decade ago.

"The City of Boston is grateful to Gerry Blakeley for his willingness to serve in the project of international understanding and cultural exchange," Mayor White said. "As head of one of the world's largest development corporations, with business interests in Japan, Mr. Blakeley brings with him not only enthusiasm for his new role, but a great respect for and a keen understanding of the Japanese people."

Attending the appointment ceremony as representatives of Japanese business interests were Mr. and Mrs. Seiichi Shirane. Mr. Shirane is senior partner of Mitsui International Business Consultants.

The Sister City relationship had its origins in the "People-to-People" program in international relations established by President Eisenhower in the mid fifties. In 1957 Mayor Gizo Takayama called on the United States Ambassador, Douglas MacArthur II, to inform him of Kyoto's desire to conclude an affiliation with Boston.

The similarities of the two cities as cultural, historical, and governmental centers made the tie a natural.

Mayor Takayama followed with a visit to Boston in June, 1959, to present his request personally to Mayor John Hynes and the City Council. The affiliation was voted, and in December, 1959, the Town Affiliation Council of Kyoto and the Boston-Kyoto Sister City Committee were formed.

The Boston-Kyoto Committee, made up of local persons interested in Japan, has established a strong and deep relationship between the two cities and plans to continue as an active force for providing further exchange of information and culture to increase international understanding.

Statement of Gerald W. Blakeley

I appreciate and am certainly honored with being asked to serve as chairman of Boston's Sister City Program and to work with our sister city, Kyoto, Japan. As do Mayor White and Mr. and Mrs. Shirane, I also recognize the need and importance of creating and implementing an exchange program such as this one.

"Bostonians wherever they live should get behind Boston."

The words of Malcolm E. Nichols, Boston's last Republican mayor, uttered in his 1929 annual address, sounded the message that still prevails today, and goes out to suburbia.

Nichols, as mayor, as a tax lawyer, and during service in both legislative branches on Beacon Hill, realized that Boston's vitality determined the economic lifeblood for the entire region. He fathered the Greater Boston proposal that would have federal census figures group the forty-one communities in this metropolitan area.

In his four years closing out the roaring twenties at Old City Hall Mayor Nichols concentrated on municipal services, building the physical plant and raising city worker salaries almost $3 million. He saw work start after ten years of discussion on the East Boston vehicular tunnel; built 197 new streets and two dozen new schools; started repair work to the Central Library foundations; and established the Boston Traffic Commission and Boston Port Authority.

Police authorized strength was increased. A seven-year wrangle which prevented the union label going on products of the municipal printing plant was resolved. Expansion got under way at the city's airport in East Boston. Charles ness goods and other commodities is closely linked with the ideal of world unity and peace. The tensions we feel in the world and the problems that confront us are often the result of a lack of this free movement. Consequently, we must come together, understand each other, communicate with each other, and know how others work and think. Through a meaningful exchange of ideas and culture we can learn from one another and, hopefully, find solutions to the ills we see before us and prevent those which otherwise may occur in the future.

A single government agency or business cannot do this alone. Yet a program such as "Sister Cities" is a step in that direction. During the next few weeks a Sister City Committee will be created to work with a similar committee in Kyoto. From that point a number of activities and programs will be developed and implemented. These may include visitor tours, student exchanges, or various other cultural and technological exchanges.

Centuries ago John Donne wrote, "No man is an island, entire of itself." Today, with communication equipment and air travel bringing the world's people so close together, no city or country is an island. We all live here, and we must all work together. I sincerely feel this program can help in achieving that end.

River basin improvements began. Exchange Street (now New Congress) was widened. And in a move to combat downtown traffic congestion the Mayor proposed a $5 to $10 annual parking fee. He said that better than four out of every five cars parking on downtown streets were owned by nonresidents.

Mayor Nichols' administration culminated in a building boom resulting from the 1928 pyramidal building statute. This allowed more flexibility for skyscraper construction and tapering structures such as the United Shoe Machinery Building. Other major projects encouraged by the zoning relaxation were the Sears Roebuck Fenway building, the North Station-Boston Garden-hotel complex, the 75 Federal Street Tower, and the start of Boston University's Commonwealth Avenue campus.

The Nichols administration encouraged plans for the water supply system drawing from Western Massachusetts rivers. Nichols proposed an overpass at Commonwealth Avenue near Charlesgate three decades before it materialized. A supporter of better mass transit, he helped pilot the first car opening the Ashmont-Mattapan Square high-speed trolley line.

One of two Maine natives to occupy the Boston mayor's chair, he was born in Portland on May 3, 1876. While attending Harvard College he worked at odd jobs and sold newspapers to pay expenses, and was graduated in 1899. Turning to elective service, he was in the City Council in 1905 and 1906; served three years as a state representative and six years as a state senator; became chairman of the legislative committee on taxation; and helped direct passage of the state income tax law in 1916.

He served briefly in 1919 on the Boston Schoolhouse Commission; then was named to the Transit Commission. He was named Collector of Internal Revenue by President Harding in 1921, and two years later was chosen president of the Boston Federal Business Association.

After several tries at the mayoralty the GOP member won an upset in the nonpartisan 1925 election over three Democrats. His first year as mayor saw a tax rate increase, followed by three consecutive cuts.

Unable to succeed himself by law, Nichols stood aside during the next four-year term of James Michael Curley. Trying again in 1933, he lost to Democrat Frederick W. Mansfield.

Old timers today recall a personal glimpse of "Mal" Nichols sporting his familiar derby hat, a trademark, and often displayed at Boston parades.

In one little-known aspect he was a forerunner for consumerism. One of his early actions as mayor was the order to carry on the city's fight for telephone rate reductions.

Mr. Nichols died at age seventy-three on February 7, 1951, at his Centre Street home in Jamaica Plain, a little over twenty-one years after leaving Old City Hall.

MBTA BOND OFFERING WON BY NEW YORK BANK

The Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority has raised $750 million through a public sale of bonds ranging in maturity from one to forty years. A syndicate headed by Chase Manhattan Bank was the successful bidder, with a net interest cost to the authority of 6.309 percent.

Two other bids were received from syndicates, headed by Morgan Guaranty Trust Company, with a net interest cost of 6.373 percent, and White Weld & Co., Inc., with a net interest cost of 6.412 percent.

This is the first time the authority has raised money by a public offering of securities, their previous three sales having been handled on a negotiated basis. There has been strong support for the public bidding procedure for some years. The budget committee of the MBTA's Advisory Board had proposed this several years ago when it was chaired by John J. McCarthy, presently a director of the MBTA.

"The results of today's sale are evidence of the fact that the authority, which was created by the Massachusetts Legislature in 1964, has achieved financial maturity and is regarded as a well-respected and seasoned borrower by the financial community," declared John R. Launie, MBTA treasurer-controller.

"The proceeds of the sale will be used for such purposes as the continuation of the Haymarket North Extension, the Green Line improvement program, and the purchase of light rail vehicles and buses."

The bids were opened at the First National Bank of Boston, fiscal agent for the authority.

NEW SCHOOL FOR SOUTH BOSTON

Mayor White broke ground on May 31 for the $8 million James F. Condon Community School, the second elementary school to be built in South Boston in more than thirty years. The Tynan School opened in 1973.

The Condon School is the fifth of eight schools to be started this year in the current $70 million investment in new school construction by the White administration.

"I am pleased to break ground for the Condon School as a concrete sign that we are moving steadily ahead to our goal of providing quality education in South Boston," Mayor White said.

"I am inspired by the determined efforts the people of South Boston have carried out to improve the quality of life in their neighborhood."

Schools already under construction are the Barnes Middle School in East Boston, the Jackson Mann School in Brighton, the Mason-Baker Logue School in Mattapan, and the West Roxbury High School.

Schools scheduled for construction this summer are the $8 million Quincy School in Chinatown, the $55 million Campus High School in Roxbury, and the $8 million Blackstone School in the South End.

Public Facilities Director Robert J. Vey said his department, using streamlined construction methods, can meet the 1976 completion date for the new James F. Condon School.

The replacement for the Norcross and Hoar Schools will be a community school with all its facilities open after hours to South Boston residents.

EMPLOYEES: DISPLAY YOUR ARTWORK

The fifth annual City Art Fest will be held July 30 through August 28 this year in City Hall's Main Gallery. This wonderful event offers city employees a chance to exhibit their artwork. Any employee of the City of Boston who paints, writes poetry, does any craftwork, photography, or any other kind of artwork is welcome to participate. This is an unusual opportunity, unique to Boston and very enjoyable!

Once again, as in last year's City Art Fest, visitors to the show will have a chance to cast their ballots for "best of show." The winner will receive an award from the Mayor.

If you feel you would like to exhibit your artwork, please drop in to the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs, Room 817, City Hall, and get an application by June 15. Later applications will be accepted as long as there is space.

We're hoping that this year's City Art Fest will be the biggest and best yet! Don't be timid about your talent!

All city employees, whether participants or not, will surely enjoy the exhibition. Don't miss it!

GRAPHIC ART DISPLAY

Works of world-famed graphic artist M. Hubert White will be on display at Boston City Hall Gallery from June 15 through June 30.

Mr. White, who attended the Boston Museum School and the Sorbonne, is famed for his pen-and-ink studies of small animals and birds.

Included in the exhibit will be his famous cityscape "24 Rue Melbo," for which he won the Grand Prix de Boulogne in 1969.

The exhibit is free and open to the public.

CARE TO VOLUNTEER?

The Museum of Science is calling for summer volunteers.

Adult volunteers are invited to join the corps of visitor guides. Teenagers are in demand for a variety of assignments, from giving free tours to inner-city children or serving as sales clerks in the gift shop to caring for animals.

As visitor guides men and women with some experience in science or science hobbies and in dealing with the public or possessing a background in education help visitors obtain an understanding of exhibits. First broadening their own knowledge through training sessions, the guides then talk informally with visitors to point out aspects of an exhibit that might otherwise be missed, to suggest related exhibits, and to answer questions.

Frequently the guides take along "pocket props," such as a stethoscope with which visitors may listen to their own hearts, an abacus which visitors may compare to the computer, or a piece of petrified wood or animal bone, perhaps the first that the visitors have examined.

Included in the guides' training are special demonstrations and explanations of exhibits given by museum staff members.

Guides are required to make a commitment of an afternoon a week during July and August and another half-day once a month for training. Prospective guides may also sign up now for work next fall when the same amount of time must be committed.

In becoming junior volunteers young people between fourteen and eighteen have an opportunity to gain useful experience and at the same time assist the museum.

To make an appointment for an interview both adult and teenage volunteers should call the Volunteer Office at 723-2500, Extension 259.

The museum welcomes junior volunteers aged thirteen and older in the Live Animal Room as aides or junior curators. This group feeds and cares for the animals that are used in demonstrations and courses. To discuss requirements those interested should call the Live Animal Center, Extension 310.

SUMMERTHING THANKS B. U.

Boston University has donated to Summerthing, a project of the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs, the proceeds from the use of its parking facility at 700 Commonwealth Avenue for evening and Saturday Red Sox games at Fenway Park. The garage has a capacity of approximately 500 cars and will be used simultaneously by people holding Boston University parking permits. By parking there for $2 per car during the Red Sox home games sports fans will make a substantial contribution to maintain the more than 1,500 free events of Boston's neighborhood festival.

Summerthing each year brings over 1,000 free performances and 500 workshops each week to the streets and parks of Boston. Last year more than 800,000 residents and visitors to the city enjoyed some portion of the ten-week festival of music, dance, theater, workshops, and visual arts projects, from the Boston Ballet to a puppet theater.

Summerthing is funded partially by the city and by contributions from business foundations and individuals. The funds generated for Summerthing by Boston University's donation will be paid to the Boston Foundation, Inc., the non-profit corporation established to receive funds for Summerthing, at the end of the season.

Mrs. Elizabeth G. Cook, director of the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs, explained, "Boston University's generous donation to Summerthing actually depends on the many sports fans who come to watch the Red Sox. By parking at the 700 Commonwealth Avenue garage, they will be making a much-appreciated contribution to the city at the same time they are enjoying an afternoon or evening of Boston's Red Sox."

REGISTRY NOTE TO YOUNG DRIVERS

Each year during the high school "prom" period highway crashes increase in the Commonwealth.

In order to prevent another rash of serious accidents this year, the Registry of Motor Vehicles today issued the following notes for young drivers:

1. The right to purchase alcoholic beverages and to drink does not give you the right to drive under their influence or to buy liquor for use by a minor. Although the law designates .10 blood-level alcohol content as the level at which drivers are presumed to be driving under the influence, any number of drinks may impair physical and mental limits for safe driving. Conviction of "driving under" carries a one-year mandatory revocation of license for the first such offense.

2. Operators with a learner's permit (over the age of sixteen) may not drive at any time unless accompanied by an operator over eighteen who has a valid Massachusetts license which has been in effect for at least one year and who must sit next to the driver. Operators with a learner's permit (under the age of eighteen) may not drive between 1 A.M. and 5 A.M. unless accompanied by a parent or legal guardian who has a valid Massachusetts license which has been in effect for at least one year and who must sit next to the driver.

3. Licensed operators under the age of eighteen must not drive between 1 A.M. and 5 A.M. unless accompanied by a parent or legal guardian.

Young drivers attending "proms" are urged not to treat this matter lightly. A license or learner's permit is a valuable possession, and the holder of one has a responsibility to respect the laws which accompany it.

Bunker Hill Monument, Monument Square, Charlestown, is on Breed's Hill, the center of the Battle of Bunker Hill on June 17, 1775. The granite obelisk is 221 feet high. Open daily, 9 to 4; top of monument closes 30 minutes earlier than lower doors. Admission 10 cents, to top of monument, by 294-step spiral staircase; no elevator.

Our Flag, May It Ever Wave

I swing before your eyes as a bright gleam of color, a symbol of yourself, the pictured suggestion of that which makes this Nation. My stars and my stripes are your dream and your labors. They are bright with cheer, brilliant with courage, firm with faith, because you have made them so out of your hearts. This is the real meaning of old glory, the banner of the United States; for the flag is but a symbol of the Nation. Whatever the flag to which you give allegiance, you are, in a very real sense, one of its makers, as you are of the Nation for which it stands.

General Order No. 24

BOARD OF MERIT

The Board of Merit, consisting of the Chief of Department and the deputy fire chiefs, has considered all meritorious acts referred to it for the year 1973. After careful consideration and study the Board submitted the following recommendations which are hereby approved by the Fire Commissioner:

1. Cases of Fire Fighter Bradley F. Rattigan, Engine Company 17, and Fire Fighter Francis L. Shaughnessey, Engine Company 17.

Engine Company 17 responded to a still alarm for which Box 1892 was sounded for a fire at 353 Bowdoin Street, Dorchester, at 2354 hours, April 2, 1973.

Upon arrival at the scene heavy fire was issuing from all front windows of the third floor. Members of Engine Company 17, the first to arrive, were notified that a man was trapped on the third floor. Fire Fighters Bradley F. Rattigan and Francis L. Shaughnessey of Engine Company 17 ascended the front stairway to the fire floor and after a diligent search located a man who was overcome by smoke and was unconscious behind a sofa. They removed him to the street, where he was given first aid by members of Ladder Company 7 and removed to the Boston City Hospital by A-19 where he was admitted.

Fire Fighters Rattigan and Shaughnessey were subjected to intensive heated gases and heavy smoke conditions while effecting this rescue, and great personal risk was involved as the rescue was made without the use of gas masks and before hose lines were put into operation.

Because this act was performed under such trying conditions and at great personal risk the Fire Commissioner commended them highly in General Order No. 19 of 1973.

The Board recommends that the name of Fire Fighter Bradley E. Rattigan of Engine Company 17 be placed on the Roll of Merit.

The Board recommends that the name of Fire Fighter Francis L. Shaughnessey of Engine Company 17 be placed on the Roll of Merit.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS

2. Cases of Fire Lieutenant Acacio J. Gazo, Ladder Company 29, and Fire Fighter Robert T. Kilduff, Ladder Company 29.

Ladder Company 29 responded to 9 Claridge Terrace, Dorchester, at 2235 hours, April 25, 1973. When they arrived they were informed that children were trapped on the second floor.

Fire Lieutenant Acacio J. Gazo and Fire Fighter Robert T. Kilduff of Ladder Company 29 ascended the aerial to the second floor and tried to enter the building. They were driven back several times by the intense heat, smoke, and gases, but finally forced their way in. Because of the heavy smoke they were forced to crawl on their hands and knees to search for the children.

While they were groping through the rooms, Fire Fighter Kilduff found a child whom he dragged to a safer place where he administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. He carried the child down the stairway to the street, where he was taken to the Carney Hospital by A-19. Fire Fighter Kilduff was revived by oxygen at the scene. Lieutenant Gazo continued the search until he was sure no other children were in the area.

This act was performed at great risk, under extremely hazardous conditions, and before fire-fighting operations were initiated. The Fire Commissioner commended them highly in General Order No. 22 of 1973.

The Board recommends that the name of Fire Lieutenant Acacio J. Gazo of Ladder Company 29 be placed on the Roll of Merit.

The Board recommends that the name of Fire Fighter Robert T. Kilduff of Ladder Company 29 be placed on the Roll of Merit.

3. Case of Fire Fighter Frank E. Williams, Engine Company 55.

At 1748 hours, September 28, 1973, District 10 and Ladder Company 25 responded on orders of the Fire Alarm Office to the West Roxbury quarry off 10 Grove Street, West Roxbury. Upon arrival it was found that two thirteen-year-old boys were trapped on a ledge below the top of the cliff from which they had fallen. The ledge was approximately 40 feet below the top of the cliff and over 100 feet above the level of the ground below. District Fire Chief Charles F. Griffin requested the services of Aerial Tower 2 to assist in the rescue operations.

The members of Ladder Company 25 raised the aerial ladder but were unable to reach the ledge. Fire Lieutenant Adrian J. Henke of Ladder Company 25 ascended the aerial to a point below the ledge, and a line was lowered to him from above the cliff. He then climbed up the side of the cliff using the rope but was unable to reach the boys. Then he descended to the aerial ladder and the rope was relocated.

Fire Fighter Frank E. Williams of Engine Company 55, who was detailed to Car 10, removed his shoes to give himself better footing and descended the line hand over hand from the top of the cliff and reached the trapped boys. While he was making this descent there were large rocks being dislodged and falling all around him. He then carried one of the boys down the side of the cliff, using the lifeline, and passed him to Lieutenant Henke at the top of Ladder 25's aerial. The boy was then assisted down the ladder to the ground by other members of Ladder Company 25.

Fire Fighter Williams then climbed up the rope again to the ledge and carried the second boy down the rope to the top of the aerial ladder, where Lieutenant Henke took the boy and passed him into the bucket of Aerial Tower 2 which was raised beside Ladder 25. The boy and Fire Fighter Williams were then lowered to the ground in the bucket of Aerial Tower 2. Both boys were then removed to the hospital.

Fire Fighter Williams removed each boy individually, which necessitated that he descend and ascend this face of the cliff hand over hand twice, under these perilous conditions while fending off falling rocks with one hand. One slip would have meant falling about 130 feet to a bed of rock below.

Because this act was performed under extremely dangerous conditions and involved extreme personal risk the Fire Commissioner commended him highly in General Order No. 57 of 1973.

The Board recommends that Fire Fighter Frank E. Williams of Engine Company 55 be awarded the John E. Fitzgerald Medal for Most Meritorious Act.

4. Case of Fire Fighter Donald J. LaPorte, Engine Company 12.

On October 20, 1973, the department responded to Box 1731 at 0845 hours, which was sounded for a fire at 12 West Cottage Street, Roxbury. Companies responding were notified by the fire alarm radio that a woman was trapped on the third floor.

The special service chief's was the first unit to arrive at the fire and reported fire showing at the second floor. The third floor occupant had climbed out on the window sill and appeared to be going to jump or fall to the ground. Fire Fighter Donald J. LaPorte of Engine Company 12, detailed as aide to the special service chief, observing the woman's plight, entered the building, made his way to the third floor, passing the fire floor, via the front interior stairway. He grasped the woman and prevented her from falling. He then calmed her down and assisted her into the room, where they were then assisted to the street by members of Engine Company 21.

Fire Fighter LaPorte performed this act without hesitation, with complete disregard for his own personal safety, before any lines were put into operation or any ventilation had been performed. Because this act was performed under such trying conditions and at great personal risk the Fire Commissioner commended him highly in General Order No. 62 of 1973.

The Board recommends that the name of Fire Fighter Donald J. LaPorte of Engine Company 12 be placed on the Roll of Merit.

5. Case of Acting Fire Lieutenant Paul F. O'Brien, Ladder Company 11.

At 1156 hours, October 22, 1973, the department responded to Box 7163 for a fire in a three-family dwelling house, which later spread to a row of three-family dwellings, 264-272 West Third Street, South Boston. Upon arrival members were informed that an elderly woman was trapped in a third-floor apartment and had disappeared from view.

Acting Fire Lieutenant Paul F. O'Brien, Ladder Company 11 (detailed to Engine Company 1), made repeated attempts to climb the front stairs but was forced to retreat because of the heavy fire. He returned to the street and quickly climbed a ladder to the third floor, where he searched the apartment through heavy smoke and heat. He found the woman unconscious on the floor, and with great effort brought her to a window and lifted her to fire fighters on the ladder, who removed her to an ambulance.

This rescue was made without an air mask, before hose lines were positioned and ventilation effected, under extremely dangerous conditions and at great personal risk. He suffered from severe smoke inhalation and burns on his face, neck, and ears.

Acting Fire Lieutenant O'Brien's valiant efforts saved the life of the woman. The Fire Commissioner commended him highly in General Order No. 65 of 1973.

The Board recommends that Fire Fighter Paul F. O'Brien of Ladder Company 11 be awarded the Walter Scott Medal for Valor.

6. Case of Fire Fighter Stephen J. Cloonan, Ladder Company 29.

At 0154 hours, November 20, 1973, the department responded to Box 3654 for a fire at 1405 Blue Hill Avenue, Mattapan. Upon arrival the members of Rescue Company 2 were informed that a baby was trapped in a third-floor rear bedroom. Heavy fire was showing at the rear of the building and had involved the rear porches. It was impossible to gain entrance by the rear interior stairway because the fire had involved this stairway.

The members of Ladder Company 29 raised a 35-foot ladder in a side alley to the third-floor bedroom. Because of the narrowness and congestion in the alley the ladder had to be set at a precarious angle. Fire Fighter Stephen J. Cloonan of Rescue Company 2 ascended the ladder and entered the bedroom, which was heavily charged with heat, smoke, and gases. He was not equipped with a gas mask because of the confined conditions under which he was operating. Fire Fighter Cloonan searched the bedroom and found an eight-month-old baby in a crib. He made his way back to the window and passed the baby to Fire Fighter Frank B. Rattigan of Ladder Company 29, who administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

This rescue was performed under most hazardous conditions, due to the volume of fire and the angle of the ladder, and before hose lines were properly placed and effective ventilation accomplished. Fire Fighter Cloonan by his heroic actions, and without regard for his own safety, undoubtedly saved the life of the child. The Fire Commissioner commended him highly in General Order No. 68 of 1973.

The Board recommends that Fire Fighter Stephen J. Cloonan of Ladder Company 29 be awarded the Patrick J. Kennedy Medal of Honor.

7. Case of Fire Fighter Norman L. Mayer, Ladder Company 20.

On November 28, 1973, while he was off duty, Fire Fighter Norman L. Mayer of Ladder Company 20 risked his life when he participated in the apprehension and capture of a suspect who had just held up a teller at the Wollaston Credit Union.

Fire Fighter Mayer had entered the Credit Union about the time that the teller was able to alert the others in the office that she had been handed a note to pass over her money and had been robbed. Fire Fighter Mayer, along with a customer and an employee of the Credit Union, did chase, apprehend, and hold for the police. All the money was recovered and returned to the Credit Union. He received a slight injury to one hand.

Because Fire Fighter Mayer showed great civic responsibility under risky conditions, which enhanced the image of the Boston Fire Department, the Board recommends that Fire Fighter Mayer be given the Special Service Award.

Hats Off!

*Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums,
A flash of colour beneath the sky;
Hats Off!
The flag is passing by!*

*Blue and crimson and white it shines,
Over the steel-tipped, ordered lines.*

Hats Off!

*The colours before us fly;
But more than the flag is passing by.*

*Sea-fights and land-fights, grim and great,
Fought to make and to save the State;
Weary marches and sinking Ships;
Cheers of victory on dying lips.*

*Days of plenty and years of peace;
March of a strong Land's swift increase;
Equal justice, right and law,
Stately honour and reverent awe.*

*Sign of a nation great and strong
To ward her people from foreign wrong;
Pride and glory and honour, — all
Live in the colours to stand or fall.*

Hats Off!

*Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums;
And loyal hearts are beating high;
Hats Off!
The flag is passing by!*

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES DEPARTMENT

EDIBLE COMMODITIES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

It is the practice of the City of Boston to purchase perishable foods and other edible commodities on the basis of bids submitted weekly or monthly because of the perishable nature of these goods and the fluctuation in their prices and the quantities required.

It is required by law that contracts be executed with various companies covering said purchases for one year beginning July 1, 1974. Because these purchasing procedures, which accrue considerable savings to the city, do not lend themselves to formal public advertising, authority is requested to award contracts, without public advertisement, to the companies listed below for the period from July 1, 1974, to June 30, 1975, inclusive. The prices, however, are based on formal quotations from several suppliers.

Ardmore Farms, Inc., 125 Front Street, Ashland; Armour Food Service, Division of Armour and Company, 775 Columbus Avenue, Roxbury.

Bornstein and Pearl Provision Co., Inc., 196 Quincy Street, Roxbury; Boston Bonnie, Inc., Trilling Way, Boston; Boston Frozen Foods, Inc., 450 E Street, South Boston.

Colonial Provision Company, Inc., 1110 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston; Commonwealth Fruit and Produce Co., Inc., 475 C Street, South Boston; Consolidated Foods Corporation, 201 Beacham Street, Everett; Costa Fruit and Produce Company, 321 Congress Street, Boston.

E. A. Derba, Inc., 65 Damon Road, Medford; James J. Derba, Inc., 1 Griffin Way, Chelsea; Doe, Sullivan and Company, 61-63 Faneuil Hall Market, Boston; John G. Dobbins, d/b/a John G. Dobbins Company, 65 Shurtleff Street, Chelsea.

Saul Margolis and Milton J. Silverman, d/b/a Federal Beef Company, 17 Food Mart Road, Boston; J. Fleishman and Co., Inc., 38 New Heath Street, Boston; Foster Beef Company, Foster Road, Bedford, New Hampshire; Fulton Packing Company, Inc., 240 Southampton Street, Boston.

Genoa Packing Company, 221 Msgr. O'Brien Highway, East Cambridge; The Great Atlantic Fish Corporation, 132-134 Atlantic Avenue, Boston.

T. F. Kinnealey and Company, Inc., 20 Newmarket Square, Boston.

Irving Levitt Company, Inc., 34-36 Newmarket Square, Boston.

John Mantia and Sons, 273-277 North-ern Avenue, Boston; G. D. Mathews & Sons, Inc., 520 Medford Street, Charlestown; Metropolitan Hotel Supply Company, a division of Swift and Company, 1000 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston; Miller Produce Company, 100 Widett Circle, Boston; K. Monkiewicz, Inc., 50 Winnisimmet Street, Chelsea.

Native Poultry Company, Inc., 215 Williams Street, Chelsea; New England Provision Company, Inc., 960 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston; North Coast Sea Foods, Inc., 12-14 Fargo Street, Boston; Northern Fruit Company, Inc., 50 New England Produce Center, Boston.

Radlo Brothers, Inc., 211 Corporation Way, Medford; Red Bird Farm, 521 Taunton Street, Wrentham; Eugene Rothmund, Inc., 21 South Street, Somerville.

Shapiro Beef Co., Inc., 139 Newmarket Square, Boston; Siegel Egg Company, 143 Shirley Street, Roxbury; Standard Brands, Inc., 10 Wildwood Street, Woburn; Stavis Seafood, Inc., 143 Northern Avenue, Boston; Suffolk Grocery Company, Foley Street, Somerville.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

Waters & Litchfield, Inc., 2 Foodmart Road, Boston; Merchants Poultry & Provisions Co., Inc., 11 Foodmart Road, Boston.

Respectfully yours,
KEVIN P. FEELEY,
Purchasing Agent.

PHOTOGRAPHIC FILM, ETC.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Invitation to bid on proposals for furnishing photographic film, etc., Proposal 030, to the various city departments, from February 15, 1974, to June 30, 1974, inclusive, was advertised in the City Record. Subsequently, bids received were publicly opened and read in this office on March 7, 1974.

Unicon, Division of United Camera, Inc., the only bidder on sixteen (16) of the twenty-nine (29) items, and the lower acceptable bidder on an additional six (6) items, failed to sign their copy of the bid submitted to the Auditor's office, thus making the bid irregular.

Since time is of the essence and further delay in ordering these materials would probably result in a price increase, and since many companies are reluctant to enter into any extended period contracts, it is my opinion that no advantage would be gained in readvertising for bids.

It is, therefore, requested that permission be granted me to reject all bids received on Proposal 030, dispense with further advertising, and award a contract, without public advertisement, to Unicon, Division of United Camera, Inc. based on prices submitted on Proposal 030 publicly opened in this office on March 7, 1974. Total amount of contract is not to exceed $13,553.33, net thirty days.

All other items bid will be awarded to Treck Photographics, Inc., the lower bidder. Approximate total amount will be $79.43, less 2 percent discount, time of payment.

Respectfully yours,
KEVIN P. FEELEY,
Purchasing Agent.

DRUG TESTING AND ASSAY SYSTEM

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

This office is in receipt of a requisition from the City of Boston Coordinating Council on Drug Abuse, for one (1) Multiplied Immunoassay Technique Drug Testing and Assay System.

The only distributor of this system is Syva, of Palo Alto, California. An informal written quotation has been received from this company.

Since this company is the only distributor of the system, it is my opinion that no advantage would be gained by publicly advertising for bids.

Authority is therefore requested to dispense with publicly advertising for bids, and award a contract, without public advertisement, to Syva, of Palo Alto, California, for a Multiplied Immunoassay Technique Drug Testing and Assay System, No. 5B009, with accessories Nos. 3B119, 3C119, 3D119, 3E119, 3A109, and 3A039.

Total amount of contract is not to exceed $9,137.80, net, thirty days, plus freight from Palo Alto, California.

Respectfully yours,
KEVIN P. FEELEY,
Purchasing Agent.

GROCERIES AND CANNED GOODS

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Invitation to bid on proposals for furnishing groceries and canned goods, Proposal 034, to the various city departments, from April 1, 1974, to June 30, 1974, inclusive, was advertised in the City Record. Subsequently, bids received were publicly opened and read in this office on March 7, 1974.

Permission is requested to award contracts to the lowest responsible and eligible bidders, by item. The proposed vendors and approximate amounts of contracts will be:

Davey Bros., Inc., $61,920.30, net, thirty days. Thirty five (35) of the items awarded to this company will be subject to increase at the manufacturer's level after thirty days; Gerber Products Company, $5,795.44, net, cash; Kellogg Sales Company, $5,446.95, net, thirty days; The Whipple Company (A Deed of Trust), $4,123.95, net, thirty days; T. A. Faulds Company (A division of Vaka Brothers Corporation), $3,162.42, net.

The signature page of the George D. Emerson Company bid was not included in the copy of the bid filed at the Auditor's office but the preceding page did have the company name and the signature of the treasurer, thus making the bid irregular. Inasmuch as George D. Emerson Company is the only or lowest bidder on the items in the proposed award, and the prices received are a result of publicly advertised and opened bids and time is of the essence in obtaining those food items, permission is requested to award a contract, without further advertising, to this company in an amount not to exceed $14,081, net, thirty days. All prices will be those submitted on publicly advertised bid Proposal 034.

No bids were received on thirty-four (34) items and no acceptable bids were received on forty-three (43) items. These items will be rejected and readvertised.

Respectfully yours,
KEVIN P. FEELEY,
Purchasing Agent.

AUDITING DEPARTMENT

CONSULTING SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Permission is respectfully requested to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract for consulting services to Price Waterhouse & Co., 225 Franklin Street, Boston, Mass. 02210, during the period April 8, 1974, through June 30, 1974, with a total cost not to exceed $7,000.

The consultant will review certain procedures in the Bookkeeping Division of the Auditing Department in an effort to improve and simplify these procedures. The consultant will conduct the study within the Auditing Department as well as departments of the City of Boston which are involved.

Proposals were obtained from three qualified accounting firms. The consultant proposed by the firm selected has had direct experience in designing systems for and working with large clerical groups as well as in the operation of bookkeeping machines. In addition, they quoted the lowest daily rate.

In view of these facts, I believe that no public interest would be served by public advertisement for bids.

Respectfully yours,
W. W. MERRILL,
City Auditor.

BUILDING DEPARTMENT

BUILDING TAKEDOWN

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The following buildings or structures have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. These buildings are a menace to the neighborhood. The locations follow:

6 and 8 Clevefont Avenue, Ward 22. (Contractor ordered in by Deputy Commissioner Leo F. Martin, on March 13, 1974 to take down building and to search for bodies.)

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 479, Acts of 1938 as amended, particularly section 116 (d) thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to raze the buildings or structures.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the entire lot of buildings or structures, but to break down their bids to show the charge against each separate address. This breakdown is necessary for later departmental use in billing demolition costs incurred against the individual property owner of each house.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

Napoli Wrecking Company, $5,004.99. Napoli Wrecking Company, Inc., 105 Norwell Street, Dorchester, Mass., has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance, and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Bids for individual buildings or structures were not requested because it would be a practical, physical impossibility for several different contractors to conduct efficient contracting operations simultaneously in individual buildings or structures. Under such conditions, there would be much mutual interference and each contractor would be exposed to severe hazards not under his control, by the operations of adjacent contractors. I also believe that the aggregate cost of individual bids would be much higher than the cost of one bid for the total buildings or structures to be demolished, and that handling the buildings or structures as one unit results in one administrative cost to the city than what would result from handling the individual buildings or structures as separate bids and contracts. Unit handling results, however, in this case, in a contract price of $2,000 or over the statutory limitations upon awards that can be made without advertising, unless your Honor approves the transaction.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval for the awarding, without advertising, as required in the city charter, of a contract in the sum of $5,004.99, to the Napoli Wrecking Company, Inc., 105 Norwell Street, Dorchester, Mass.

Very truly yours,
 RICHARD L. GRANARA, JR.,
 For RICHARD R. THUMA, JR.,
Building Commissioner.

BOARDING-UP, CLEANING, ETC.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The following building or structure has been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. This building or structure is a menace to the neighborhood. The location follows:

300, 306-308, 316, 322, and 330 Hyde Park Avenue, Ward 19.

(Telephone bid carried out Thursday, April 28, 1974. Attached is a list of bidders and a breakdown by each contractor for each location.)

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 479, Acts of 1938 as amended, particularly section 116 (d) thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to board up and secure buildings; rat extermination; clean-up of lots; removal of leaning tree.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the repairs, etc. of this building or structure.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

J. & J. Contracting Company, $14,495; John Randolph, $17,500; Hub Construction Company, $18,400; Cousins Construction Company, $20,742; J. M. Cashman, Inc., $24,167.89; Napoli Wrecking Company, $26,291; Bunker and Sons, $26,715; A & P Construction Company, $27,500; J. Mahoney Company, $29,199; and P. F. Russo, $33,750.

J. & J. Contracting Company, 174 Pine Street, Holbrook, Mass., has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance, and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval for the awarding, without advertising, as required in the city charter of a contract in the sum of $14,495, to J. & J. Contracting Company, 174 Pine Street, Holbrook, Mass.

Very truly yours,
 RICHARD L. GRANARA, JR.,
 For RICHARD R. THUMA, JR.,
Building Commissioner.

REPAIR OF APPARATUS

DEAR SIR:

Your Honor's permission is requested to award, without public advertising, a contract to the Maxim Motor Division of the Seagrave Corporation, 170 Wareham Street, Middleboro, Mass., to repair and reconstruct a 1971 Maxim 100-foot aerial ladder truck assigned to Ladder Company 15.

Ladder Company 15's aerial truck was severely damaged during the collapse of the Hotel Vendome on June 17, 1972, and due to the court proceedings the Fire Department has been delayed in repairing the vehicle.

This aerial truck is a first-line unit and very important to our fire defense in the Copley Square area.

Maxim Motor Division originally constructed the aerial truck and it is strongly advised that they perform the repair and reconstruction of the damaged truck.

The cost of repair and reconstruction required to place the aerial truck in serviceable condition will not exceed the sum of $22,812.

Respectfully submitted,
 JAMES H. KELLY,
Fire Commissioner.

DEAR SIR:

Your Honor's permission is requested to award, without public advertising, a contract to the Ward LaFrance Corporation, Elmira Heights, New York, to repair and reconstruct the entire cab section and front end on a 1968 Ward LaFrance 1200 G.P.M. pump assigned to Engine Company 30.

Engine Company 30's pump was involved in an accident on January 22, 1974, which resulted in the death of Fire Fighter Bernard Tully.

This 1968 Ward LaFrance pump is a first-line unit and is assigned to the West Roxbury area. It is important to our fire defenses in the area.

The Ward LaFrance Corporation constructed this unit and it is strongly advised that they perform the repair and reconstruction of the unit.

The cost of repair and reconstruction required to place the pump in serviceable condition will not exceed the sum of $18,586.87.

Respectfully submitted,
 JAMES H. KELLY,
Fire Commissioner.

HEALTH AND HOSPITALS DEPARTMENT

FOOD WASTE REMOVAL

DEAR SIR:

At a meeting of the Board of Health and Hospitals held on December 18, 1973, it was voted to extend, according to its terms, the city's contract with M & C Corporation, Division of Browning Ferris Industries, Inc., Boston, for the removal of food waste from Long Island Chronic Disease Hospital, for the period January 1, 1974, through May 31, 1974, at no additional cost to the city.

It was originally contemplated that this contract would have been awarded through the end of the current fiscal year ending June 30, 1974. However, because of budget restrictions imposed on the department this year in the area of contractual services, it was not possible to fund our contracts beyond December 31, 1973. Therefore, this contract was written to terminate on that date but with the following clause:

"Option to Renew: The parties hereto do hereby agree that, at the termination of this contract, the city shall have an option to renew this contract for an additional six-month period, but not beyond June 30, 1974, at terms equivalent to or more favorable to those provided the City of Boston under this contract."

Additionally, it should be noted, this contract originally was publicly advertised in the City Record, and M & C Corporation, Division of Browning Ferris Industries, Inc. was the low bidder.

Because of the above-cited reasons it is the Board's belief that it would be in the best interest of this department and the city to dispense with public advertisement for the extension of this contract. Your permission is, therefore, respectfully requested to approve the extension of this contract under the terms and conditions stated above.

This letter of award rescinds the letter of award dated December 26, 1973, previously submitted to your Honor, in error, in the amount of $1,700.

Very truly yours,
 FRANCIS E. GUINEY,
Executive Director.

BUSINESS EQUIPMENT

DEAR SIR:

At a meeting of the Board of Health and Hospitals held on December 18, 1973, it was voted to extend, according to its terms, the city's contract with International Business Machines Corporation, for the servicing and maintenance of rented IBM typewriters and other business equipment at Boston City Hospital, for the period January 1, 1974, through June 30, 1974, at no additional cost to the city.

It was originally contemplated that this contract would have been awarded through the end of the current fiscal year ending June 30, 1974. However, because of budget restrictions imposed on the department this year in the area of contractual services, it was not possible to fund our contracts beyond December 31, 1973. Therefore, this contract was written to terminate on that date but with the following clause:

"Option to Renew: The parties hereto do hereby agree that, at the termination of this contract, the city shall have an option to renew this contract for an additional six-month period, but not beyond June 30, 1974, at terms equivalent to or more favorable to those provided the City of Boston under this contract."

Additionally, it should be noted, this contract originally was publicly advertised in the City Record, and International Business Machines Corporation was the low bidder.

Because of the above-cited reasons it is the Board's belief that it would be in the best interest of this department and the city to dispense with public advertisement for the extension of this contract. Your permission is, therefore, respectfully requested to approve the extension of this contract under the terms and conditions stated above.

This letter of award rescinds the letter of award dated December 26, 1973, previously submitted to your Honor in error in the amount of $3,007.

Very truly yours,
FRANCIS E. GUINEY,
Executive Director.

BUS SERVICE

DEAR SIR:

At a meeting of the Board of Health and Hospitals held on February 13, 1974, it was voted and approved to renew the city's contract, without advertising, with the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority for providing bus service from Fields Corner, Boston, to Long Island Chronic Disease Hospital, for the period January 1, 1974, through June 30, 1974, at a cost not to exceed $43,870.

Since April 1, 1973, this department has been engaged in a reevaluation of our needs in this area, and on two occasions in 1973 the Board approved amendments of short-term contracts with the MBTA to continue the service uninterrupted while this study has been carried on.

However, at this time with the current restrictions on the availability of fuel to commercial firms, it is our feeling that it would not be in the best interest of the city to consider any change in providers of this service at this time. Of course, under our arrangement with the MBTA, the number of trips may be reduced at any given time at our discretion.

Therefore, because of the above and in view of the cost to the city, which we deem to be reasonable, I hereby respectfully request your permission to renew this contract with the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority under the terms and conditions stated above.

This letter of award rescinds the letter of award dated March 1, 1974, previously submitted to your Honor in error, in the amount of $22,000.

Very truly yours,
FRANCIS E. GUINEY,
Executive Director.

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT

PAPER SUPPLIES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On February 20, 1974 your Honor approved of a request from the Trustees of the Library for the award of a contract to Rourke-Eno Paper Co., Inc. (the lowest bidder in the public bidding) for supplying and delivering miscellaneous offset paper supplies at a total cost not to exceed $19,119.90. That sum was the basic total amount in the bid proposal of the Rourke-Eno firm for specific quantities of items named.

Subsequently, it was discovered that the bid proposal of the Rourke-Eno company, while giving a basic total bid price of $19,119.90, contained a stipulation that this price might be subject to an increase depending upon a corresponding increase from the mill at time of shipment.

In view of the foregoing, and because of difficulties in obtaining deliveries in today's paper market, the Board of Trustees in Charge of the Library Department of the City of Boston, believing it to be in the best interests of the city, have rescinded their previous vote setting an unqualified limit of $19,119.90 for a total sum in the contract with the Rourke-Eno Paper Co., Inc. and have taken the following action instead:

"Voted: that without publicly re-advertising for bids there be entered into with Rourke-Eno Paper Co., Inc., 11 Industrial Way, Wilmington, Massachusetts, a contract for supplying and delivering miscellaneous offset paper supplies, at a total cost not to exceed nineteen thousand one hundred nineteen dollars and ninety cents ($19,119.90), and as specified in the specifications, except that the quantities of any items may be readjusted subject to any Federal Government allowances for price increases that might cause the total price otherwise to exceed nineteen thousand one hundred nineteen dollars and ninety cents ($19,119.90)."

The approval of your Honor is respectfully requested for the award of the above contract to Rourke-Eno Paper Co., Inc., under the terms indicated and without publicly re-advertising for bids.

Respectfully,
THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN CHARGE OF
THE LIBRARY DEPARTMENT OF THE CITY OF BOSTON

By PHILIP J. McNIFF,
Director.

MODEL CITY ADMINISTRATION

LEASING CERTAIN PREMISES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

As the Administrator of the Model City Agency, I hereby request your Honor's written authority to dispense with public advertising in the City Record, in leasing certain premises deemed necessary and convenient, specifically to provide office space for the Model City staff under a grant contract between the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the City of Boston, Model City Administration.

The premises to be included are the first floor right-hand side and the entire second floor of the building known as the Kenmore Building, located at 2414 Washington Street, Boston (Roxbury District), Massachusetts. The term of the lease shall be for seven (7) months commencing December 1, 1973, and ending June 30, 1974, for the premises heretofore described, excepting the first floor, right-hand side, the term for which shall be for a one (1) month period only, commencing December 1, 1973, and ending on December 31, 1973.

A rental payment of two thousand eight hundred sixty-seven dollars ($2,867) for the month of December, 1973, and a monthly rent of one thousand nine hundred and seventy-five dollars ($1,975) for the six months thereafter, during which Model Cities has use of the premises or a maximum rent during the term of the lease of fourteen thousand seven hundred and seventeen dollars ($14,717).

The lessors of the premises are Mr. Saul Weinstein and Mr. Louis Weinstein, Trustees of Mels Realty Trust, 2401 Washington Street, Roxbury, Massachusetts.

This letter supersedes my letter of January 8, 1974, whereby I requested and you approved the award of a lease for these same premises to Mels Realty Trust, in the amount of thirteen thousand seven hundred and sixty-six dollars and sixty-two cents ($13,766.62), the figure has been adjusted to reflect a correction in the total amount to be paid hereunder.

Since these facilities are both adequate and convenient, it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful or practical purpose.

Very truly yours,
PAUL PARKS,
Administrator.

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

As the Administrator of the Model City Agency, I hereby request your Honor's written authority to dispense with advertising in the award of a contract to Mr. Paul J. Gerry, C.P.A., which contract will be in an amount not to exceed $118,000 for the period December 1, 1973, through June 30, 1974.

Under the terms of the contract, Mr. Gerry will complete audits of the third and fourth action year Operating Agency contracts plus the four month carry over contracts. Mr. Gerry will undertake these services on a monthly fixed fee basis with the added condition that no less than 515 hours of his staff be provided in undertaking these audits. Moreover, Mr. Gerry will provide such other consulting services as may be requested by the Administrator.

Mr. Gerry has been awarded two previous contracts by the Model Cities Agency in the amounts of $71,000 and $32,000 for nine and four month periods. Mr. Gerry has performed satisfactorily in carrying out his obligations under these contracts.

For the foregoing reasons, advertising for bids would serve no useful or practical purpose.

Very truly yours,
PAUL PARKS,
Administrator.

RECREATION PROGRAMS

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

As the Administrator of the Model City Agency, I hereby request your approval to award a contract without advertising in an amount not to exceed fifteen thousand five hundred dollars ($15,500) to the Women's Improvement League, Inc., a nonprofit corporation located at 322A Blue Hill Avenue, Roxbury, Mass., for the operation of a comprehensive recreation program for residents of Subarea 5.

The recreation center operated by the Women's Improvement League, Inc., shall be open daily Monday through Friday and shall provide recreational, social, and cultural programs as well as creative skills workshops.

This letter supersedes my letter of January 10, 1974 whereby I requested and you approved on February 25, 1974 the award of a contract in the amount of $15,000 for the same services described in this letter.

The contract period of performance shall be from December 1, 1973, through June 30, 1974.

The Young Women's Improvement League, Inc., has operated three recreational programs awarded the league by the city. The services proposed by this award are the same or similar to the services satisfactorily carried out by the league under prior contracts with the city.

For the foregoing reasons, advertising for bids would serve no useful or practical purpose.

Very truly yours,
PAUL PARKS,
Administrator.

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

As the Administrator of the Model City Agency, I hereby request your Honor's written authority to dispense with advertising in the award of a contract in the amount of $3,144 to the Mt. Pleasant Tot-Lot Administration, an unincorporated association, located at 85 Mt. Pleasant Avenue, Roxbury, Massachusetts.

Under the terms of the contract, the Association will undertake a comprehensive recreation program in a group setting for children from two (2) years to five (5) years of age.

The contract will be effective during the period of December 1, 1973, through June 30, 1974.

The Mt. Pleasant Tot-Lot Association was awarded a contract by the city for the same or similar services proposed by this award. These services were rendered satisfactorily.

For the foregoing reasons, advertising for bids would serve no useful or practical purpose.

Very truly yours,
PAUL PARKS,
Administrator.

BILINGUAL CENTERS

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

On May 17, 1973, you approved a contract between the City of Boston, Model City Agency and Roxbury Alliance of Mothers Associated, a nonprofit trust, situated at 622-624 Dudley Street, Dorchester, Massachusetts, for personnel costs and other expenses of a bilingual day care center for twenty-four (24) children in the amount of seventy-seven thousand eight hundred and eight dollars ($77,808).

I respectfully request your authorization to dispense with public advertising in increasing the maximum amount payable under this contract in an amount not to exceed ninety-seven thousand three hundred twenty-four dollars ($97,324). These additional funds will be provided by the state Department of Public Welfare to enable R.A.M.A. to extend its contract from March 31, 1974, through June 30, 1974.

Because R.A.M.A. has provided a greatly needed bilingual program, and because of the arrangement with the Department of Public Welfare, it would serve no useful or practical purpose to advertise the increase in the amount of this contract.

Very truly yours,
PAUL PARKS,
Administrator.

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

On May 25, 1973, you approved my request to dispense with advertising a contract between the City of Boston, Model City Agency and Neighborhood Involvement for Children's Education, Inc. (NICE), a nonprofit corporation, situated at 40 Elm Street, Jamaica Plain, Massachusetts, for personnel costs and other expenses of a bilingual day care center for fifty (50) children in the amount of one hundred and twenty-eight thousand, two hundred and eighty-three dollars ($128,283).

I respectfully request your authorization to dispense with public advertising in increasing the maximum amount payable under this contract in an amount not to exceed one hundred and forty-four thousand, nine hundred and sixty dollars ($144,960). These additional funds will be provided by the state Department of Public Welfare to enable NICE to extend its contract from May 14, 1973, through June 30, 1974.

Because NICE, Inc. has provided a greatly needed bilingual program, and because of the arrangement with the Department of Public Welfare, it would serve no useful or practical purpose to advertise the increase in the amount of this contract.

Very truly yours,
PAUL PARKS,
Administrator.

HOMEOWNER LOANS

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

As Model City Administrator I hereby request your written authority to dispense with advertising in the award of a contract assigning certain creditors' rights to the Area 6 Community Corporation (the Contractor), a nonprofit corporation with offices located at 618 Blue Hill Avenue, in the Dorchester District of the City of Boston. The assignments shall be made beginning on December 1, 1973, and the period of performance shall commence at the same time and shall continue so long as there is any money available or until such time as any unexpended money is returned to the City of Boston. The total creditors' rights to be assigned will not exceed forty-nine thousand five hundred dollars ($49,500).

Initial homeowner rehabilitation loans of approximately $2,500 (with a maximum limit of $3,000) will be dispersed to residents of Subarea 6 in the Model City area by the Housing Inspection Department in cooperation with the Model City program. This money, up to a total of forty-nine thousand five hundred dollars ($49,500), has already been allocated and approved for expenditure by the Housing Inspection Department.

Under the proposed contract, the right to monthly loan repayments by homeowners who have been given such loans by the Housing Inspection Department will be assigned to the Area 6 Community Corporation. The Area 6 Community Corporation will be responsible for setting up a special loan repayment account and monitoring the repayment of loans. Subsequently, the Area 6 Community Corporation will be responsible for managing the revolving loan and for selecting additional homeowners for loans.

The Contractor is recommended to carry out this program because it was selected by the Subarea 6 Planning Council as the group it wished to manage such account. Also, it was selected because one of the main purposes of the Area 6 Community Corporation is to prevent the physical deterioration of Area 6 and to engage in programs to rehabilitate housing. Additionally, the Area 6 Community Corporation will provide monitoring of such revolving loan fund with deductions only for a bank's billing service charge, but with no deductions from this loan fund for the services of the corporation.

For the aforementioned reasons, it is requested that the notice requirement of advertising in the City Record be waived.

Respectfully,
PAUL PARKS,
Administrator.

Boston Salutes Newest Landmark

The Boston Tea Party Ship and Museum, Boston's newest landmark, officially opened on June 6. It is a permanent historical and educational exhibit developed in conjunction with the two hundredth anniversary of the Boston Tea Party and was the first project to receive formal accreditation from the Office of the Boston Bicentennial (Boston 200). The exhibit has also been officially recognized by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA).

Paul H. Dunn, president of the Boston Tea Party Ship and Museum, commented that the exhibit "re-creates the atmosphere and events of the Boston Tea Party in a way that is both exciting and meaningful. As soon as the visitor steps into the museum complex, he is immersed in the drama of this pivotal event in our nation's history." Mr. Dunn is the founder and director of the Boston Seaport Museum, director of the Historic Ships Trust, and president of Paul H. Dunn Associates, which conducts inspections of marine crafts.

According to Anne Speakman, managing director, the Boston Tea Party is well known not only throughout the nation, but around the world. "We felt it was essential," she said, "that Boston have some form of permanent exhibit to dramatize the city's most famous historical event."

The focus of the exhibit is the brig Beaver II, a full-size working replica of one of the three ships involved in the Boston Tea Party of December 16, 1773. The Beaver II, a 112-foot brigantine, was constructed in Denmark and sailed from England to Boston with a cargo of tea consigned to Salada Foods during the summer of 1973. She is now permanently moored at the official Tea Party site at the Congress Street Bridge in the Fort Point Channel. The brig Beaver II was the scene of the two hundredth anniversary reenactment of the Boston Tea Party on December 16, 1973, the first event of the nation's bicentennial. The ship is currently being restored to show a typical eighteenth-century cookhouse, crew's quarters, and captain's cabin.

The adjacent museum, made possible by a grant from Salada Foods, Inc., complements the Beaver II. It incorporates descriptive materials, historical artifacts, and audiovisual presentations to tell the story of the Boston Tea Party. Among the exhibits is a rare eighteenth-century tea chest reputed to have been among the 340 chests thrown overboard in 1773.

The Boston Tea Party Ship and Museum is open every day from 9 A.M. to 7 P.M. Admission for adults is $1.00; for children 50 cents. Special group rates and tours can be arranged by calling the Boston Tea Party Ship and Museum at 338-1773.

OUR BOSTON

Frederick W. Mansfield
1934-37

Boston was led through the belt-tightening midthirties by a distinguished, outwardly-austere lawyer, Frederick W. Mansfield. The period of strife was punctuated by exchanges in his feud with predecessor mayor James Michael Curley.

Mansfield's administration had to face a mounting city welfare burden and declining real estate tax payments because of unemployment. He was forced to continue the previous mayor's cut in municipal pay scales and for a time instituted voluntary "payless furloughs" for workers making over $950 a year.

Nevertheless the Democratic mayor left significant additions to the municipal plant. Through Works Progress Administration federal aid projects he saw various capital additions, including the Huntington Avenue subway extension; the Huntington Avenue underpass; and parks upgrading.

In addition, the Mansfield term at City Hall saw construction of the nine-story City Hospital surgical building; Faneuil Hall reconstruction; seven new schools; opening of the George Wright public golf course in Franklin Park; reduction of the city's net debt; and modernization of city accounting and auditing systems. Mansfield reorganized and decentralized the Welfare Department but was unsuccessful in seven attempts to consolidate and cut in half the then forty-three separate city departments.

Mayor Mansfield frequently took his appeals for municipal reform and economies to the hard-pressed taxpayers, broadcasting from the radio room in the mayor's office suite at Old City Hall. Some of the broadcasts bitterly criticised Curley and charged a rash of abatements and hurried land damage settlements in the last weeks of the previous administration.

More than two decades later relations healed between the two antagonists. Mansfield sent a warm note acknowledging Curley's sympathy on the loss of his wife. The following year Mansfield died at age eighty-one. His death on November 6, 1958, came just six days before Curley's.

Mayor Mansfield was born March 26, 1877, in East Boston, son of immigrant Irish parents. He worked at a Maverick Square drug store, became a pharmacist, and enlisted in the Spanish American War. On return he took a law degree from Boston University Law School, and later became State AFL labor union counsel, championing labor legislation.

He became the first Democrat elected state treasurer in 1914, but twice was unsuccessful in his quest for the governorship in 1916 and 1917. He served twelve years on the State Judicial Council under five governors. He also served for twenty-nine years as counsel to the Boston Catholic Archdiocese and received various honors from his church.

Demanding high standards for himself and others in public life, Mansfield showed he could be "kindly and considerate," in the words of a later mayor, John B. Hynes.

Mansfield's first try for mayor in 1929 pitted him unsuccessfully as the Good Government Association endorsee against Curley.

In the 1933 election he defeated former Mayor Malcolm Nichols.

Mansfield, a Back Bay resident, proposed some ideas in government before his time. He advocated a sales tax on nonnecessities and called for clearance of substandard residential areas and a housing program to create new low-income units. He urged, in addition, election of nine at-large councillors to serve the whole city instead of only a few of the twenty-two wards.

Mayor Mansfield also was among the first to call for elimination of county government, calling it a "useless encumbrance."

USEFUL P.O. INFORMATION

Postmaster George K. Walker has offered these tips to help vacationers enjoy trouble-free mailing of letters and postcards while on their holidays.

Mail as early as possible in the day, preferably in the morning. Avoid mailing on weekends when many post offices are closed. Try depositing cards in mailboxes located in densely populated areas.

Buy enough stamps before leaving home to prevent running out far away from the nearest post office. Keep in mind that stamps are more expensive when purchased from commercial vending machines.

Always use sufficient postage. For first-class cards use an 8-cent stamp if the postcard is not larger than the standard 4½-by-6-inch size. For "jumbo" cards 10-cent stamps are required. For airmail use an 11-cent stamp on standard postcards and a 13-cent stamp for "jumbo" cards. As a general rule, use airmail stamps only when the mailing distance is 600 miles or more.

Remember to use ZIP codes. Many times cards are addressed hurriedly while riding in cars, trains, or planes. Legible ZIP codes will help speed mail to its proper destination.

Another note — don't forget about your personal mail back home.

Remember to ask a friend or neighbor to empty your mailbox daily and to hold the mail until your return. An overstuffed box in your absence is an open invitation for thieves to enter your temporarily unoccupied home.

However, if you prefer, you can fill out a form available from any post office and request that your mail be held for any period up to thirty days. If you choose this method, be sure to specify when you want your mailman to resume home delivery.

The best way to insure a relaxing vacation comes through taking the necessary steps to make certain that everything — including the mail — is in good order back home.

BATTLE OF BUNKER HILL JUNE 17, 1775

When George Washington was told that there had been a battle at Bunker Hill he asked: "Did the militia fight?" On being told that they fought he remarked: "Then the liberties of the country are safe." By that one sentence Washington showed that he realized the importance of the Battle of Bunker Hill, the first real battle of the American Revolution. This famous battle was fought on June 17, 1775, before Washington took command of the Army.

The colonial forces had been holding the British at bay in Boston, and heard that the enemy was planning to occupy some of the hills about the city. On the night of June 16 Colonel Prescott and his men started out to prevent this by occupying Bunker Hill, but they changed their plans and fortified Breed's Hill instead. On the morning of June 17 the British were amazed to see trenches crowning the hill. The vessels in the harbor immediately began bombarding the fortification, and later in the day the British troops attacked it. Twice they advanced to the attack. All was silent as they marched up the hill, for General Putnam had given the command: "Don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes!" When they were within a few yards of the fortifications a sheet of flame swept down the hill. The men in the front ranks were mowed down, and the others beat a hasty retreat. A third time the British charged. This time nothing happened, for the powder of the colonial forces was exhausted. The patriots fought with clubbed muskets, but were forced to retreat to Bunker Hill, leaving the battlefield in the hands of the British.

It was a victory which was dearly bought, however, for the British had lost 226 men killed and 828 wounded, while the loss of the Americans had been 145 killed and 304 wounded. Nathaniel Greene said, "I wish we could sell them another hill at the same price." Today a granite shaft 221 feet high stands near the spot where the gallant General Warren fell just as the retreat began. The cornerstone of this "Bunker Hill monument" was laid by Lafayette in 1825, the fiftieth anniversary of the battle. The monument was dedicated in 1843, with an oration by Daniel Webster.

HUB SET FOR BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Mayor White and the State Street Bank hosted a luncheon on June 7 in City Hall for members and coaches of the eight teams playing in the world's foremost high school basketball tourney — the Boston Shootout.

The luncheon was the first and probably last noncombatant meeting for the best high school basketball players from Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Washington-Baltimore, New Jersey, New York City, Connecticut, and Georgia.

"Boston welcomes the opportunity to play host to a unique tournament that has grown tremendously as a recreation attraction for thousands of basketball fans in only its third year," the Mayor said.

"Ken Hudson, the promoter, and the State Street Bank, which is providing the all-important financial backing, deserve great praise for their efforts to bring the best kind of excitement to Boston's sports fans, young and old."

Later the teams moved to Roberts Center at Boston College for the beginning of tournament play.

REGISTRY URGES CAUTION

Registrar David J. Lucey said that the closing of schools for the summer season signals the start of added hazards for drivers as children engage in outdoor activities.

The Registrar said that more children are killed and injured in automobile collisions in July and August than in any other month of the year.

Last year twenty-four children were killed and 2,000 injured on our highways in July and August.

Measures suggested to prevent a repetition of needless deaths and injuries to children at a time when highways are congested include:

1. Expect the unexpected wherever children may be at play — near beaches, swimming pools, ball parks, playgrounds, recreational centers, and in residential areas.

2. Be ready to stop when you spot young pedestrians, bike riders, and roller skaters.

3. Don't allow children to stand in moving vehicles or to drape part of their bodies from open windows.

4. Be sure your passengers are safely strapped in place.

5. Don't let children play with power windows or door locks.

6. Keep your view to front and rear unobstructed.

7. Give a wide berth to bicyclists and motorcyclists — they need more room than just the narrow width of their vehicles.

8. Don't let children "hitch" on the rear of your vehicle.

9. Be aware that some reflections picked up by your headlights belong to bicyclists.

10. Supervise your own children when they are near automobile traffic.

DIRECTIVE NO. 9A
MBTA
PREPAID PASS PROGRAM

June 10, 1971.

To All Department Heads:

July 1 is the effective date for city participation in the voluntary payroll deduction program known as the MBTA Prepaid Pass Program.

Briefly, the pass will be initially available to all City Hall employees, as well as to five city departments* in the immediate vicinity of City Hall. This limitation will last a short period while the city learns to manage it smoothly, after which all city employees will be eligible. Deductions will be made the fourth week of each month based on three price categories: twenty-five cents rapid transit ride; forty-five cents rapid transit and feeder bus ride; and fifty cents South Shore rapid transit/Riverside line. Commuter rail, express buses, and suburban buses are excluded. Based on two trips a day, 210 days a year, the monthly costs are $8.75, $15.75, and $17.50, and the bearer is entitled to free access to all parts of the MBTA system at all hours, limited only by the price category. This represents a significant cost savings.

As a permanent program, the MBTA pass plan will require line department supervision.

PROCESS

1. Department supervisors for the MBTA pass program will distribute application cards to payroll clerks by June 12, in time for initial sign-up dates of June 13, 14, and 18.

2. Payroll clerks will fill out two identical cards for each employee joining the program, both of which the employee must sign. The payroll clerks will make the appropriate deduction on their payroll master lists for the fourth week of June. They must hand carry both cards and the master lists to the Payroll Division in Auditing by June 19 so that the program will be effective starting July 1.

The deductions will be made on a monthly basis, every fourth week. Employees may sign up on the fifteenth of each month, in time for payroll clerks to notify Auditing.

3. Auditing — Receives two sets of sign-up cards from payroll clerks (by June 19 for July 1 participation); verifies employees; Payroll Division makes deductions; keeps first copy of card, sends second copy to the City Treasurer; checks computer listing of total deductions made against number of pass authorizations and manually reconciles difference; prepares draft for Treasurer to make payment to MBTA.

4. Treasury — Receives second copy of sign-up cards; keeps passes in safe for security; releases passes to individual participating employees upon positive identification, matching signature of authorization (sign-up) card with employees' personal identifications; maintains total control over passes issued and outstanding; Treasurer makes monthly payment to MBTA based on draft from Auditing.

MBTA PREPAID PASS PROGRAM

DEPARTMENTAL COMMUNICATION

To: City Employees.

From: Kevin H. White, Mayor.

As you have probably heard, the MBTA initiated a voluntary payroll deduction program for the purchase of MBTA passes on March 1 this year. The John Hancock Insurance Company, the state and the United States Transportation Systems Center in Kendall Square have all signed on. City Hall employees will be eligible to participate beginning July 1. All other city employees will have the opportunity to join as soon as the program is running smoothly.

The credit card-like pass will allow its owner unlimited use of the MBTA system, only restricted by the basic fare zone for which the pass is purchased. Payments for the pass will be made automatically through the payroll on a monthly basis. The pass is priced at an amount equal to 210 round trips per annum, which deducts weekends, holidays, a certain number of sick days, and builds in an additional 8 percent discount. This means that in addition to the 8 percent discount, all your off-peak travel is free. There are three fare categories of passes:

(1) The $105 per year pass applies to the 25¢ rapid transit fare, or $8.75 per month.

(2) The $189 per year pass applies to the 45¢ rapid transit, plus feeder bus fare, or $15.75 per month.

(3) The $210 per year pass applies to the 50¢ fares for Quincy and Riverside lines, or $17.50 per month.

Commuter rail, express buses, and suburban buses are not included in the program.

The prepaid pass is a progressive concept devised to make travel for all purposes easier and cheaper than the automobile. Think about what you currently pay to operate and park your car in the city, or what you pay to use the public transit at full fare, and you will discover a significant cost savings with the MBTA pass. You probably will choose to ride the MBTA much more frequently if it means just flashing a pass and not fumbling for exact change.

The federal Clean Air Act of 1970 has compelled Boston and seventeen other United States cities to develop alternative transportation strategies to substantially reduce carbon monoxide and hydrocarbon emissions from transportation sources. The MBTA pass is one such strategy proposed by the City of Boston in its testimony at the federal Environmental Protection Agency hearing last summer.

The city as an employer also must develop a plan to reduce auto-reliance. The percentage of city employees who purchase an MBTA pass will demonstrate to federal officials the seriousness of our effort to preserve the quality of our urban environment, physically, economically, and socially; your support of our public transit system means (a) fewer polluting, congesting cars which poison our air and slow down the movement of goods and services that support our economy; (b) more money for the MBTA to provide better service; and (c) more pressure on the MBTA to improve its service at reasonable cost to riders, especially to those who are not able or cannot afford to own and drive a car.

See the payroll clerk for your department on June 13, 14, and 18 (June 17 is a holiday), if you would like to have a pass effective July 1. Employees may sign on or drop off two weeks before the close of each month. An employee who drops off the program must wait six months before signing on again.

I hope that every City Hall employee will give his or her serious consideration to the advantages of the MBTA Prepaid Pass program.

UPCOMING CELESTIAL EVENTS

Summer skywatchers this year will be treated to the rare sight of an occultation of Venus, as well as annual displays of meteor showers, nebulae, and the Summer Triangle of stars.

At the Charles Hayden Planetarium at Boston's Museum of Science, a one-week-only program, "Stars of Summer," will tell Museum visitors when and where to look to take in these celestial events. The program will be presented June 18 to 24, every day and on Friday evenings. Admission is fifty cents in addition to Museum admission.

Summer begins June 21, when the sun reaches its highest point in the sky. It is during this month that we enjoy the longest days, with about fifteen hours of daylight.

The month of July will feature two impressive celestial events. On the morning of July 17, the moon, the second brightest object in the sky, will pass in front of Venus, the third brightest object, blocking it from view for fifty-one minutes. This rare event will begin twenty-two minutes before sunrise, at 4:57 A.M., and continue until 5:48 A.M., when Venus reappears on the other side of the moon. As the moon crosses Venus, the planet will disappear behind the upper left illuminated edge of the moon and pop out again on the upper right edge of the darkened moon.

Weather permitting, this unusual event will be visible to the naked eye. However, the Hayden Planetarium recommends the use of binoculars or a telescope, and advises that even though sunrise will take place before Venus reappears, the planet is a bright enough object to be discerned in the daylight sky.

May 13.

Commissioner's Memorandum No. 74-33

To: All Sworn Members,

In several orders and memoranda over the past few months I have made reference to a project under way to rewrite the department's rules and regulations. After a number of delays the task force that will recommend rules and rule changes has been agreed upon and is ready to begin.

The following persons have been appointed to serve on the rules task force:

Deputy Supt. Paul Russell, office of the Commissioner (chairman).

Capt. Daniel J. MacDonald, District 11.

Lieut. William P. MacDonald, Tactical Patrol Force.

Sergt. Robert M. Corbett, Tactical Patrol Force.

Sergt. Walter O'Neil, Housing.

Patrolman Timothy Callahan, Planning and Research Division.

Patrolman Kenneth Daley, Planning and Research Division.

Patrolman Edward Doherty, Housing.

Patrolman Richard Orlandi, Tactical Patrol Force.

Patrolman Anthony P. Pezzulo, District 15.

The rule-making process in the Boston Police Department is dependent on the contribution of line police officers before the rules are adopted and made binding. Therefore, before they are written in final form and issued, rule drafts will be distributed and posted on all department bulletin boards. You should give your opinions and feelings about the contents of those drafts to any of the people on the above list. Your comments will be relayed by those persons to the full task force when it meets to review the rule in question.

Task force meetings will take place regularly, about once a week, so please do not delay reading and commenting upon the suggested rules. Each draft distributed will be accompanied by a Commissioner's memorandum setting forth a deadline for the communicating of comments to task force members.

I am sure that obtaining your contribution in this fashion will result in much more useful and realistic rules than would otherwise be possible.

It has come to my attention that on several occasions marked police cruisers have been operated by members of the department other than sworn personnel.

To maintain good relations with the community it is essential that police personnel in marked police cruisers be capable of responding immediately to requests for police service. Nonsworn members cannot do so.

For this reason, effective immediately, only sworn personnel will be allowed to operate marked police cruisers. The only exception to this rule is that the department mechanics will be allowed to drive marked cruisers for road-testing purposes.

May 16.

Personnel Order No. 24-212

The following-named officers have been selected to attend a Spanish Institute at Regis College, Weston, which opens on Sunday, July 7, 1974, at 4 P.M., and closes on Friday, August 2, 1974:

Commissioner's Memorandum No. 74-37

Copies to: All Superintendents, Deputy Superintendents, and Directors.

Officers should be on the lookout for a new weapon called a "gun wallet," which they may encounter on the street. The weapon (see attached drawing) is a high-standard derringer that fires .22-caliber magnums or long rifle slugs. It is concealed inside a wallet and carries two spare rounds.

A finger hole in the wallet allows the person to reach into a pocket or purse purportedly to obtain a driver's license or other identification, place a finger in the hole, and fire the weapon while still in the case. It is made for either the right or left hand and usually comes in black or brown leather.

Officers should exercise extreme caution while searching prisoners, requesting identification, or at any other time a suspect is given an opportunity to reach for a wallet.

CONTRACTS AWARDED
WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

MODEL CITY ADMINISTRATION
DAY CARE SERVICES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

As the Administrator of the Model City Administration, I hereby request authority to dispense with advertising in connection with the award of a contract in an amount not to exceed $58,000, to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Department of Public Welfare. It is provided in 45 Code of Federal Regulations, 5220.64 (b), effective January 28, 1969, that donated private funds may be considered state funds in claiming federal reimbursement for the purchase of day care services by the Department of Public Welfare. Chapter 514 of the Acts of 1972, effective July 1, 1972, authorized the Department of Public Welfare to contract with public agencies to receive donations in an amount equal to 25 percent of such expenditures (which funds shall be matched under Title IVA of the Social Security Act in an amount not less than 75 percent) to purchase day care services authorized by said chapter 514.

The Model City Administration has worked with the Department of Public Welfare for some time in an effort to institute, expand, maintain, and improve day care facilities in the Model Neighborhood area. The proposed contract will enable the Department of Public Welfare to increase fourfold the monies donated hereunder, and permit the purchase of day care services in the Model Neighborhood area.

The Department of Public Welfare upon receipt of the Model City donation will execute purchase of service contracts with Neighborhood Involvement for Children's Education, Inc. (NICE), in the Model Neighborhood Subarea 1, in the amount of $33,212, for one year beginning July 1, 1971, and Roxbury Alliance of Mothers Associated (RAMA), in the Model Neighborhood Subarea 3, in the amount of $19,999, for one year beginning July 1, 1974. RAMA will be able to provide bilingual day care services to twenty-four preschool-age children, and NICE will be able to provide bilingual day care services to fifty preschool children.

The funds for this contract will be Model City funds made available through a special appropriation by the Boston City Council. The contract requires a single payment of $58,000 on June 1, 1974.

If you have any questions or require further information please contact me.

Respectfully,
PAUL PARKS,
Administrator.

PUBLIC FACILITIES DEPARTMENT

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

Under a delegation of its power from the Public Facilities Commission to the Director of Public Facilities, I hereby respectfully request your Honor's written authority to dispense with public advertising in extending the term of a lease of certain premises deemed necessary and convenient by the Director for the use of the Drug Treatment Program of the Department of Health and Hospitals. There is a further delegation of power from the Commission to the Director to execute such lease, or any extension thereof, upon receipt of said written authority from the Mayor of Boston.

The demised premises consist of approximately 10,000 square feet in the building numbered 972 Blue Hill Avenue, Dorchester, Mass.

The lessor will be Alfred A. Slifka, of 22 Sunset Drive, Randolph, Mass., and Richard B. Slifka, of 8 Tippyart Road, Canton, Mass.

Director.

ARCHITECTURAL SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Pursuant to an authorization voted to me by the Public Facilities Commission rather recently, I hereby request of your Honor, for and on behalf of the Commission, formal written permission to award, to Imre and Anthony Halasz, Inc., a Massachusetts corporation, architects, of 233 Dartmouth Street, Boston, Massachusetts, without advertising for bids therefor in the City Record, a contract providing for the preparation of working drawings, detailed specifications, and construction cost estimates for, and to supervise the construction of, the new Carter School to be located in the South End district of the City of Boston, Massachusetts, at a cost for such services of 5.128 (A.I.A. "B" rate) of the presently estimated cost of construction of $11,800,000, less the Phase I design contract basic fee of $172,800, plus (as a credit) the $12,552 mechanical and electrical engineering fee, and plus (as a credit) the $11,360 structural engineering fee, an aggregate deduction of $196,712, the cost for such services not to exceed $620,192 (including $211,800 for supplementary services); and to execute such contract in the name and on behalf of the Commission upon receipt of said written authority from the Mayor.

It may be noted that the mechanical and electrical engineering, as well as the structural engineering, project services are being carried out by others, outside of this architect's Phase I and proposed Phase II design contracts, and thus the taking of the credits therefor.

Since the aforementioned architectural firm has completed its services most satisfactorily under its Phase I design contract for the subject project, it seems fitting that the Phase II design contract be awarded to this same architectural firm, as currently proposed.

In that the services to be rendered here are professional in nature, and further that, since the fee rate to be paid under the projected contract is derived from the A.I.A. recommended schedule of minimum "B" rates, it is felt that public advertising would not be of avail to the City of Boston.

Respectfully,
ROBERT J. VEY,
Director.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Public Facilities Commission has now authorized the undersigned to request of your Honor, as I presently do, for and on behalf of that Board, formal executive authorization in writing, to omit the customary public invitation for proposals in the City Record, and to award to Eco-Tecture International, Inc., architects, a Massachusetts corporation, with offices at 553 Tremont Street, Boston, Massachusetts, a contract to prepare schematic designs, design development drawings, basic outline specifications, and construction cost estimates (the presently estimated project construction cost being $1,000,000), for use in connection with constructing a new Codman Square Library in the Dorchester district of the City of Boston, at a cost for such services not to exceed $46,250 (including the amount of $20,000 for supplementary services); and to execute such contract in the name and on behalf of the Commission, upon receipt of said written authority from the Mayor.

It is the purpose of this awarding authority, subsequent to the acceptance and approval of the performance of above-named architectural firm under the projected Phase I design contract, to award to it the Phase II design contract for the subject project, contingent upon the prior assent of the Commission and the approval of your Honor to do so. As your Honor is aware, the Phase II design contract would involve production of the working drawings, detailed specifications, detailed construction cost estimates, and supervision of the project's construction. At the time of such a second contract award, the basic fee would be predicated on the detailed construction cost and the A.I.A. schedule of "B" rates, less the $26,250 basic fee to be paid under the now projected Phase I design contract for the project.

In view of the circumstance that the services to be provided under the contract herein proposed are in the professional field of endeavor, we are convinced that public advertising for open competitive bids for such services would be inimical to the best interest of this municipality.

Respectfully,
ROBERT J. VEY,
Director.

SCHOOL SPECIFICATION TEXTS

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Public Facilities Commission is cognizant of the fact that the City of Boston may, subject to your Honor's approval, dispense with public advertising for bids in the City Record, and thereafter award a contract for the review, as called upon by the Director, from time to time, during the period July 1, 1974, to June 30, 1975, by Conmatin, Inc., a Massachusetts corporation, specifications specialists, with offices at 150 Tremont Street, Boston, Massachusetts, with the objective of further revising and improving the BOSTCO System School Specifications texts as required to meet changing conditions, new problems which arise, as well as challenging and unique developments, at a cost for such services, payable at the rate of $18 per hour, not to exceed $10,000, and has authorized me to solicit such assent from your Honor, in both its name and on its behalf as I now so do; and to execute such contract in the name and on behalf of the Commission, upon receipt of said written authority from the Mayor.

The president and principal officeholder of the above-named corporation is an active member of the Construction Specifications Institute. Again, his prior and direct involvement in, and considerable experience with, systems techniques related to the city's BOSTCO Systems Program for school construction is tremendously relevant to the services which the consultant is projected to carry out under the terms of the subject new contract.

In the light of the fact that the services which would be provided by Conmatin, Inc., under the terms and conditions of such contract as is envisioned here, are so very technical and by no means "run-of-the-mill," formal public advertising for proposals would not, we believe, be a useful or prudent procedure to pursue in the subject instance.

Respectfully,
ROBERT J. VEY,
Director.

SCHOOL LOCATIONS EVALUATIONS

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

As the Director of Public Facilities, I have been authorized to request, as I presently do, in the name and on behalf of the Public Facilities Commission, from the Mayor, written permission to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, and to award to Herbert Storch, George Kirgis, Paul A. Levy, and Frank G. Rossi, a New Jersey partnership, an engineering and landscape architects firm, d/b/a Storch Associates, with local offices at 824 Boylston Street, Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts, a contract to (I) conduct an on-site investigation and evaluation of each of the herein below-listed nine (9) community school locations to determine their present conditions from an architectural, structural, and mechanical standpoint, and to ascertain the added work required to provide proposed additional spaces and facilities, as well as to prepare and deliver to the Director thereafter, a comprehensive written report thereon employing word description and schematic line diagrams portraying for each site the scope of work involved and estimated construction costs, including recommendations as to the degree of priority, along with a proposed procedure for implementation as regards time, and causing the least effect upon normal occupation and the use of existing and adjacent facilities and (II) prepare schematic designs, design development drawings, basic outline specifications, working drawings, detailed specifications, and construction cost estimates for, and for the supervision of, the construction of certain additional community program function spaces and facilities for the above-mentioned nine (9) Community Schools, being here listed as follows: — the Agassiz School in Jamaica Plain, the Hennigan School in Roxbury, the Kent School in Charlestown, the Tynan School in South Boston, the Ohrenberger School in West Roxbury, and the Lee, Murphy, Holland, and Marshall Schools in Dorchester, Massachusetts, at a cost for such services for part (I) of the contract, payable in accordance with the schedule of hourly rates to be recited in the contract, of $6,000, and at a cost for such services for part (II) of the contract, of 8.5 percent (A.I.A. "B" rate), of the currently estimated cost of construction of $500,000, the cumulative cost of the now-proposed services not to exceed $65,000 (including $16,500 for supplementary services); and to execute such contract, in the name and on behalf of the Commission, upon receipt of said written authority from the Mayor.

Since the services to be called for and provided under the terms and conditions of the projected contract entail the performance of strictly professional services, we feel that public advertising is inappropriate and that employing such a method in these circumstances would not be in the best interests of the City of Boston.

Respectfully,
ROBERT J. VEY,
Director.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT

TEMPORARY SUPPORT FOR WALL

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

A large building on Summer Street, in South Boston, was destroyed by fire on January 11, 1973. At this location Summer Street is approximately twenty-five feet higher than the adjacent land, and the front wall of the building provided support for the sidewalk and roadway. This support was adequate when the building was intact and the wall was braced laterally by the floors, but as the result of the gutting by the fire, the wall is now in serious danger of collapse.

If this wall does fail, it could cause the water main, not too far from the wall, to break, and if this happens, the street could be washed out.

To prevent the serious disruption in traffic that this would cause, I have engaged the services of Spencer, White and Prentiss, who are experts in this type of work, to provide temporary support for the wall.

Accordingly your permission is requested to dispense with public advertising and award a contract to Spencer, White and Prentiss, of 21 Franklin Street, Quincy, to perform this work at specified hourly rates for labor and equipment and actual costs of material, insurance, and incidental expenses, plus 15 percent for overhead and 10 percent for profit, in an amount not to exceed $25,000.

Very truly yours,
JOSEPH F. CASAZZA,
Commissioner.

REAL PROPERTY DEPARTMENT

ARCHITECTS SERVICES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

On July 2, 1973, the Public Facilities Commission delegated to the Real Property Board of the City of Boston the power of the Commission to request from the Mayor written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, and to award to Samuel Glaser, Antonio P. deCastro, and V. Victor Vitols, Partners, d/b/a Samuel Glaser and Partners, a Massachusetts partnership, architects, of 585 Boylston Street, Boston, Massachusetts, a contract to prepare preliminary studies, design development drawings, working drawings, detailed specifications, and construction cost estimates for, and for supervision of, construction of certain alterations, repairs, and additions, consisting of corrective and modification work at the Government Center parking garage, 50 New Sudbury Street, Boston, Massachusetts, at a cost for such services of a negotiated rate of 8.47 percent of the cost of construction of $456,000, the cost of the now-proposed services not to exceed $47,223 (including $8,600 for supplementary services), subject to the express provision that all plans and specifications shall, in addition to all other approvals, be subject to review by the Director of Public Facilities and revised until satisfactory to him as evidenced by his approval endorsed thereon in writing.

The written authority of your Honor, therefore, is hereby respectfully requested, for and on behalf of the Real Property Board, to dispense with public advertising in the City Record, inviting bids for the subject services and to enter into the proposed contract for the same with the aforementioned persons, d/b/a Samuel Glaser and Partners.

The authority herein requested supercedes the authorization granted as per letters dated October 18, 1973, and February 15, 1974, which were predicated upon estimated construction costs only, and upon which no award was subsequently made by the Real Property Board.

In view of the foregoing, and since the proposed contract is to be one for the performance of professional services, a public solicitation for bids for the same, would, in the opinion of the Real Property Board, serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN F. MULHERN,
Commissioner of Real Property,
Chairman Real Property Board.

REGISTRY DIVISION

COPYING MACHINES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

I respectfully request your written authority to dispense with written proposals of advertisement in the Boston City Record, and to award to the Xerox Corporation, a contract for the supply and maintenance of Xerox copying machines, during the period of July 1, 1974, through June 30, 1975, at a cost not to exceed $4,000, which I believe is fair and reasonable.

In view of the quality of the machine and service to be provided, it is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully yours,

HELEN M. BOWEN,
Acting City Registrar.

New Program Aids Confined Elderly

Mayor Kevin White has announced the receipt of a $218,429 federal grant for a new "Visiting Aides Program" through which fifty older people will serve as companions to an estimated 900 elderly shut-ins throughout the city.

The project is funded by ACTION, the federal coordinating agency for volunteer programs, and will be administered by the Commission on the Affairs of the Elderly in cooperation with established social service agencies in each neighborhood. The funding proposal was prepared with the assistance of the Economic Development and Industrial Commission under Gerald Bush, Director of Commerce and Manpower.

"Boston is fortunate to be among only a handful of cities in the country to have received a grant under the new ACTION Programs for Local Services," Mayor White said.

"The Visiting Aides Program is unique because it is designed to benefit both the volunteer who will receive a stipend for his work, and the elderly shut-in who will gain an important link with the larger community," he said.

"Although the elderly shut-in is in the greatest need of support and assistance, he is too often forgotten by the rest of the community," he said. "This program will be the first step in addressing the needs of this segment of our older population."

The aides will provide the kind of personal, informal services which often are beyond the means of professional social service agencies, according to Taylor Wagenseil, Commissioner of Elderly Affairs.

"Just having someone come on a regular basis to chat, write letters, and inquire about health problems can give an important boost to the morale of the housebound elderly," Mr. Wagenseil said. "The volunteers will not only provide professional services, but they will be able to monitor a client's progress and recognize when these services are required," he said.

The volunteers will be recruited through a variety of channels including Little City Halls, Senior Citizen Clubs, Area Action Planning Councils and existing city volunteer programs such as RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program). Clients will be selected by the individual social service agencies on the basis of greatest need for the type of service to be offered.

"I envision the Visiting Aides Program becoming an important component of a comprehensive system of services to the homebound elderly that will range from hospital or institutional care through home care, day care, and nutrition, to the kind of companionship program which we are introducing today," Mr. Wagenseil said. "The Commission has been active recently in the development of programs in several of these areas."

OUR BOSTON

MAURICE J. TOBIN

(Forty-Second Mayor — 1938-44)

Only one mayor of Boston has served in top-level posts in the executive branches of city, state, and national government.

Maurice J. Tobin, mayor and governor during World War II, nurtured a flare for administration in private employ as a telephone company executive and in public service from days as a legislator and School Committee chairman.

His seven years as mayor spanned from the depression era with welfare problems and joblessness, into a wartime boom with controls, fuel shortages, and other handicaps which confronted the city of over 800,000 persons.

A Democrat to the core, and a liberal, Tobin nevertheless followed a conservative fiscal policy at Old City Hall. He aimed at restoring business and citizen confidence in city government. He cut expenditures — even cutting department heads' salaries, but later endorsing wartime cost-of-living hikes.

Mayor Tobin's administration saw Boston's debt drop by $5 million.

While he helped improve relations between the Legislature and Boston, he was unsuccessful as mayor in getting state relief for Boston's overburdened taxpayers. He was Formal requirements for volunteers will be minimal, but each must be aged fifty-five or older and must exhibit a positive attitude toward life which they can share with the housebound elderly.

The selection process will involve extensive orientation for potential volunteers and sponsor agencies. An important component of the process will be a Senior Companions Day to be held at City Hall when volunteers and representatives of the various agencies will meet to get acquainted and compare needs and skills.

"We see Visiting Aides Day as an important tool for developing a strong program," Mr. Wagenseil said. "By taking an active approach to applicant selection we hope to attract highly motivated people, and through the process of give and take we expect that volunteers and sponsor agencies will mutually select another to the benefit of each."

Recruitment will begin immediately and the program is expected to be fully operational by mid-August.

Our Boston . . .

among the first of prestigious public officials to endorse the sales tax principle a quarter of a century before its time had come.

In the earlier years at City Hall, the mayor's tasks were focused on the economic hard times besetting Boston's struggling families. The administration even maintained a municipal employment bureau which made pleas to private industry for jobs for family breadwinners.

In nonfiscal issues, the attention focused on a projected postwar traffic problem and wartime stringencies, including fuel oil shortages. In capital additions, there was new housing in South Boston, the Buddies' Club on Boston Common for servicemen, and dedication of MacArthur Mall along Charles Street.

The Tobin mayoral years also encompassed two events. One was the disastrous hurricane of 1938 occurring in his first year as mayor while Mayor Tobin was on a speaking trip on the west coast.

The other was Boston's worst holocaust in history, the Coconut Grove nightclub fire of November 28, 1942. The tragedy, which claimed almost 500 lives, led to tightening of inspection procedures. It did not, however, bring establishment of a single public safety department combining police, fire inspection, building inspection, and kindred activities as suggested for long-range reorganization.

Roxbury-born Maurice Tobin seemed destined for political stardom. As a boy he learned success requires effort. Up at 4 A.M., he trod the streets of Mission Hill as a newsboy. He attended Mission High School and the High School of Commerce, continuing evening classes after graduation. He won election in 1926 as the youngest member of the House of Representatives. There his proposals for abolition of capital punishment, for workmen's compensation, for investigation of the telephone company were liberal proposals markedly in contrast with the conservative tenor of the House.

Mayor Tobin backed Alfred E. Smith for president and then became a supporter of Franklin D.

Roosevelt, serving as a School Committee member in the early Roosevelt years. He resigned his telephone company job, confident of victory when he defeated James M. Curley and several others in the bitter 1937 mayoral campaign. Four years later he again prevailed over the former mayor-governor. In the third year of his second term he went on the statewide trail to win election as governor.

He served one term on Beacon Hill, but lost the bid for reelection. A staunch and loyal Democrat, he was back in the campaign wars in the 1948 presidential battle speaking for President Harry S. Truman even when the polls had counted Truman as almost a sure loser.

Maurice Tobin served as Truman's Secretary of Labor and the poor boy from Roxbury's streets became a national figure.

Death claimed Maurice Tobin at age fifty-two on July 19, 1953, on a Scituate golf course. It was only six months after the Truman administration had completed its turn in office.

At funeral rites in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross and Holyhood Cemetery, former President Truman led mourners for the Boston Democrat, former labor secretary, governor, and mayor.

BRA PLANS: UPGRADE ENTERTAINMENT DISTRICT

BRA Director Robert T. Kenney has announced a ten-point program of physical improvements designed to upgrade and preserve downtown Boston's entertainment district.

Mr. Kenney said the first project to be undertaken would be construction, this summer, of the Liberty Tree Park, on the corner of Boylston and Essex Streets, where the Liberty Tree once stood.

He suggested that construction of the park would provide an opportunity to change the image of the entertainment area and proposed that the name of the park might be a more appropriate term to identify the adult entertainment district than the commonly used "Combat Zone."

A rate of $4 per inch of 12 lines (set solid) has been established for such advertisements as under the law must be printed in the City Record. Advertising and other copy must, except in emergencies, be in hand at the City Record office by noon, Tuesday of each week to insure its publication in the Monday issue.

"Combat Zone is a misnomer," he said. "That term is a disservice to the many fine restaurants, legitimate theatres, and first-run movie houses in that area."

Mr. Kenney said, "We think Liberty Tree has the potential to be a lively and vital part of Boston's downtown. Our program of improvements will help it become an area similar to Piccadilly Circus and Soho in London, Tivoli in Copenhagen, and North Beach in San Francisco, all of which are areas where people can find the kind of entertainment they want.

"As the city's planning agency," he said, "we do not want to make moral judgments on the type of entertainment people prefer. However, we do think there is a need for us to take public actions which will help make the area more attractive for residents of the city and visitors."

He said he would recommend that the BRA Board send on to the Zoning Commission an amendment to the Zoning Code that would create an adult entertainment zone in downtown Boston.

Containing a majority of the adult entertainment facilities for the city in this compact area would prevent their spread to other parts of the city, he added.

At the same time, he continued, the zone could be avoided by persons who do not care to be subjected to entertainment of this kind.

The action program contained the following steps:

Creation of an adult entertainment zone within the Boston Zoning Code.

Liberty Tree Park — To be constructed as part of the Boylston-Essex Urban Renewal Project; completion set for November, 1974.

Theatre Square Park — This space to be created by the demolition of the existing buildings on Tremont and Stuart Streets, will be designed as a special "theme" park for the theatre district.

Sign control — As a supplement to this report there is a building-by-building description of the specific changes in the existing signs and minor modifications of facades to be negotiated with each building owner within the sign control zones.

Rehabilitation of the existing buildings — Rehabilitation standards and reuse objectives for the three areas along Washington Street to be undertaken through private enterprise.

Maintained cleanliness of the private alleys within the study area.

A pedestrian link between Tremont and Warrenton Streets connecting the Charles Playhouse with the Tufts parking garage.

New street lighting — First priority will be given to Tremont Street, between the Boylston MBTA kiosks and the legitimate theatres south of Stuart Street. The area within the South Cove Project along Tremont Street is scheduled for fall, 1974.

Sidewalk and street repaving and repairs — First priority for sidewalk repairs will be given to Tremont and Washington Streets — the areas most heavily used by pedestrians walking to the entertainment district.

Shuttle bus to tie together the parking facilities, entertainment enterprises, MBTA stops, and Boston Center for the Arts; scheduled for 1975.

DIRECTIVE NO. 11

FRIDAY, JULY 5, 1974 SUMMER WORKING HOURS

June 10, 1974.

To All Department Heads and County Officials:

Friday, July 5, 1974, will be a regular working day.

Employees who wish to take that day as a vacation day and who can be spared should be allowed to do so.

There are two major reasons why we are getting away from "skeleton days" before and after holidays:

1. Many city operations must go on as usual — police, fire, hospital, penal institutions, public works maintenance and sanitary, traffic and parking, etc., skeleton days create a basic inequity.

2. Vacation allowances have been increased and some of the available days should be used for this purpose.

This year during July and August, the regular working day from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M., will be in force.

With every department being asked to operate with fewer people, we must have the full-time service of all employees.

Please review at this time your procedures for checking people in and out.

EDWARD T. SULLIVAN,
Director.

BRA DIRECTOR ADDRESSES HOUSE SUBCOMMITTEE

BRA Director Robert T. Kenney spoke in Washington, D.C., recently, before the House Subcommittee on National Parks and Recreation in support of House Bill 7486 that would create a Boston National Historic Park.

The historic park sites included in similar legislation that has already passed the Senate are Faneuil Hall, the Old State House, Old South Meeting House, Bunker Hill, Old North Church and the Paul Revere House. The park would be administered by the National Park Service, a branch of the United States Department of the Interior.

In his testimony before the subcommittee, Mr. Kenney particularly stressed the importance of including the historic section of the Charlestown Navy Yard in the historic park. He said that once the navy yard closes down on July 1, its deterioration will be rapid and the opportunities it offers will be lost if action is not taken quickly.

The Charlestown Navy Yard historic site would be separate and distinct from the development of shipbuilding facilities in the northern section of the yard that was announced by Mayor White recently.

MANAGEMENT DEVELOPMENT COUNCIL ELECTION RESULTS

At an election held on June 12, 1974, four members were elected for terms of three years to the City of Boston Management Development Council. Those elected to fill the four positions were:

*James Hyde, Treasury Department; *George Farrah, Traffic and Parking Department; *Francis Kelley, Building Department; and Dorothy Curran, Parks and Recreation Department.

Howard Buckley of the Health and Hospitals Department finished fourth in the balloting but was ruled temporarily ineligible for membership on the Council because of a policy restricting the number of representatives from each department.

Following closely behind the winners in the balloting, were:

Suzanne DelVecchio, Law Department; James O'Rourke, Public Works Department; Rosemary Griffin, Fire Department; Leo Martin, Building Department; and Henry Previte, Youth Activities Commission.

Those elected will join the existing Council composed of:

Robert Cunningham, Administrative Services Department, Chairman; Leo McNiff, Law Department, Vice-Chairman; Karol Kostka, Election Department, Secretary; Helen Gaffey, Health and Hospitals Department; Henry Smith, Health and Hospitals Department; Francis Sullivan, Health and Hospitals Department; Helen Sullivan, Assessing Department; Joseph Paul Sullivan, Administrative Services Department (Personnel); and Francis Tracey, Real Property Department.

The Management Development Council was created by Mayor

Kevin H. White to more fully utilize the experience of the many top-level career employees. The Council serves in an advisory capacity to the Director of Administrative Services, Edward T. Sullivan. It is expected that the continuing exchange of information between the Council and the Director will provide communication to assist the administration in making decisions.

Mr. Sullivan stressed this point at a general meeting of the managers, held recently, when he asked for suggestions which might bring more effective services to the city at a saving to the taxpayer.

The Council urges all managers to send their suggestions and recommendations to the chairman so that they may be discussed at the regular meetings.

* Reelected.

CITY-WIDE CLEANUP CAMPAIGN NOW GOING ON!

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES DEPARTMENT

DIESEL FUEL

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On April 23, 1973, your Honor approved a contract with Union Petroleum Corporation, for furnishing diesel fuel No. 2 to various city departments, from April 1, 1973, to June 30, 1974. This contract, No. 01-43-118, was in the amount of $46,700, with provisions for an additional 25 percent for a total of $57,375. The basis for computing the amount was the posted price day of contract ($.1345 per gallon), plus a differential of $.024 per gallon, plus state tax of $.075 per gallon. The price was subject to increase or decrease in accordance with Union Petroleum Corporation's posted price for diesel fuel for Boston, and/or the trucking tariff as posted in the N. E. Motor Rate Bureau at time of delivery.

Due to the unexpected increases in diesel fuel prices, the total amount of money provided for in the contract has been exhausted although the contract period has not expired.

It is therefore requested that permission be granted me to amend Contract No. 01-43-118, by and between the City of Boston and Union Petroleum Corporation, to provide for the increase in expenditures by amending the total amount of the contract to read $181,395. State tax of approximately $22,000 is included in this amount.

Respectfully yours,
KEVIN P. FEELEY,
Purchasing Agent.

FIRE DEPARTMENT EMERGENCY REPAIRS

DEAR SIR:

I respectfully request your written permission to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, in amending the contract with Bay State Auto Spring Manufacturing Company, Inc., 83 Hampden Street, Roxbury, for the emergency repairs of fire equipment and vehicles which require specialized skills, by amending the original contract price of $8,000 to $10,000.

This increase of $2,000 in the original contract price is necessary due to the amount of emergency repairs required during the life of this contract which ends June 30, 1974.

It is my opinion that public advertising is not appropriate under the circumstances and the contract, No. 1904, with Bay State Auto Spring Manufacturing Company, Inc., should be amended.

Respectfully submitted,
JAMES H. KELLY,
Fire Commissioner.

DEAR SIR:

I respectfully request your written permission to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, in amending the contract with Hubbs Engine Company, Inc., 295 Mishawum Road, Woburn, for the emergency repairs of fire equipment and vehicles which require specialized skills, by amending the original contract price of $17,000 to $29,000.

This increase of $12,000 in the original contract price is necessary due to the amount of emergency repairs required during the life of this contract which ends June 30, 1974.

It is my opinion that public advertising is not appropriate under the circumstances and the contract, No. 1776, with Hubbs Engine Company, Inc., should be amended.

Respectfully submitted,
JAMES H. KELLY,
Fire Commissioner.

HEALTH AND HOSPITALS DEPARTMENT SHUTTLE BUS

DEAR SIR:

At a meeting of the Board of Health and Hospitals held on February 27, 1974, it was voted to amend, without advertising, the City's contract with Hospital Transportation Service, Inc., of Watertown, Mass., for furnishing a shuttle bus service to and from Boston City Hospital, its various parking facilities and the Northampton MBTA station during the period June 1, 1973, through December 31, 1973 by advancing the beginning date of the contract to April 16, 1973 and by increasing the total amount of the contract from $23,052, to an amount not to exceed $28,002.

This amendment is required to reimburse Hospital Transportation Service, Inc., for services provided the Boston City Hospital in April and May of 1973 on an emergency basis without benefit of a formal contract. Because of the failure of the City Council to approve an appropriation for Health and Hospitals until May, 1973, it was not possible to publicly advertise for bids and award this contract until after that time. It should be noted that the existing contract was publicly advertised for the period commencing June 1, 1973 and Hospital Transportation Service, Inc. was awarded the contract as sole bidder.

Therefore, because of these facts and because in our judgment the cost to the city is reasonable, I respectfully request your Honor's approval to award this contract without advertising to Hospital Transportation Service under the terms and conditions stated above.

Very truly yours,
FRANCIS E. GUINEY,
Executive Director.

REFUSE DISPOSAL SERVICES

DEAR SIR:

At a meeting of the Board of Health and Hospitals held on February 27, 1974, it was voted to amend, without advertising, the City's existing contract with Sanitas

Waste Disposal of Massachusetts, Inc. of Boston, Mass., for refuse disposal services at Boston City Hospital for the period June 1, 1973, through June 30, 1974, by advancing the beginning date of the contract to April 1, 1973 and by increasing the total amount of the contract from $25,818 to an amount not to exceed $29,790.

This amendment is required to reimburse Sanitas Waste Disposal of Massachusetts, Inc. for services provided the Boston City Hospital in April and May of 1973 on an emergency basis without benefit of a formal contract. Because of the failure of the City Council to approve an appropriation for Health and Hospitals until May, 1973, it was not possible to publicly advertise for bids and award this contract until after that time. It should be noted that the existing contract was publicly advertised for the period commencing June 1, 1973 and Sanitas Waste Disposal of Massachusetts, Inc. was awarded the contract as sole bidder.

Therefore, because of these facts and because in our judgment the cost to the City is reasonable, I respectfully request your Honor's approval to award this contract without advertising to Sanitas Waste Disposal of Massachusetts, Inc. under the terms and conditions stated above.

Very truly yours,
FRANCIS E. GUINEY,
Executive Director.

PUBLIC FACILITIES DEPARTMENT ARCHITECTS SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On March 15, 1974, we submitted to your Honor a letter requesting authorization to award, without public advertising, the Phase II design contract for the proposed new Carter School in the South End district of the City of Boston, to Imre and Anthony Halasz, Inc., a Massachusetts corporation, architects, of 283 Dartmouth Street, Boston, Mass.

In the aforementioned letter dated March 15, 1974, it was indicated that a portion of the overall dollar credits taken in arriving at the contracts' proposed basic fee were attributable to mechanical, electrical, and structural engineering services not being performed by Imre and Halasz, Inc., but by others. However, it has come to attention that a more precise explanation of this aspect of the project is desirable.

Therefore, we now offer for your Honor's attention the following additional background: This department has, during the past two years, developed a system of standard components to be utilized in the design and construction of Boston schools, known as the BOSTCO System; these components are basic structural, mechanical, and electrical elements, the combined assembly of which constitutes a highly efficient use of equipment fashioned specifically to this department's requirements for Boston schools; the details of these components are incorporated in a manual given to our project architects and engineers; as a result, these professionals are able to proceed directly into the preliminary design of a facility, without the time-consuming work required in determining the feasibility of different combinations of materials and equipment; thus, the city obtains a credit, from what would otherwise be the design fee, commensurate with the estimated value of that work, which, under the existing conditions, an awardee is not required to perform; and I hereby respectfully request that my aforesaid letter dated March 15, 1974, may be henceforth considered as amended accordingly.

Respectfully,
ROBERT J. VEY,
Director.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The maximum contract sum under the Phase I design contract for the subject project was $35,562, consisting of a basic fee of $27,562 and $8,000, for supplementary services. The project Phase I design contract, between the City of Boston, acting by its Model Cities Agency, through its Administrator, and Stull Associates Inc., architects, of 430 Parker Street, Roxbury, Massachusetts, was dated May 30, 1972, and approved by the Mayor on May 30, 1972.

Subsequently, and following the completion of all services under the project Phase I design contract by the aforementioned architectural firm, your Honor on January 31, 1974 approved my letter dated November 16, 1973, requesting authorization to award the project Phase II design contract to the Stull Associates, Inc. architectural firm. To refresh, your Honor's recollection, that November 16, 1973 letter recites the fee paid under the project Phase I design contract to Stull Associates, Inc. as $35,562 whereas in fact, that latter figure included not only the $27,562 basic fee but also the $8,000 expended for supplementary services as well. In short, $8,000 more than was appropriate was deducted by the city from what would otherwise now be the proposed basic fee for the projected project Phase II design contract.

As a result of the foregoing, I now request that my said November 16, 1973, letter as approved on January 31, 1974, may be hereby considered as amended to reflect $27,562 ($35,562 minus $8,000) as the proper deduct figure therein, and to show $77,657.60 ($69,657.60 plus $8,000) as the true cost of the contract services.

Respectfully,
ROBERT J. VEY,
Director.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

As empowered under its enabling act, chapter 642 of the Acts and Resolves of 1966, the Public Facilities Commission has by vote granted me authority to request of your Honor, as I now do, both in the name and on behalf of that Commission, formal written authorization to dispense with a public invitation for proposals through the medium of the City Record, in entering into an agreement with Masiello & Associates, Architects, Inc., a Massachusetts corporation, with offices at Mechanics National Tower, Worcester, Massachusetts, amending a contract between the City of Boston and Masiello & Associates, Architects, Inc., dated December 26, 1972, and approved by the Mayor on February 6, 1973 providing for the preparation of working drawings, detailed specifications and construction cost estimates for and for the supervision of construction of the Dudley-Harrison fire station, in the Roxbury district of the City of Boston, so as to raise the amount authorized to be expended under the contract for supplementary services from its present $7,500 figure to $10,000, an increase of $2,500.

The additional funding for supplementary services is required for currently needed site soils investigation; concrete testing; and testing of structural steel, all of which unfortunately, was not hitherto provided for under the terms and conditions of the subject contract.

Due to the provision of the law to the effect that executed and existing city contracts, as is the situation here, may only be altered by a writing signed by all the parties thereto, including the Mayor and contract surety on the performance bond; it would appear that public advertising in this case could not best serve the public interest.

Respectfully,
ROBERT J. VEY,
Director.

SAFE STREETS ADVISORY COMMITTEE

PRETRIAL DIVERSION

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

As Director of the Mayor's Safe Streets Act Advisory Committee, I respectfully request your Honor's written permission to dispense with public advertising in the award of a contract to Justice Resource Institute, 14 Somerset Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02108, in an amount not to exceed fifty thousand dollars ($50,000), for the period March 1, 1974, through June 30, 1974.

Award of the contract is made pursuant to a grant received by the City of Boston from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration through the Governor's Public Safety Committee under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 (P. L. 90-351), as amended by the Omnibus Crime Control Act of 1970 (P. L. 91-644).

The purpose of the grant is to allow Justice Resource Institute to provide pretrial diversion for potential offenders, so that there is a break in a beginning pattern of crime.

Justice Resource Institute is a non-profit corporation specializing in correctional program planning, development, and operation on behalf of state and local correction authorities.

Because of the unique services required to perform the function of this contract, it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful or practical purpose.

Respectfully,
DONALD B. MANSON,
Executive Director.

COMPREHENSIVE SCHOOL PROGRAM

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

As Director of the Mayor's Safe Streets Act Advisory Committee, I respectfully request your Honor's written permission to dispense with public advertising in the award of a contract to the University of Massachusetts at Boston, in an amount not to exceed one hundred and thirty-seven thousand dollars ($137,000), for the period March 3, 1974, through December 31, 1974.

Award of the contract is made pursuant to a grant received by the City of Boston from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration through the Governor's Public Safety Committee under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 (P. L. 90-351), as amended by the Omnibus Crime Control Act of 1970 (P. L. 91-644).

Under the terms of the contract the University of Massachusetts at Boston will continue to administer a comprehensive school program. The goal of the program is to strengthen the juvenile delinquency prevention role of the schools (1) by attention to the individual needs of predelinquent pupils; and (2) by organization of broadly representative school councils to respond to collective school needs and opportunities.

Two components of the program focus on individual needs. The Boston State Hospital School program and the Roxbury Y.W.C.A. Tracking II program will work intensively with children identified as predelinquent at the Lee and Lewenberg Schools, respectively. Two components emphasize collective school and community needs. A Community School Council Development program to expand after-hours use of school buildings for delinquency prevention programming will be conducted in cooperation with the Community Schools Office of the Public Facilities Department. A School Crisis Prevention program will organize and assist school councils at crisis-prone secondary schools in cooperation with the Alliance for Coordinated Services.

Three of these component programs are continuations of projects previously funded separately by LEAA. (The Roxbury Y.M.C.A. project is the exception.) Consolidation under the leadership of the University of Massachusetts at Boston, and particularly its Institute for Learning and Teaching, should strengthen them by establishing centralized grant administration, programmatic coordination, technical assistance, and evaluation. For instance, under the grant the University's Urban Observatory will initiate an evaluation of the juvenile delinquency prevention potential of the city's Community School program.

The University of Massachusetts at Boston has fiscal and professional resources, working relationships with the School Department and the City of Boston, and a commitment to community service essential to the success of the project. Because of the unique services required to perform the function of this contract, it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully,
DONALD B. MANSON,
Executive Director.

DETOXIFICATION PROJECT

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

As Director of your Safe Streets Act Advisory Committee, I respectfully request your written authority to dispense with advertising in a contract award to the Boston Alcohol Detoxification Project, Inc. in an amount not to exceed two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000) for the period February 1, 1974, to June 30, 1974.

The contract is made pursuant to grants received by the City of Boston from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration through the Governor's Committee on Criminal Justice under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 (P.L. 90-351), as amended by the Omnibus Crime Control Act of 1970 (P.L. 91-644).

Under the terms of the contract, The Boston Alcohol Detoxification Project, Inc. will continue to relieve the police, the courts, and the correctional institutions in Boston of the burden of processing public drunkenness offenders through the provision of pick-up, intake medical screening, detoxification, clinical evaluation, referral, and follow-up to willing intoxicated persons found drunk in public view.

The project has conducted a program in the South End of Boston since September, 1971. Since that time, the program has provided services to nearly 7,500 public inebriates and has contributed to a significant reduction in the number of persons taken into protective custody in Boston Police District Four.

This research and demonstration project has been planned, developed, and implemented by members of the planning staff of your Safe Streets Act Advisory Committee. The Boston Alcohol Detoxification Project became a private, non-profit corporation under Massachusetts General Laws on January 19, 1972, effective October 26, 1971.

The Board of Directors of the Boston Alcohol Detoxification Project, Inc. is composed of individuals with experience in the field of alcohol abuse and alcoholism. Of special significance, all members are familiar with the institutions of criminal justice and the agencies of health service which respond to the problem drinker. In addition, several members are either recovered alcoholics or residents of the South End of Boston. Board members include William J. Taylor, Superintendent-in-Chief, Boston Police Department; Mr.

John J. Donahue, Executive Director, Hope House; and Mr. Donald F. Taylor, Associate Area Director of the Boston University Mental Health Center.

In view of the professional services required to perform the terms of this contract, it is believed that public advertising is not advisable.

Respectfully,
DONALD MANSON,
Executive Director.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

HEALTH TEAM SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston and upon the recommendation of its Board of Superintendents, I request your authorization for the award of a contract, without public advertising, to Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Hanlon, R.N., of 233 Vermont Street, West Roxbury, Mass. 02132, for the Title I, E.S.E.A. Health Team funded by H.E.W., Title I, E.S.E.A.

TESTING SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston and upon the recommendation of its Board of Superintendents, I request your authorization for the award of a contract without public advertising to Educational Testing Service, acting for and on behalf of the Secondary School Admissions Test Board, to administer the Secondary School Admissions Test for entrance to Boston Latin School, Girls' Latin School, grades 7 or 9, Boston Technical High School, grades 9 or 10. This test will be given in at least ten test centers (Boston Public School buildings) on Saturday, January 18, 1975. The cost is not to exceed $80,000. The term of this contract extends from April 1, 1974, through March 31, 1975.

The contractor shall provide SSAT booklets and related materials and will conduct registration, administration and scoring services to assist the Committee with student admission. The specific services of ETS under this agreement will be to prepare and distribute as requested by the Committee, a special Bulletin of Information, to conduct a routine administration of the SSAT and a makeup administration at one center two weeks later, and to process answer sheets and submit scores to the Committee (format on tape).

On May 9, 1972 the School Committee of the City of Boston and the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination entered into an Agreement entitled "Proposed Selection Process For Students For The Boston Latin School, The Girls' Latin School and Technical High School." The School Committee, on this date, ordered

That beginning with the next entrance examinations for admission to Boston Latin School, Girls' Latin School and Boston Technical High School a requirement for entrance will be the taking of the SSAT examination.

That the School Department bear the cost of the examination for admission to Boston Latin School, Girls' Latin School or Boston Technical High School taken by any candidate other than those who failed in three or more subjects.

Because of this agreement and because Educational Testing Service is nationally recognized as the testing service best able to produce secure, valid, reliable tests for admissions to grades 7 through 12, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

Very truly yours,
EDWARD J. WINTER,
Secretary to the School Committee.

DIESEL MECHANICS COUNSELOR

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston, I request your written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, and to award a contract to Oscar W. Beverly, 66 West Rutland Square, Boston, Mass. 02118, for services as support counselor for the diesel mechanics program for the instruction of certain inmates of the Deer Island House of Correction, for the period October 22, 1973, through October 18, 1974, at a cost not to exceed two thousand twenty-five dollars ($2,025).

The selection of Mr. Beverly as support counselor is based on the recommendation of the Penal Institutions Department in accordance with a Memorandum of Understanding between the School Committee and the Penal Institutions Department. The Penal Institutions Department has certified that it publicly advertised the services in the Boston Globe and the Bay State Banner, and contacted the Department of Employment Security and a variety of community programs including CAPIC (Chelsea), MHHL, CAC, CAN EBDAC, and the Roxbury Multi-Service Center. Mr. Beverly was selected as a result of such advertising and solicitation because of his unique combination of background in vocationally oriented programs as well as graduate degree and credits.

It is the view of the School Committee that any further public advertisement of proposals in the City Record would serve no useful purpose.

This agreement is to be executed without an appropriation under the provisions of G. L., c. 44, s. 53A, and is to be made subject to the receipt of funds under grant from the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Very truly yours,
EDWARD J. WINTER,
Secretary to School Committee.

LEGAL REPRESENTATION

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston, I request your written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement, and to award to Carl H. Amon, Jr., attorney-at-law, 28 State Street, Boston, Massachusetts, a contract for legal representation in matters relating to civil proceedings involving racial imbalance, at a cost not to exceed fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000).

Since the services to be provided under the proposed contract are to be both professional and confidential in nature, and due to the experience and past performance of Mr. Amon and his associates in matters relating to civil proceedings involving racial imbalance, it is the view of the Boston School Committee that publicly inviting proposals would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,
JOHN J. KERRIGAN,
Chairman of the School Committee.

SUFFOLK COUNTY

Municipal Court, Roxbury District RENTAL OF COPIER

YOUR HONOR:

I wish to request permission to amend a contract approved by you, on July 19, 1973, between Xerox Corporation, of 100 Charles River Plaza, Boston, Mass., and this court.

This contract concerns the rental of Xerox Model 4000 copier, for the period from April 1, 1973, to June 30, 1974, at a sum not to exceed five thousand dollars ($5,000).

We believed that amount was a reasonable projection of expenses to be incurred in the use of the copier. However, through the month of November, 1973, forty-one hundred dollars ($4,100), had been expended. Therefore, we feel that the contract gross amount should be increased from five thousand dollars ($5,000) to eight thousand dollars ($8,000).

Our duties require the copying of considerable numbers of documents for use in this court and other courts, so we trust that you will approve this amendment.

Sincerely yours,
KEESLER H. MONTGOMERY,
Clerk of Court.

Ethnic Groups Honored at BPL

Ethnic interests are being served by the programming and exhibits already held and planned for future months at the Boston Public Library. If you have been attending the lectures or film showings or the various exhibits, you may have discovered one common thread evident in each month's offerings. The triweekly lunch hour film showings have usually been about the nation being honored during a given month. Special Saturday or Sunday afternoon programs have centered around a cultural asset of the nation. For example, the Library designated February as Black History Month, during which the high point of the observance was a lecture by a most charming poet and respected teacher, Professor Sterling Brown. Professor Brown came to Boston from Howard University in Washington, D. C. at the invitation of the Library and some twenty organizations who cooperated in the city-wide celebration. The exhibit for the month featured Black literary figures of note.

Appropriately, on St. Patrick's Day, the speaker for the Celtic Month observance, in March, was Book Editor Herbert Kenny, Boston Globe, who based his talk on his recently published book entitled "Literary Dublin." Mr. Kenny's talk was presented by the Library in cooperation with the Eire Society, Boston. The major exhibit was built around the prize-winning book Thirteen Irish Writers published by David R. Godine.

In April, two countries were featured at the Central Library — Canada and Germany. Working closely with the Canadian Vice-Consul General of Boston, M. Gilles LeMaire, the Library sponsored a lecture on "Canadian Education Today" given by Dr. David Munroe, Special Advisor on Education to the Department of the Secretary of State of Canada. The month's observance brought together the Library's vast reference and research materials about Canada in one major display, as well as a gathering of publications from Canada which were brought to Boston for a second extensive display.

From Germany came a weekly showing of films made on the spot at the Hamburg Staatsoper. These opera films were shown in April. In May, the public had the opportunity to see two more excellent opera films, Die Hochzeit des Figaro and Wozzek. Die Zauberflöte was shown in June. The showings at the Library were made possible through the cooperation of the Goethe Institute, Boston, the German cultural center for New England. The film drew capacity audiences and we are planning to cosponsor more cultural programs with the Institute in the future.

Continuing in May, and again in cooperation with the Goethe Institute, the Library's patrons were especially fortunate to be able to

OUR BOSTON

John E. Kerrigan

(Forty-second Mayor — 1945)

John E. Kerrigan first had some of the awesome responsibilities of mayor thrust upon him seven years before he was to assume the office in his own right.

The big hurricane of September, 1938, struck Boston when he was acting mayor during his first year as City Council president. To Kerrigan fell the task of mobilizing emergency forces to cope with the sudden rampage of nature. The storm hit when the mayor, Maurice J. Tobin, was on the West Coast on a speaking tour.

Again in 1945 the mayoral powers passed from Tobin to Kerrigan when the former left City Hall to become governor.

Kerrigan, who had gone from City Council to the state Senate, to military service, and then back to city elective government, had the confidence of the Legislature and was accorded a rare vote of confidence. The General Court endowed the acting mayor with full powers of office for the entire year.

Although the end of World War II dominated all developments, it was a period of shortages of food and meat, fuels, and many commodities. Problems were similar to those to be faced three decades later by successors — greater al-hear in person one who has become a legend in the field of animated films, Lotte Reiniger, German cinematographer who produced the first full-length animated film in 1923. Miss Reiniger came from Germany to appear in four cities of North America — Toronto, Montreal, San Francisco, and Boston. Her only Boston appearance was at the Library.

The month of May was devoted largely to Italy. The exuberance of Italian life and culture was shown in a major display entitled "Viva L'Italia." A special concert of Italian music was heard on May 26. The concert, provided through the cooperation of the Musicians' Union, AFL-CIO, presented the New England Chamber Orchestra, under the direction of Professor Endel Kalam, of Boston University.

lotments of fuel and heating supplies and an appeal for conservation by the public of electric power.

John Kerrigan also had to pilot Boston through the transition to postwar resettlement and its economic impact.

Mayor Kerrigan advocated a $20-million program to catch up on deferred construction programs as one way to spur the job market.

He was keenly aware of the backlogged need for more decent housing quarters for the citizens of Boston. He called for a massive ten-year program that would replace some 42,000 substandard living units in the city, at a whopping $114-million price tag.

One of Mayor Kerrigan's major accomplishments was his legislation, approved on Beacon Hill, to re-finance the Sumner Tunnel bonded debt. By this measure, he was able to save Boston taxpayers about $12 million over twenty years by the device of retiring earlier obligations bearing higher interest rates.

During his period as mayor, he leased the entire Houghton Dutton Building at Tremont and Beacon streets to the federal government, bringing to the city landlord revenue.

He also supported antirace bias bills in the years long before the civil rights push nationally. He presided at the reopening of the East Boston Relief Station which had been closed for seven years.

Kerrigan lost his bid that fall for a full term as mayor. The race saw several aspirants in the contest and a fragmentation of votes, with former Mayor James M. Curley winning the election.

Six years later, John Kerrigan won election to the first Plan A nine-member at-large City Council elections. As had happened in the case of some other senior statesmen in public service, the newest career was to prove even more outstanding.

He was to serve eleven terms or twenty-two continuous years in the at-large Council, and his name became a household word to most voters in the city. Although tagged the "silent man" in the Council, rarely speaking in debate, his voice was heard on the many major urban renewal votes that faced the Council in the 1960s.

The honored and respected John Kerrigan retired at the end of 1973 at age sixty-seven, ending a long public career. He lives in a modest three-decker at 213 West Eighth Street, South Boston, the same address he maintained when serving as the city's chief executive.

LET'S KEEP AMERICA CLEAN

BUILDING DEPARTMENT EMPLOYEES HONORED

Vincent Maria, of 57 Newment Street, Revere, and Joseph Stella, of 236 Saratoga Street, East Boston, have been named outstanding employees of the City of Boston Building Department.

Mr. Maria has been a building inspector with the city for two and a half years. He is an inspector in East Boston. He has worked in building and construction-related positions throughout his career. Prior to joining the Building Department he worked for six years with the Housing Inspection Department as an inspector in Jamaica Plain.

Mr. Stella has been a plumbing inspector with the city since 1966. A master plumber, he is a member of the New England Plumbers Association. In the Knights of Columbus he was past navigator of the Bishop Cheverus General Assembly, Fourth Degree. He is an inspector in Wards 1 and 2.

Mr. Maria and Mr. Stella are the seventh and eighth winners since the monthly award program was launched last October. Other winners were: Ann Horgan, 81 Milton Road, Milton; John Fitzgerald, 166 Beacon Street, Milton; Henry McLaughlin, 14 Kingsboro Park, Jamaica Plain; Louis Miraglia, 431 Frankfort Street, East Boston; James O'Connell, 59 Thorndike Street, Cambridge; and Patrick Lynch, 20 Fuller Street, Dorchester.

In addition to the award, Mayor White sent his personal congratulations. "The thought that both of you have been singled out for these distinguished performances encourages me a great deal," Mayor White said.

"At a time when public confidence in government has fallen to an all-time low, it is important that we draw attention to the many government employees who serve the city and its people well," he said.

Boston Building Commissioner Richard R. Thuma, Jr., said the award program was begun to bring a sense of balance to the conditions under which Building Department employees work. "When mistakes are made everyone notices, but the countless number of services performed by the department go unnoticed by the public and fellow employees," said Mr. Thuma.

LEWIS POLLACK HONORED

Mr. Lewis Pollack, Assistant Deputy Commissioner of Community Health for the Department of Health and Hospitals, recently was presented the Kathleen Crampton Award at the third annual dinner of the Massachusetts League of Neighborhood Health Centers, at Our Lady of Lourdes Recreation Center, Jamaica Plain.

The League provides over forty health centers across the state with technical assistance in management in such areas as billing, finance, and maximum third-party capability, and serves as a central information service and management systems consultant. The League also acts as an advocate with the government and other health organizations.

Mr. Pollack has been with the Department of Health and Hospitals since 1966. He was presented the award by Dr. Jonathan Fine, former Deputy Commissioner of Community Health Services for DHH, for "making a unique contribution to the development of the neighborhood health centers in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

A strong believer in pluralism in health care, Mr. Pollack feels that Boston has "unique consumers." In meeting and resolving the needs of the community health centers, Mr. Pollack stated that "the communities themselves have been our teachers."

Commissioner of Health and Hospitals Leon S. White said of Mr. Pollack's achievement, "I am pleased that Mr. Pollack has gained well-deserved recognition in receiving the Kathleen Crampton Award. He is a man who for years has worked behind the scenes doing a tremendous job without sufficient recognition. He has done and continues to do a superb job in helping the neighborhood health centers provide their much needed service."

MORE POWER TO YOU

The MBTA has announced that they will shortly "turn on the power" in the third rail of its new Haymarket-North Extension between Haymarket and Sullivan Square.

General Manager Joseph C. Kelly said that a series of electrical tests are to be conducted prior to the planned fall opening of the new line.

Mr. Kelly warned all persons in the area that the rail should now be regarded as lethal. "While the MBTA right-of-way is completely fenced in," he said, "and we have had no problems with trespassers, it is important to emphasize that the third rail on the new line is now charged with 600 volts."

The affected section of the Haymarket-North Extension joins the Orange Line just north of the present Haymarket Station, proceeds under the Charles River through a new tunnel, and then along the surface to Sullivan Square under the viaduct of Route I-93. Service is expected to begin as far as Sullivan Square this fall; construction is proceeding beyond Sullivan Square to a new terminal on the Malden-Melrose Line.

ADDED BOOKMOBILE STOPS

The seemingly impossible is being accomplished by the present schedule of Bookmobile service! In spite of the gas shortage and rising operation costs, the Boston Public Library has added new stops to the former Bookmobile schedule.

Instead of the previous schedule of three routes on a weekly basis — to schools, shopping districts, or residential areas, the Bookmobiles are visiting all the earlier stops plus making new stops on four routes, on alternate weeks, on a dependable basis. The loan period for home use has remained unchanged.

The new schedule may be obtained at the Bookmobiles, at the Central Library, or at any of the Branch Libraries in Boston. Further information about the Bookmobile service is available by telephoning 536-5400, extension 238.

JULY 4, INDEPENDENCE DAY

The Declaration of Independence from Great Britain was passed by the Continental Congress at Philadelphia.

Pennsylvania, in 1773, was the first state to make the occasion a legal holiday. However, there is a record of its observance by the citizens of New Bern, North Carolina, in 1778. It was celebrated elsewhere before the action of Pennsylvania was followed by all of the states.

SHEEP "DELIVERY" REENACTED

The City of Boston joined with the Connecticut community of Willimantic to reenact the delivery of sheep to Boston following the closing of Boston Harbour by the British in 1774.

The ceremony, which took place on the Boston Common on the twenty-third of June, marked the two-hundredth anniversary of the aid provided by Willimantic citizens to Boston following the Boston Tea Party.

The English had closed the Harbour and Boston was without food or supplies. Willimantic was the first of the "American" towns to come to Boston's aid by sending sheep.

According to William Zenko, a spokesman for one of Willimantic's Bicentennial committees, "there were originally 285 sheep delivered to Boston in 1774." But, adds Mr. Zenko, "many problems arose today that made it impossible for us to drive that many sheep to Boston for the ceremony."

Mr. Zenko is chairman of the Windham Regional Vocational-Technical School, Bicentennial committee. Windham Regional Vocational-Technical School is located in Willimantic, Connecticut.

The students of the school joined Willimantic town officials in presenting the sheep to Boston Mayor Kevin H. White and the people of Boston.

FALSE FIRE ALARMS KILL!

ANOTHER FIRST FOR HANK

Henry Aaron, the Atlanta Braves home run king, on June 13, was named America's No. 1 recipient of fan mail in 1973 by the United States Postal Service.

Postmaster General E. T. Klassen presented Aaron, during a brief ceremony in Washington, D. C., with a plaque which read: "Henry Aaron—America's No. 1, Home Runs—723; Fan Mail (1973) 900,000."

According to a survey conducted by the Postal Service, Aaron received a total of approximately 900,000 fan letters during 1973. The figure was supplied by the Atlanta Braves club.

In its survey, the Postal Service asked professional sports organizations, the three major television networks, motion picture companies, television production companies, and fan mail organizations, to submit the approximate amounts of mail each of their top personalities received. Some who were invited to participate did not choose to respond.

Aaron proved to be the winner, over other top letter recipients in sports and television.

SUMMERTHING: INSTANT PLEASURE

Summerthing, a program of the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs, officially opened its seventh season on Sunday, June 23, with a Greek-American festival on the Boston Common. The ethnic festival celebrated Summerthing and its purpose was to bring to the people of Boston a heightened awareness of the artistic contributions Greek-Americans have made to our culture.

There are other ethnic festivals planned for the summer, such as a Trinidad Carnival and an August Moon festival in Chinatown. The nine-week Summerthing program is highlighted by performances by the Boston Ballet, the Boston Symphony Esplanade Orchestra, the Boston Musicians Association, Local 9-535, the Boston Youth Performing Company, the Hispanic Theatre Company, the Proposition, the Dance Theatre of Boston, Troubadors, Larry Cooper and his Orchestra, and many, many more.

The special opening day's events began at 12:30 p.m., with a parade from City Hall Plaza to the Boston Common. Greek runners with the symbolic torch, accompanied by twelve Summerthing vehicles, proceeded down Tremont Street to Boylston Street, and at the corner of Boylston and Charles Streets entered the Common and joined in the festivities.

SUMMER ARTS WORKSHOP FOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

The VALUE program (Visual Arts Laboratory in Urban Education) will offer a visual arts workshop for high school students from July 1 to August 2, at the Institute of Contemporary Art in Boston. Each of the six major skill areas offered at the workshop will be taught by a professional in that area. Participants will concentrate in one major area, but will have a chance to be involved with other artists and media because of the informal structure of the workshop.

The artists/teachers will include muralist Gary Rickson teaching mural painting and design; Frederica King teaching techniques in improvised music and sound collage; Jim Douglas, video artist and photographer, exploring the possibilities of portable video tape; and cartoonist David Sipress of the Boston Phoenix teaching graphic design. The students can develop their creative writing skills and produce a small publication with teacher Hazel Bright, and Hakim Raquid will teach students the basic techniques of slide transparencies and multiimage presentations.

Please note that workshop enrollment is closed. For other details contact Emily Kernan, 266-5151.

Towards the end of May, the "Samaritans," a privately funded suicide prevention agency, will open in Boston with around-the-clock coverage by trained volunteers.

Although the Samaritans is primarily a suicide prevention center, it offers help to people who are not necessarily suicidal, but might become so because of loneliness or distress. Now that Rescue Incorporated is no longer in operation, the Samaritans is the only suicide prevention agency in Boston.

Samaritan volunteers work under the direction of trained advisors with the guidance of professional consultants to whom referrals for help and counseling can be made. Persons seeking help will be spoken to by ordinary persons trained to listen and encourage the client to talk. Counselors are not clergymen, doctors, or other professional people. Professionals on the staff will act as consultants, but only in the background.

The Samaritan Center is located at 355 Boylston Street, Boston, in the basement of the Arlington Street Church. However, it is a non-religious organization unaffiliated with any church. Their phone number is 247-0220.

Officers should familiarize themselves with this order and be able to refer people to the agency should the occasion arise.

The Massachusetts Division of Civil Service has advised me that the reading list has been established for the upcoming Sergeants examination. A poster announcing the examination date will be released within the next two weeks. In order to give candidates the maximum amount of time to study, I have asked the Division of Civil Service to allow me to release the list. They agreed. The list is as follows:

The Report of the U. S. National Advisory Committee on Civil Disorders— Washington, D.C., Government Printing Office, pages 251-357.

While I have no idea of the exact examination content, in order to provide members of this department with the maximum amount of pre-examination assistance, I have directed Captain William J. Hogan, Commanding Officer, Police Academy, to arrange a series of courses on the above books. These courses will be open to all patrolmen and detectives, on a voluntary off-duty basis.

To assist in examination preparation, the Academy will publish a schedule of the courses within the next seven days.

In order to provide further assistance, I have directed the Police Academy to provide each patrolman and detective, free of charge, the Quinn, American Bar Association, and Advisory Commission on Civil Disorder books. As soon as the books are received, the Academy will distribute these. Additionally, because of their limited availability, the Academy will be placing on reserve at least 150 copies of the Epstein and Powers books.

In order to provide members of the department with the least expensive means for purchasing the other books (Melnicoe, Iannone, Adams, and O'Connor/Vanderbosch), I have requested the Police Academy to order them in mass and resell them to members of the department at cost. In this manner, individual officers will save 15 percent or more on these purchases. The books should be available in 14 days. The Academy will provide order forms immediately throughout the department.

Commissioner's Memorandum No. 74-40

To: All Bureaus, Divisions, Districts, Offices, Sections, and Units.

Copies to: All Superintendent, Deputy Superintendents, and Directors.

Read at Roll Calls.

Post until June 22, 1974.

There were some errors made in Commissioner's Memorandum No. 74-38, issued May 23, 1974, regarding the reading list for the upcoming sergeants examination.

The seventh entry on that list, Standards Relating to the Urban Police Function — American Bar Association Standards, gives the wrong page numbers for review. The pages should be 27-87, 144-170, and 277-295.

The last entry on the list reads: The Report of the U. S. National Advisory Committee on Civil Disorders — Washington, D.C., Government Printing Office, pages 251-357.

The page numbers given in that entry are not correct for the edition published by the Government Printing Office. They are correct only for the Bantam Books edition. A copy of the Bantam edition will be provided every patrolman as soon as shipment is received by the Academy.

Officers studying for the sergeants examination should be guided accordingly.

CONTRACTS AWARDED
WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES DEPARTMENT

STATIONERY SUPPLIES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On July 28, 1972, your Honor approved a permission to award a contract to Allied Carbon and Ribbon Manufacturing Corporation for furnishing stationery supplies to the various city departments. This company was the lowest bidder on several items on the publicly opened bid of April 12, 1972.

The City Auditor has notified this office that he cannot approve the contract submitted to him for approval since his records show that the bid of Allied Carbon and Ribbon Manufacturing Corporation was received late at his office.

It is now requested that permission be granted me to reject all bids received on Items 39, 40, 61, 62, and 67 and award a contract, without further advertising, to Allied Carbon and Ribbon Manufacturing Corporation at the prices submitted on Proposal 099, publicly opened and read in this office on April 12, 1972.

In my opinion, the best interests of the city will be served by awarding the contract as requested.

The amount of the contract is not to exceed $2,516.50.

Respectfully yours,
KEVIN P. FEELEY,
Purchasing Agent.

SERVICE PIPE

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On August 29, 1972, your Honor approved a letter of award, dated August 22, 1972, to award a contract to Municipal Services, Inc., for furnishing service pipe — roadway C. I. boxes, Proposal 196, to the Water Division of the Public Works Department.

However, their bid was irregular because the Auditor's copy of the bid was received late. Authority is therefore requested to amend the original letter by awarding the contract, without further advertising, to the above-mentioned company at the prices submitted on the publicly opened bid.

The amount of the contract is not to exceed $7,225.

Respectfully yours,
KEVIN P. FEELEY,
Purchasing Agent.

Postal Employee Center Opens in Boston

The United States Postal Service has officially opened a Postal Employee Development Center (PEDC) in Boston, according to an announcement by James J. Gavin, officer-in-charge, Boston Postal District.

The new center, part of a training program available to all postal employees, marks another milestone in the development of the PEDC program, under which 200 centers are envisioned throughout the country by the end of 1975.

Like the other PEDCs located in large cities, the Boston center offers training and career development opportunities for thousands of employees where they work.

Regional Postmaster General William F. Bolger, the keynote speaker at dedication and open house ceremonies on June 23, stated, "The PEDC is a new approach to provide the necessary encouragement, assistance, and training opportunities so that all employees may utilize their capabilities to the fullest extent in meeting the manpower needs of a modern postal service."

The Boston facility, in newly established laboratory and classroom space in the South Postal Annex, is available to 11,000 employees of the Boston Postal District and 1,500 other postal workers in nearby offices.

PEDC programs develop postal-related skills to increase the efficiency of postal operations and provide better public service. In addition, general education opportunities are offered, mainly on the employees' own time. Through these opportunities, employees may acquire higher education levels on their own initiative.

The centers, including Boston, are equipped with a wide variety of sophisticated learning equipment. An audio-visual system, for example, provides a means for learning a wide variety of job-related skills, such as effective customer services.

In addition to eleven major job-related programs offered at the PEDCs, general educational courses offer such subjects as reading comprehension and basic mathematics.

The PEDC program is one phase of a broad educational program for all postal employees. It has received increasing emphasis since postal reorganization became effective July 1, 1971. The overall program is conducted by the Postal Service Training and Development Institute, with headquarters in Bethesda, Maryland.

To John Bernard Hynes, city service was more a dedication than a career. During his forty years in municipal employ, he rose from junior clerk to become the city's forty-third chief executive, serving the entire decade of the pivotal 1950s.

Those were the times when the new concept of urban renewal was emerging to help American cities combat blight and decadence. Federal aid, however, was modest for such undertakings.

One of the major legacies of the Hynes administration is Prudential Center. He had the vision and laid the groundwork for plans to turn the bleak, blighted Back Bay track-age area into one of the anchors for Boston's intown revitalization. Although construction of the giant complex started under his successor, it was Mayor Hynes who acted on a Back Bay real estate man's development idea and did the early hard work to launch the project.

After his death in January, 1970, the former mayor was given his city's tribute with the naming of the John B. Hynes Memorial Auditorium at Prudential Center.

As a mayor, he was recognized for his love of Boston's traditions, his battle to hold down a spiraling tax rate, and his warmth. He was a lawyer and had a gift for composing poetry. As a former career employee, he found it difficult to phase out jobs and personnel when family breadwinners were involved.

John Hynes first experienced the responsibilities of mayor for five months in 1947, when, as city clerk he was designated to fill in as "temporary mayor" for Mayor James Michael Curley who had been sentenced to a federal institution. A chance remark by Mr. Curley upon his return to City Hall set the stage for John Hynes' challenging him and winning the next mayoral election in 1949.

Mayor John Hynes won again in 1951 when the new Plan A, "strong mayor" form of government, took effect. In 1955 he defeated State Senate President John E. Powers in a bitter fight.

Using powers of the new charter, Mayor Hynes during his tenure reduced the number of city departments from thirty-eight to twenty-six, and reorganized the Assessing, Fire, Library, Welfare, and Planning Departments. He also coordinated inspections among the Building, Fire, and Health Departments and established the Auditorium Commission and Government Center Commission to plan and erect the new City Hall.

He launched a building demolition program in an attack on blight, constructed the first incinerator in the city, established a new housing code, installed Univac in the Auditing Department, reclassified job titles in city service, and established the city's first Complaint Department.

The Boston Christmas Festival, a tradition that brings more than a million visitors each Yule season to Boston Common, was founded by Mayor Hynes.

In urban renewal he inaugurated a pilot rehabilitation project in Dorchester and saw the start of the New York streets commercial renewal development, South End, and the West End residential redevelopment.

A self-made man, John B. Hynes early charted his road to success. He went straight from grammar school to work as an office boy with the telephone company. After service in the Air Corps in World War I, he began his city employment as a Health Department clerk. He went to the Auditing Department and then as chief clerk in Mayor Curley's office. He went to law school nights and won a law degree from Suffolk University in 1927. Two years later he became assistant city clerk, and after service in World War II as a lieutenant colonel, became a city clerk in 1945.

As mayor, he served the longest continuous period in the office in Boston's history. As a "dean" of big city mayors, he was recognized in Washington on his trips for federal aid and as national president of the mayors' organization. He was also named the Democratic national committeeman for Massachusetts.

After leaving old City Hall, Mayor Hynes set up his law office a short distance away at 73 Tremont Street. He was shortly afterward named state Commissioner of Banks and Banking, and was elected a life trustee and treasurer of Suffolk University.

Throughout most of his municipal career he lived in a modest home at Druid Street, Dorchester, and retired there, dying at age seventy-two.

When he was leaving City Hall among the few items he took was a dust-covered 1922 typewriter he had used in the Clerk's Office. He left behind oriental rugs and other objects, explaining: "I took only those things that had my name on them."

Ten years later an appreciative Boston put his name on the municipal auditorium.

COURSES AVAILABLE FOR YOUNGSTERS

Two courses at Boston's Museum of Science this summer promise several weeks of science adventure for youngsters.

The shorter of the courses is on computers. It runs from July 8 through 18, and meets Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday from ten to twelve at the Museum. It is open to those who have completed grade eight or above.

The course will cover computer science, not programming. Using the Honeywell computer exhibit in the Museum and other material and equipment, the course will show students how computer machines are put together and why they work.

The fee is $25 for Museum family members and $30 for nonmembers.

The other course is the Museum's popular "Science Explorers." It runs from July 9 through 26, and meets Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday from 9:30 A.M. to 3 P.M. It is open to those who have completed grades five through eight.

Essentially a series of field trips, this course covers both natural and physical science. Trips are taken to such outdoor sites as Eastern Point, Gloucester, Ponkapoag Bog, Blue Hills, and Plum Island for ecological studies. The students also tour the magnet and strobe laboratories of M.I.T., the Saugus Iron Works, the sewage treatment plant at Deer Island, and the Charles River stormwater testing plant.

The fee is $55 for Museum family members and $65 for nonmembers.

To register for either course, call the course registrar at 723-2500, extension 342.

CURVE BALL EXHIBIT

What do the Red Sox and the laws of aerodynamics have in common?

The Museum of Science has the answer in a new exhibit on "The Curve Ball," which presents a scientific explanation of this classic pitch.

It took the cooperation of the Red Sox and two M.I.T. professors to get the ball off the ground. The results are to be found on the terrace floor of the Museum's west wing, where recordings, photos, and films taken especially for the exhibit put a new twist on a familiar ploy.

Museum officials had high praise for the Red Sox management and three members of the team who volunteered their time and talents to the project: Juan Marichal, Lee Stange, and Rick Wise.

At the exhibit visitors will:

Hear the voice of Rick Wise, describing in English how he throws a curve and that of Juan Marichal giving his description in Spanish;

See a stroboscopic photograph of pitching coach, Lee Stange, throwing a curve. The photo was taken at the rate of 120 pictures per second by Professor Emeritus Harold E. Edgerton of M.I.T.;

Watch a videotape, in color, of Marichal's pitch, taken on May 31 in Fenway Park after that night's game. Marichal threw his curve directly at the camera, which was protected by a large sheet of plastic.

Activate a wind tunnel to duplicate the effect of the ball's going through the air.

Learn, in essence, that the ball follows a curved path because of the influence of gravity, wind resistance, and spin. Consultant for this part of the exhibit was Professor Ascher Shapiro, head of the Mechanical Engineering Department, M.I.T.

Exhibits elsewhere in the Museum that are related to the curve ball exhibit are indicated by Red Sox decals so that Museum visitors may investigate such subjects as the strobe light and aerodynamics.

The Museum's fling with baseball will be followed by similar forays into the science of other sports, on a seasonal basis.

The curve ball display will be on exhibit through the World Series.

IN-SERVICE TRAINING COURSES

June 25.

To All Department Heads

I am enclosing herewith a calendar of training courses being conducted by the Boston Regional Training Center of the United States Civil Service Commission for the summer-fall season, July through December, 1974.

Various courses being offered are in the fields of Personnel Management, Automatic Data Processing, Financial Management, Communications, Office Skills, General Supervisory and Middle and Top Management. An additional course, not listed, is to be conducted in Speed Writing starting July 8, upon which brochures will be available within a few days.

I have the impression that many employees are unaware or uninformed of this important fringe benefit (increasing knowledge and talents without cost) and would recommend placing copies of the enclosed in a prominent place on your bulletin boards and requesting your supervisors to acquaint themselves with the courses that are now available. Brochures describing individual courses in detail, and which include application forms, may be obtained by calling Mr. Costello on extension 606, one month prior to dates courses will be conducted.

In accordance with current policy, tuition costs will be paid out of departmental budgets.

All requests concerning these programs, after initial sanction by you, should be forwarded to me, in duplicate, the second copy to be returned to you upon my approval.

Sincerely,

EDWARD T. SULLIVAN,
Director.

SUMMER PLAYGROUND PROGRAM

Friday, June 28 was the opening day for the Boston Parks and Recreation Department's summer playground program.

Three hundred trained young people will staff eighty parks for a program which will include organized games, trips to swimming pools and historical landmarks, bike rodeos, crafts fairs, hula hoop contests, frisbee tournaments, and many other special events.

Currently, and until August 20, each week will feature a theme such as Earth Week, Bicentennial Week, and Senior Citizen Week with special activities scheduled to highlight the theme and to add an educational aspect to the recreational activities.

"For the second year, twenty-seven playgrounds have been designated as 'Heritage Parks' to provide special leadership to youngsters aged six through twelve," said Parks Commissioner Anthony Forgione.

"This was a tremendously successful program last year," Mr. Forgione said. "Its goal is to provide a camping atmosphere for city children similar to the kinds of programs that suburban children experience in a day camp.

"I want to urge parents to visit their local playgrounds this summer and to encourage their youngsters to get involved in the whole range of activities they will find there."

Applications for the Heritage Parks program are available at the parks, and at local Little City Halls. They must be completed by parents and returned to the neighborhood playground where the child will be participating. For more information contact the Parks and Recreation Department at 722-4100.

VETERANS' RETIREMENTS

The Boston Retirement Board has approved the following veterans' applications for retirement:

John Joseph Cassell, 1 Argyle Court, East Weymouth, admitting officer, Health and Hospitals Department.

Louis L. Chenette, 10 Greymere Road, Brighton, supervisor of attendance, School Department.

NEW B. AND M. FARES

The Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority announced that following a thorough review of the Boston and Maine fare structure, a system of revised, reduced fares became effective on July 1 on all commuter rail lines subsidized by the MBTA.

The new fare reductions take several forms:

Off-peak fares have been reduced approximately 50 percent (off-peak is defined as trains from North Station in the morning, trains to North Station in the evening, and all trains in the midday hours).

Intra-suburban fares, that is, fares between any two stations with the exception of Boston, have also been greatly reduced and will be in effect on all trains at all times.

A new zonal system replaces the existing system of individual tickets for individual stations and will permit purchase of a ticket for a zone, and the use of the ticket to or from any station within the zone, without payment of an additional fare.

New commutation tickets will be available and will also represent cost savings, for example: a twelve-ride ticket good for an entire year; and an unlimited monthly ticket good for as many rides as the bearer cares to take within one calendar month.

MUNICIPAL RESEARCH BUREAU

UP, UP, AND AWAY

The Boston Teachers Union (BTU) has submitted to the Boston School Committee its proposals for increased salaries and other benefits to be implemented in September, 1974. Review of teacher raises granted by the School Committee in recent years should remind it of the fiscal consequences of its actions.

Boston School Department expenditures for general school purposes increased about $30 million, or 68 percent, from September 1, 1968, through August 31, 1973. Since about 75 percent of the School Department's spending is for teachers' salaries, the number of teachers employed and their pay are critical factors impacting on total school expenditures.

The United States Bureau of Labor Statistics' Consumer Price Index (CPI) for Boston, reflecting changes in the cost of living, is one gauge that can be used to evaluate the pay raises granted previously to teachers. During the period studied, Boston's CPI increased about 29 percent.

Teachers Fare Well

Teachers make up the largest single group of Boston School Department employees. The number of teachers, excluding those paid from federal funds, increased from about 4,500 to 4,800 — an increase of 300 — from September 1, 1968, through August 31, 1973. Meanwhile, student enrollment in the same period declined by about 500 and outside-school instruction programs were adopted that removed some students from classrooms for at least a portion of the day. About 4,000 students currently participate in these programs.

Teachers' salaries, based on years of teaching experience and educational achievement, increased during the period primarily as a result of across-the-board wage increases, reduction in the number of years needed to obtain maximum pay from nine to eight, increase in the number of educational attainment lanes in the teachers' salary schedule from four to seven, and increase in the pay differentials between each of the four original lanes.

Because teachers' salaries are predicated partially on educational attainment, it is to their advantage to acquire additional course credits. Changes in educational accomplishment for teachers are unpredictable, especially with seven separate salary lanes, and can result in substantial pay increases.

The effect of the dual determinants of years of teaching experience and educational attainment on teachers' salaries can be seen with the following example. Teachers in their ninth year during the 1972-1973 school year, without additional credits beyond their bachelor's degree to qualify them for higher salaries, received $14,359. This was $6,259 or 77 percent more than their salary for the 1968-1969 school year. If those teachers advanced from a bachelor's to a master's degree since the 1968-1969 school year, their salary increased $7,159 or 88 percent.

The number of years of teaching experience necessary to obtain maximum salary was reduced by one year, and the maximum pay was increased. The following chart details the increases for the three degree levels contained in the pay scale for teachers.

Educational Attainment Level	Maximum Maximum		Dollar Increase	Percent Increase
	1968-1969 Salary	1972-1973 Salary
Bachelor's	$10,700	$14,359	$3,659	34.2
Master's	11,250	15,259	4,009	35.6
Doctorate	12,350	17,109	4,759	38.5

Teachers who received maximum salary for a bachelor's degree during the 1968-1969 school year, and earned a master's by the beginning of the 1972-1973 school year, obtained a pay increase of $4,559 or 42.6 percent. If they gained fifteen credits beyond the master's degree, their salary increased to $15,709. This was a $5,000 or 46.8 percent raise over their 1968-1969 school year earnings.

Teachers presently receive a longevity award above their maximum salary. After completing nineteen years of teaching, the extra pay is $500 per year. On completion of each additional ten years of service, $500 per year is added to the payment.

Salaries for Boston's teachers have risen significantly in comparison to the increases in Boston's CPI during the period studied. The School Department's operating expenditures have reflected the pay increases. The Boston School Committee should remember that continued generous increased salaries and other benefits would result in substantially higher costs for the city's taxpayers.

(Replaces Special Order No. 74-33)

Special Order No. 74-33, issued April 3, 1974, established a new form and a new system for organizing department funerals. A change is being made in the assignment of responsibility for completing Form 1633, Department Funeral Information Form, and it is therefore necessary to replace Special Order No. 74-33 with this order.

The only significant change in procedures requires that the Bureau of Field Services be always responsible for completing Form 1633 and forwarding it to the Planning and Research Division, regardless of the type of funeral the department is requested to arrange.

General Procedures

1. The family of the deceased member must request a department funeral.

2. When a department funeral is requested for a retired or active member not killed in the line of duty, the Bureau of Field Services will be notified without delay. The Bureau will be responsible for completing the department Funeral Information Form and forwarding it to the Planning and Research Division.

3. When a department funeral is requested for a member killed in the line of duty, the Commissioner will designate a command officer as superior officer in charge of the funeral. That officer will be finally responsible for all funeral arrangements and will work closely with the Bureau of Field Services in seeing that Form 1633 is completed and delivered to the Planning and Research Division as soon as possible.

4. When a request for a department funeral is made on a weekend or holiday, the Bureau of Field Services will notify the Director of Planning and Research as soon as it is known that a funeral order will need to be cut.

Department Funeral Information Form (Form 1633)

There are three types of funerals the department may be called upon to arrange: retired member, active member, and member killed in the line of duty. Form 1633 is arranged so that information necessary for a particular type of funeral can be obtained and submitted in an orderly fashion. The form should be filled out according to the instructions it contains.

A supply of Form 1633 may be obtained from the Planning and Research Division.

Post until June 30, 1974.

The City of Seattle has written to several major police departments around the country advising them of the search for a chief for the Seattle Police Department. In their letter, the Selection Committee asked that the department alert its superior officers to this opportunity. I am pleased to do that and will do so again in the future when similar requests are made.

The position, salaried in excess of $30,000 annually, manages the Seattle Police Department and is responsible to the mayor for the administration of the department and the enforcement of the law. The 1974 budget for the Seattle Police Department is $27 million, and the current staffing totals 1,400 employees, 1,100 of which are sworn. The city itself has a population of 515,000 with an area of 91.6 square miles.

Seattle's Mayor Wes Uhlman, has charged a Selection Committee representing business, law, and government with the responsibility to identify and forward for his consideration the names of the three most highly qualified candidates. The committee has subsequently requested the city Personnel Office to notify specific jurisdictions of this opportunity and invite applications from interested candidates to be received not later than June 30, 1974. The purpose of this correspondence is to request assistance in notifying personnel in your jurisdiction of this vacancy and making available to them the attached material.

All candidates are required to file a formal application, copies of which can be obtained by writing or phoning:

City Personnel Office, 609 Municipal Building, Seattle, Washington 98104, (206) 583-2712.

Additional background information in the form of a resumé may be submitted with the application form. The committee emphasizes that all inquiries and applications will be handled in strict confidence. Consistent with the City of Seattle's affirmative action policy, interested women and minority candidates are actively encouraged to apply.

BCH Introduces "Tel-Med" To Boston

Mayor Kevin H. White has announced that agreements have been reached that will bring a major new public health information service, called Tel-Med, to Boston and the metropolitan area.

Boston's Tel-Med program has been developed by Commissioner of Health and Hospitals, Leon S. White, Ph.D. To assist Boston in implementing Tel-Med, Commissioner White has enlisted the aid of Massachusetts Blue Shield, Inc., the Suffolk District Medical Society, and the Tri-State Regional Medical program.

Originated by the San Bernardino County Medical Society (in California), and distributed through Tel-Med, Incorporated, Tel-Med is a library of over 150 tape-recorded health messages that can be listened to by telephone. Many of these tapes will be available in both English and Spanish.

To use Tel-Med, a person will need a brochure and a telephone. The Tel-Med brochure, which lists all available tapes by subject and number, will be available at neighborhood health centers, Little City Halls, hospitals, doctors' and dentists' offices, and other locations. The list of tapes will also be made available to the media.

Anyone needing health information — whether the problem be venereal disease, arthritis pain, or how to dispense aspirin to children — simply dials the Tel-Med number and asks the operator to play a given tape. The operator inserts the requested cartridge into the Tel-Med playback unit and the tape begins automatically. When the message is ended the tape ejects itself and disconnects the phone line.

While the human element in the Tel-Med system provides a service that can cater to the needs of the caller, no names or conversation need be exchanged, securing anonymity which can be of great value in relation to many health problems.

Scripts for Tel-Med are now being screened, with the assistance of Blue Shield and the Massachusetts Medical Society to make sure they meet local needs and standards. Operation of Tel-Med is scheduled to begin in October.

Initial funding for Tel-Med will be provided by a $20,000 grant from Massachusetts Blue Shield, Inc., and a $10,000 administrative grant from the Tri-State Regional Medical Program. Also, the Suffolk District Medical Society will support Tel-Med with a $1,000 grant and the Middlesex Central District Medical Society has indicated its support with a $100 grant.

Two Tel-Med playback units will be purchased by the city through the Public Facilities Department. The Department of Health and Hospitals will hire and train the Tel-Med operators and coordinate the program.

John F. Collins

(Forty-fourth Mayor—1960-67)

The administration of John Frederick Collins during most of the 1960s led the city in development of "the New Boston."

Mayor Collins coined the term to emphasize the era of downtown redevelopment and a start on neighborhood urban renewal along with a check on spiraling real estate tax rates.

His two terms in office also saw some major reorganizations in combining the Health and Hospitals Departments; reorganizing the Assessing Agency; creation of the Public Facilities Department; and helping to pave the way for state assumption of the welfare burdens of Boston.

Physically, the Collins era produced the new City Hall building and several additions to the Boston skyline. Among them was Prudential Center, conceived by his predecessor, John Hynes, but helped to legislative implementation by the Collins administration.

In general, John Collins portrayed the image of a confident, articulate, strong-willed mayor. He had conquered the adversities of crippling polio to win the office and to govern from a wheelchair.

To carry out his urban renewal goals, Collins brought as his development administrator another strong-willed individual, Edward J. Logue. The development chief helped obtain some $200 million in federal renewal fund commitments to begin Boston's renewal "master plan."

Roxbury-born John Collins early seemed destined for public life. After graduating from Roxbury Memorial High School, he went on to Suffolk University to win his law degree cum laude, and became a practicing attorney at age twenty-one.

Soon afterward, World War II broke out and Collins joined the army infantry. Four years later on discharge he had become a captain in counterintelligence work.

Returning home, he won election to the House of Representatives from Roxbury and Jamaica Plain in 1946, and the next year married Mary Cunniff. He served two terms in the House, two more in the state Senate, then as Democratic nominee for state attorney general, lost a bitter fight in 1954.

A year later he became a candidate for Boston City Council. A short time before the September primary a polio epidemic struck Massachusetts and other states. The four Collins children and then their father were stricken. The children recovered, but the father was almost totally paralyzed. However, he refused to quit the Council race and with the help of his wife, filling in as a campaigner, the bed-ridden candidate won and took his seat at the first Council session the following January in City Hall.

After a little over a year of service there, he was appointed to a vacancy as Suffolk County Register of Probate, virtually a lifetime job through reelection. He won election the next year, but in 1959 decided to challenge state Senate President John E. Powers, odds-on favorite to win the mayoralty. Collins ran second in the preliminary election, and went on to win in an upset in another bitter fight.

The new mayor set out on a belt-tightening "austerity" theme aimed at winning business confidence in a "New Boston." For four successive years he lowered the tax rate. His programs for renewal won national attention. He was elected president of the 15,000-member American Municipal Association.

Mayor Collins easily won reelection in 1965. A year later, resisting urgings that he go for the governorship, he set sights on the United States Senate seat vacancy, but lost the statewide Democratic primary. A year later he declined to seek a third term as mayor.

While serving at old City Hall, Mayor Collins helped win passage of the 3 percent limited state sales tax to help relieve the burdens of the localities. He also instituted the nationwide design competition for the new City Hall. He oversaw plans for Government Center design. The Model City agency was started under Collins. He also started an Office of Neighborhood Information. Collective bargaining for city employee units was accepted by the Collins administration for Boston.

Before leaving office, Collins urged a regional incinerator plan for Boston to help in solid waste disposal. He unveiled plans for a $400-million federally aided downtown renewal proposal.

He was the first Boston mayor to be awarded an honorary doctorate of laws degree by Harvard University. After his service as mayor, John F. Collins joined academia as visiting professor of urban affairs, Sloan School of Management, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

VACATION ACTIVITIES AT CHILDREN'S MUSEUM

Rain or shine, there'll be camping this summer at the Children's Museum! Their newest participatory exhibit experience, which opened July 5, will take you to the edge of the woods — or at the very least, make you eager to get started. In cooperation with Eastern Mountain Sports, who have lent expert advice as well as equipment, tents will rise on the Museum grounds each morning, and get folded at night. Back packs and boots will be displayed and tried; camp cooking tested; map-reading begun; knot-tying and lashing; storytelling — all are part of the find-out-about-camping opportunity.

Inside the Visitor Center on a nature walk with trees, bushes, and a waterfall along the way, the message explorers get is look, look, LOOK! Filled with natural specimens from Massachusetts woods, there will be treasure hunts on the trail to widen the observer's lens. Birds, butterflies, insects — and finally, a trading post where visitors can exchange treasures they have brought (seeds, shells, etc.) for other natural prizes.

Recordings of animal sounds and bird calls will be used in the program, as well as an introduction to the reading of animal tracks and scat. Experts will be available frequently to help visitors learn to make their own back packs, or put together a simple tube tent.

Additional lures in July will be the Kids Summer Clubs, including: "Attic"; "Kids Cooking"; "Puppets"; "Improvisational Theatre"; "Japanese"; "Algonquin"; "Nature"; "Camp Craft"; "Computers." All clubs run for one week (Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday), from 9:15 A.M. to 10:45, and cost $10 per child ($8 for members). Some discounts and scholarships are available. Registration is necessary. Call Margie at 522-4800, extension 74, for more information on the Museum's Club Program.

The recycle area at the Museum will feature Wednesday morning workshops from 10 to 12, at $3 per session (including materials). No registration is necessary for these workshops. Scheduled for the summer weeks: "Milk Cartons," July 10; "Weaving," July 17; "Quickies," July 24; "Dolls and Puppets," July 31; "Fabric Design," August 7; and "Bookmaking," August 14. Recycle is open daily, Monday through Friday, from 10 to 5.

The Children's Museum suggests that a family outing to the "Do Touch" place on the Jamaicaaway is a fine way to spend a vacation day. Summer hours, now through August 31, are: 11-5, Monday through Friday; 10-5, Saturdays and Sundays. Closed July 4.

NEW SCHOOL FOR SOUTH END

Mayor White broke ground on June 29 for the Blackstone Square elementary school, an $8-million facility located in the center of the South End community.

Brief ceremonies took place, at 2 P.M., on the site at the corner of West Brookline Street and Shawmut Avenue.

The new school, which will seat 1,000 students, is scheduled for completion in September, 1975, and will include a swimming pool, gymnasium, and craft rooms. The renovated J. J. Williams Building, adjacent to the site, will be part of the new structure, and will house the South End Community Health Center.

"The residents of the South End will get a community school that they have needed and deserved for some time," Mayor White said.

"The construction of the Blackstone School suggests that we are moving ahead toward our commitment of providing quality services and facilities in this community," the Mayor said. "I hope this new community school will set a standard for other improvements in the life of the South End," he said.

The Mayor congratulated representatives of the South End Health Center and the South End Neighborhood Action Program for their successful efforts in improving the quality of life in the neighborhood.

The new school will be a community school with all its facilities open after hours to residents of the South End.

Public Facilities Director Robert J. Vey said the new Blackstone School will be built in keeping with the historic atmosphere of the Blackstone Square area.

SUMMER FOOD SERVICE PROGRAM

The Mayor's Office of Public Service has launched a summer food service program that will provide 450 free lunches daily to children in Allston-Brighton.

To be eligible you must be under twenty-one, have a working mother, or come from a family whose income falls within established guidelines.

The program, which began July 1, will provide 13,500 free lunches daily at sixty-three sites throughout the city.

"While soaring costs for nutritional foods are making it difficult for parents in all income levels to provide balanced and healthy foods for their families, it is especially difficult for families of modest means," Mayor White said.

"By providing lunches at central locations we will ensure that children whose mothers must work through the noon hour receive a well-balanced meal," the Mayor said.

The program is administered by the city's Office of Public Service under contract with the United States Department of Agriculture, and is sponsored in conjunction with summer programs run by several city agencies.

Lunch sites in Allston-Brighton are: Uncle Many's House, 64 Harvard Avenue; West End House Day Camp, 105 Allston Street; Ringer Playground, Allston Street; Fidelis Way Recreation Center, 34 Fidelis Way and Rogers Park, Lake and Foster Streets.

Participating city departments and agencies include: Parks and Recreation, Youth Activities Commission, Summerthing, Teen Center Alliance, Tenant Policy Council of the Boston Housing Authority, and Community Schools.

NEW MBTA FORMAT

Mr. John T. Doolittle, Jr., Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority, has announced the establishment of a new program of public participation and involvement with the creation of a total open-meeting format for all future MBTA Board of Directors' meetings.

Chairman Doolittle in making the announcement said, "Beginning on Wednesday, July 3, the Board of Directors' meeting will begin at 9 A.M., at the Conference Room of the Dewey Operations Center at 45 High Street, Boston. This marks the elimination of the previous policy of accompanying conference sessions. The public right to know is of paramount concern and importance in the development of a total balanced transportation program in Massachusetts."

He also stated, "Awareness, through public involvement, is encouraged by the MBTA, and a totally informed public will aid in furthering and establishing programs of transportation progress and growth."

This public action and new policy was the result of a motion initiated at the June 26 Board of Directors' meeting by Director Richard D. Buck.

This week the Private Detail System completed the first full cycle of operation; including taking the job order for a police detail, returning the Hours Card (Form 97), billing the customers for the work performed, receiving customer payment, and providing payment to police officers through the payroll system.

The first billing operation totaled $62,000, and the first payments forwarded to officers amounted to $15,981. The balance of these funds are awaiting payment by the vendors.

The first billing operation totaled errors, most of which were due to wrong customer numbers and/or job numbers being recorded on the Hours Cards. Some cases were the result of the wrong customer number being used. The Boston Edison, various banks, and the New England Telephone Company have multiple customer numbers assigned to facilitate the internal operation of their different divisions, sections and branches. These companies require correct billings which the system can furnish through the use of correct customer and job numbers.

A number of steps have been taken to correct the errors in processed cards and bills contributing to the delay in payments, but future entries into the system must be accurate if further delays are to be avoided. To that end, supervisory officers will assist officers under their command in assuring the accuracy of completed forms. The PDS unit (extensions 309 and 310) is also available to answer inquiries concerning proper customer and job numbers. Special Order No. 74-31 outlines the procedure to be used in completing the PDS cards (Form 97). Each man is responsible for the accuracy of his own card data. If he receives and/or records incorrect data, his payments and others will be held up since only complete jobs can be billed. Therefore, all members of the Department share responsibility for the current delay in payments, not any single unit.

It is expected that when our eventual goal of total centralization is attained, many of the current problems in the system will be resolved. In the meantime, we are taking all steps possible to correct the clerical errors made previously and to expedite the payments to police officers as soon as bills are paid.

The department has received the following directive from the city Administrative Services Department, Administrative Division:

Friday, July 5, 1974, will be a regular working day.

Employees who wish to take that day as a vacation day, and who can be spared, should be allowed to do so.

There are two major reasons why we are getting away from "skeleton days" before and after holidays:

1. Many city operations must go on as usual — police, fire, hospital, penal institutions, public works maintenance and sanitary, traffic and parking, etc., and skeleton days create a basic inequity.

2. Vacation allowances have been increased, and some of the available days should be used for this purpose.

This year during July and August, the regular working day from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M. will be in force.

With every department being asked to operate with fewer people, we must have the full-time service of all employees.

Please review at this time your procedures for checking people in and out.

All police department personnel will be guided accordingly.

 It is the secret of perpetual youth.
 Take time to read --
 It is the fountain of wisdom.
 Take time to pray --
 It is the greatest power on earth.
 Take time to love and be loved --
 It is a God-given privilege.
 Take time to be friendly --
 It is the road to happiness.
 Take time to laugh --
 It is the music of the soul.
 Take time to give --
 It is too short a day to be selfish.
 Take time to work --
 It is the price of success.

Thousands Visit Hub's Famous "Freedom Trail"

Thousands of visitors to date have enjoyed the delightful experience of seeing fifteen famous historic landmarks during their walking tour of Boston's famous Freedom Trail. It is one and one-half miles long and generally takes about two and one-half hours to complete the tour. A red stripe is set in the sidewalk along the trail as the guideline for a trip one will cherish and long remember. We commend it to visitors and natives alike.

The tour starts on Boston Common, the nation's oldest park, where once Indian scalps were displayed, criminals hanged, and "scolds and railers" placed on ducking stools near Frog Pond. The southwest corner of the Common holds the Common Burying Ground where Gilbert Stuart is buried along with British soldiers killed during the Revolution.

High above the Common, where settlers once kept watch "to foresee the approach of foreign dangers" is the gold-domed State House. Built on land acquired from John Hancock's heirs, the State House today houses colonial archives as well as the current government officialdom.

Listed next is the Park Street Church, where the abolitionist William Lloyd Garrison was one of many orators to give fiery speeches.

The Granary Burying Ground is adjacent and tourists are surprised to discover it nestling park-like in a valley of office buildings. The headstones are history. Benjamin Franklin's parents, Paul Revere, the victims of the Boston Massacre, John Hancock, and Mary Goose, known the world over as Mother Goose, are interred here.

Across Tremont Street towards the Government Center, is King's Chapel, whose colonial congregation was colorful with the uniforms of British soldiers. General Washington came here Christmas night, 1789. The burial ground next door (in the 17th century the colony's only cemetery) is believed to contain the anonymous remains of the heroine of Hawthorne's Scarlet Letter.

The red strip leads along School Street past a marker on the site of the country's first public school (1635). Its students included Cotton Mather, Benjamin Franklin (whose statue is nearby), and Ralph Waldo Emerson.

The restored Old Corner Book Store, now a newspaper office, on the corner of School and Washington Streets, is today the fortunate survivor of recurrent attempts of demolition by developers. Anne Hutchinson preached here the dangerous religious theories that led to her banishment. From private home to publishing house to bookstore to pizza parlor, and newspaper office, the building today has regained its rustic charm and welcomes visitors every day except Sunday.

Next is the Old South Meeting House, where Franklin was baptized in 1706. Because the Meet-

Kevin H. White
(Forty-fifth Mayor —
1968-71, 1972-)

Kevin H. White is descended from a politically prominent family that has long been active in Boston government.

Born September 25, 1929, Kevin White attended Boston public schools, and was graduated from Tabor Academy, Williams College, and the Boston College Law School. He studied at the Harvard Graduate School of Public Administration.

From 1956 until 1960 he served as assistant district attorney for Suffolk County (Boston and three surrounding cities) and in 1960, in his first try for elective office, he became the youngest man in the history of Massachusetts to be elected Secretary of State. He was reelected to this statewide office by increasing margins in 1962, 1964, and in 1966. In 1964 he received the highest plurality of any candidate for constitutional office in the state's history.

While Secretary of State, Kevin White pioneered many election reforms, the most prominent being a law passed under his sponsorship in 1962 requiring all candidates to disclose all campaign income and expenditures.

On November 7, 1967, he was elected to a four-year term as Mayor of Boston and was inaugurated as the city's forty-fifth chief executive ing House was the site of radical gatherings in 1775, British soldiers gutted it and converted it to a riding school.

The Trail continues past Ben Franklin's birthplace to the Old State House. Today, encircled and dwarfed by office buildings, it looks down the street to Long Wharf and the sea. Its walls, at one time, displayed portraits of King George III and Queen Charlotte. Today it is a quaint museum, and the basement, to the astonishment of visitors, is a subway station.

Just outside the Old State House stones circle the site of the Boston Massacre. On March 5, 1770, redcoats killed five men in a jeering mob of colonists, thus spilling the first blood of the incipient Revolution.

The Freedom Trail wanders next into Boston's bustling market district to Faneuil Hall. Weekdays a produce market and weekends a flower market, this building is proverbially referred to as "The Cradle of Liberty" because it hosted so many rebellious Boston Town Meetings before the Revolution.

The brick walk leads under the expressway and into the North End of Boston, formerly the most elegant and prosperous neighborhood in the city.

In North Square we find the diminutive home of Paul Revere. It was built in 1677 and was painstakingly restored and opened to visitors (admission 25 cents). The famous silversmith set out from his stable here for his historic ride to Lexington in April, 1775.

The Freedom Trail continues to the Old North Church, possibly the most famous church in America. It was here that the two lanterns were hung to signal Paul Revere of the advance of the British by sea to Concord. The church is authentically restored to its original Christopher Wren style. It has survived since 1723 and has continually served the religious needs of Boston's citizenry. The steeple has been destroyed twice by hurricane, most recently in 1955 when the pennies and nickels of the nation's school children were used to restore the historic landmark.

on January 1, 1968. He was re-elected to a second term on November 2, 1971 by the second highest plurality in a mayoral election in this century.

Who's Who in the East has cited Mayor White for his "outstanding contribution" to the field of government. In presenting its Fourth Biennial Citations for Outstanding Contribution, Who's Who in the East said:

"Wanting to give Boston more than words, Mayor White has been doing the 'right things.' Elected in a close campaign (1967) in which his opponent had 'white backlash' support, he has been able to gain the confidence of both blacks and whites. He has shown that in his city racial tension need not move toward hopeless division. Essentially he has worked for the forgotten, little people and has won their respect with intelligent and compassionate decision. By establishing several branch city halls, Mayor White has brought city government to the people's neighborhoods. There he listens, and gets to know their problems first hand. He not only listens to the poor, but he places them in positions of leadership. He has opened up the city's departments to prospective new employees from the ghetto, and initiated a program to recruit and train them. He wants the best men and women for responsible duties in his city, regardless of race, class, or religion. Mayor White, through his energetic and imaginative efforts, is fast turning Boston into a model of interracial and interclass harmony — one that other strife-torn cities might well emulate."

Mayor White is a senior member of the Legislative Action Committee of the United States Conference of Mayors which spearheaded a drive for passage of federal revenue sharing, and in March, 1973, was appointed to the advisory committee of the Democratic National Committee by DNC Chairman Robert S. Strauss.

RECORD OF ADMINISTRATION COMMUNITY PROGRAMS

Little City Halls

Mayor White created the first Little City Hall in the country to bring municipal government closer to the people by providing on-the-spot basic services and information in the neighborhoods. The Little City Halls are making it easier for both government to respond to people's needs and for city residents to participate in making decisions which affect their neighborhoods.

Each week more than 10,000 people use the government services available at the seventeen Little City Halls such as: voter registration, assistance with tax abatements and Social Security, consumer information and protection, applications for Civil Service and public housing and rent control information.

In response to individual and neighborhood problems and complaints the highly trained staff at each Little City Hall helps people with a wide range of needs such as: suggested changes in police patrol; helping set up neighborhood teen centers; coordinating neighborhood clean-up efforts; speeding up the delivery of snowplowing, trash collection, and street lighting; inviting community groups to consult with appropriate city agencies dealing with urban renewal, recreation, school construction, and much more.

Summerthing

Mayor White created the nationally acclaimed neighborhood arts festival, Summerthing, which brings cultural opportunities and arts training to children, teen-agers, and adults. Each summer over 1,500 performances and events, given by local and professional groups, are brought into the streets, and a wide range of cultural, ecological, and educational workshops are given at 500 neighborhood sites. More than 3,000,000 people have attended Summerthing events, including rock concerts, since 1968.

Equal Opportunity

Mayor White established the city's first agency to fight against discrimination and for equal opportunity. Since 1968 the Mayor's Office of Human Rights has greatly increased minority employment in city government. In 1968 there were no minority administrators in city government and only 2 percent minority employment. In 1973 there were three minority administrators and up to 11 percent minority employment.

In 1973, there were more minorities in administrative positions than at any other time in the history of Boston city government.

Consumers

Mayor White established the city's first agency to protect consumers. Since 1968 the Boston Consumers Council has saved 6,000 consumers more than $200,000. Mayor White was the first mayor in the nation to require druggists to publicly post prescription drug prices and he has introduced legislation to modernize the city's archaic licensing practices and to give the Consumers Council subpoena powers.

Rebuilding Boston and Its Neighborhoods

Since 1968 more neighborhood schools, libraries, police and fire stations, and swimming pools have been built and more playgrounds and parks have been reconstructed and floodlighted than at any time in Boston's history.

More public facilities have been built in the neighborhoods in the last five years than have been built in the past thirty years.

Downtown there is over 8,000,000 square feet of office space under construction and over the next five years this rate is expected to double, bringing 60,000 new jobs into Boston.

Mayor White has taken a strong stand on preserving the city's architectural heritage and the unique characteristic of each neighborhood, for example:

Restoration of the nineteenth century Old City Hall into a commercial office building;

Restoration of the eighteenth century Faneuil Hall Market area;

Prohibition of high-rise buildings in the historic Back Bay and encouragement of residential renewal;

Establishment of neighborhood urban renewal committees.

In 1973 three times as many housing units were under construction than in any year since World War II. During the next seven years the rate of housing construction is expected to double with the construction of 28,000 units reflecting population stabilization, employment growth, and the preference of young people to live in Boston.

OFFICIAL GUIDEBOOK FOR BOSTON 200

The selection of three advertising salespeople for Boston: The Official Bicentennial Guidebook was announced recently by Boston 200 and guidebook publisher E. P. Dutton Publishing Corporation of New York.

The three salespeople — Tom Abbott, JoAnne LaSala, and James J. Lopes — are employees of the Harvard Student Agencies, Inc., Boston.

Boston: The Official Bicentennial Guidebook is the only official guidebook being produced by Boston 200 describing trails, sites, and events of the twenty-month celebration, and will go to press in February, 1975.

Selling for $1.50 the guidebook will be available to the more than 15 million visitors expected in the city during 1975-1976. Four hundred thousand (400,000) copies will be printed and distributed nationally and locally. Fifty thousand (50,000) copies will be distributed by Howard Johnson's.

All revenue from advertising sold in the guidebook will be used to support the visitor services of Boston 200.

POSTAL AD CAMPAIGN TO BOOST STAMP COLLECTING

A national advertising program to help foster stamp collecting and further interest in the nation's history — utilizing magazines, newspapers, and television — has been announced by the United States Postal Service.

It will be the first time that the service has ever purchased national television advertising. Both network and spot commercials will be utilized.

The service said the program, at a total cost of $5 million, is expected to boost greater interest in stamp collecting as a hobby.

The national advertising program, which started with full-page ads and commercials in July, was successfully tested for the last year and one-half in Boston, Columbus, and St. Louis.

In these test markets it was found that the collecting of stamps increased by 33 percent, and that the advertising encouraged novice collectors to develop themes in their collections.

This is illustrated by an ad headlined: "Our Candidates for a Presidential Collection" which shows many of the stamps issued in honor of American presidents. Another ad features a $3 souvenir mint set with thirty-three commemorative stamps issued in the previous year.

In addition to fostering the collection of stamps and encouraging people to learn more about their nation's history as portrayed through stamps, the program is expected to generate substantial additional revenue to the Postal Service above the advertising's costs.

NEW APPOINTMENT AT MUSEUM OF SCIENCE

Boston's Museum of Science announces the appointment of Richard G. King as director of its Education Division, effective August 1.

In his new position, Mr. King will manage the operation and development of the Museum's many-faceted teaching programs designed to meet the needs of more than 800,000 visitors a year. Over a quarter of the visitors are school children bussed to the Museum from all over New England.

Since 1970, Mr. King has been professor of Educational Research at the University of Alabama, which has developed the largest graduate program in the state for in-service teachers. He served there as chairman of the Academic Affairs Committee of the university's undergraduate university college, and as chairman of a university committee cooperating with the City of Birmingham in establishing an ungraded elementary school for handicapped, normal, and gifted children.

Previously he was lecturer on education, and research associate in Harvard University's Center for Studies in Education and Development.

A graduate of Williams College, he received his M.A. degree from the Harvard Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, and an Ed.D. in Educational Measurement from the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

SUMMER JOBS: A REALITY

Mayor Kevin H. White has announced that more than 3,500 disadvantaged Boston youth have started work in the city's summer program to employ disadvantaged youth. More than 5,000 young people will be in the program.

Mayor White also announced that he had been successful in increasing the funding for the program by 20 percent, from the proposed $1.9 million originally offered by the federal Department of Labor to the present grant of $2.5 million.

"This will mean that about 1,000 more young people in the neighborhoods will have summer jobs," the Mayor said. The program originally was expected to serve only 4,000 youths.

He added that both he and Robert M. Coard, executive director of Action for Boston Community Development (ABCD), have met repeatedly with Labor Secretary Peter Brennan and with local labor department officials to assure that the grant for Boston summer work program was increased.

The program is administered by the Mayor's Office of Commerce and Manpower, under the direction of Gerald W. Bush. The program will be operated by Action for Boston Community Development (ABCD).

In past years the program was operated by ABCD under a direct grant from the Labor Department for the Neighborhood Youth Corps summer program. Under recently passed Manpower Revenue Sharing, all Labor Department grants in Boston go directly to the city.

OPERATION NEIGHBORHOOD

Gerald Bush, director of the Mayor's Office of Commerce and Manpower, announced recently, a new program to assist minority businesses within the city and a $50,000 fund for a staff of three persons to "bridge the gap" between them and City Hall.

The staff that will work with the concerns will comprise primarily blacks and Spanish-speaking representatives. Their function will be to assist minority businessmen in finding answers to the pressing problems of organization and finance.

"The purpose of this pilot program is for City Hall to learn the problems of the small businessmen and to let those businessmen know what programs are available to them," Mr. Bush said.

"In Boston, 90 percent of the employment in this city is with firms of less than 100 employees. Those are the ones we want to help."

Mr. Bush, who spoke during a reception for about 300 persons in City Hall recently, termed the program, "Operation Neighborhood."

PROGRESS REPORT No. 16 — BOSTON'S PERSONNEL REDUCTION PROGRAM

The city will not reach its 1,600 goal by June 30 unless city and county personnel members are reduced by 312 in June. Considering that the highest monthly personnel decrease achieved in this austerity period was 198 in January, 1974, and that in the last five months city and county personnel numbers have decreased by an average of only twenty-three each month, the 1,600 goal by June 30 now seems like an impossible dream. Nevertheless, the city should be credited for its reduction achievements thus far, and should be encouraged to maintain the reduction level achieved and to continue to work toward the 1,600 objective.

From January 1, 1973, to May 31, 1974, a seventeen-month period, city and Suffolk County personnel numbers decreased from 16,508 to 15,220, a reduction of 1,288 or 7.8 percent. The reduction of 1,288 represents 80.5 percent of the employee reduction goal of 1,600. In May, city and county personnel numbers decreased by twenty-one, the largest monthly decrease in the last four months.

From January 1, 1973, to May 31, 1974, the total number of personnel filling permanent city positions and paid from city funds decreased from 15,067 to 13,754, a reduction of 1,313 or 8.7 percent. For the month of May, city personnel numbers decreased by thirteen, which also is the largest monthly decrease in the last four months. Significant changes are shown below:

CITY DEPARTMENT	Change		Change

Suffolk County personnel numbers increased from 1,441 to 1,466, an increase of 25 or 1.7 percent. County personnel numbers decreased by eight in May, the first month the county has reported a decrease in seven months.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES DEPARTMENT

INSTRUCTIONAL MOVIE PACKAGES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

This office is in receipt of requisitions from the Police Department for educational colored movie instruction procedures in various areas of police training and operations.

This material is obtainable only from Motorola Telegrams, Inc., and it also includes fourteen (14) narrative-type instructional colored movie packages. This company has submitted an informal written quotation.

Inasmuch as this company is the only source of supply, it is my opinion that no useful purpose would be served by publicly advertising for bids.

Permission is therefore requested to dispense with publicly advertising for bids and award a contract, without public advertisement, to Motorola Telegrams, Inc., for educational colored movie instruction procedures.

The amount of the contract is not to exceed $4,003.65, net.

Respectfully yours,

KEVIN P. FEELEY,
Purchasing Agent.

DREDGING MACHINE

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

This office is in receipt of a requisition from the Parks and Recreation Department, for one (1) Mud Cat Model 10, mud dredging machine with accessory equipment. The Commissioner of Parks and Recreation Department has requested that, inasmuch as the Mud Cat Division of National Car Rental Systems, Inc., is the only firm which manufactures a dredge of this type suitable for work in the Muddy River, this equipment be purchased without advertising for bids. An informal written quotation has been received from this company.

In compliance with the Acts of 1909, chapter 486, section 30, authority is requested to award a contract, without public advertisement, to the Mud Cat Division of National Car Rental Systems, Inc., for one Mud Cat MC-10, with accessory equipment, as per specifications listed in the contract.

Total amount of contract is not to exceed $74,807.04, net, which amount includes $3,005 for delivery.

Respectfully yours,

KEVIN P. FEELEY,
Purchasing Agent.

ASSESSING DEPARTMENT

OFFICE MACHINES RENTAL

DEAR SIR:

Permission is respectfully requested to dispense with the usual form of advertising, and award a contract to Univac, Division of Sperry Rand Corporation, Wellesley Office Park, Wellesley, Massachusetts, for the rental of the following Remington Rand equipment for a period of twelve months, commencing July 1, 1974, and ending June 30, 1975.

Nine 1710 VIP Machines, at $1,476 per month, $17,712.

There is no competition in the award of this contract as this corporation is the only supplier of these machines.

Very truly yours,

BERNARD F. SHADRAWY,
Commissioner of Assessing.

AUDITING DEPARTMENT

CONSULTANT SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Permission is respectfully requested to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract for consulting services to Mark F. Conley, 525 Talbot Avenue, Dorchester, Massachusetts, during the period July 1, 1974, through December 31, 1974, at a cost not to exceed $4,500, at a rate of $73 per day. His present contract expires June 30, 1974.

The consultant will continue his review of vendor payment procedures. Considerable progress has been made to date and it is anticipated that significant improvements in the processing of payments will result from this work.

As indicated in our previous letter, Mr. Conley is uniquely qualified for this work because of his long experience in the Comptroller's Department of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. I believe that no public interest would be served by public advertisement for bids.

Very truly yours,

W. W. MERRILL,
City Auditor.

AUDITORIUM COMMISSION

GUARD AND PATROL SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Your authority is hereby requested to dispense with advertising in the City Record, in awarding to Excelon Security Services, Inc., a contract for furnishing guard and patrol service in the city's

John B. Hynes Veterans Auditorium, at 900 Boylston Street, Boston, for the period July 1, 1971, through June 30, 1975, at a cost to the city of $34,000, and with an option to the city to renew the contract for the 1975-1976 year at the same price.

In 1972 the Auditorium Commission advertised in the City Record for bids and Excelon Security Services, Inc. was the low bidder proposing to furnish the Auditorium guard service on a twenty-four hour basis at the rate of $1.83 per hour, which was twelve cents less than his contract price in 1971. In 1973 Excelon submitted a proposal to renew its contract for another year at the same cost to the city, which your Honor approved, in keeping with the austerity program.

Excelon has submitted a proposal to the Commission to renew its contract for the 1974-1975 year, at the same rate of $1.83 per hour for guard service, and with an option to the city to renew again the following year, if Excelon is granted a 10 percent increase in its rates to exhibitors using the Auditorium. As the services of this contractor have been satisfactory, the Auditorium Commission voted to accept these terms and feels the 10 percent increase is justified at this time as these rates will be comparable to others throughout the country.

This Commission feels it would be in the best interest of the Auditorium to retain the services of this contractor for the period stated due to the fact that the Bicentennial celebration will be upon us, and because the building is booked solidly during this period, it is important that the building continue to run without any major problems which could arise breaking in a new contractor.

Because of the professional nature of the work and services involved, and because we believe this to be in the best interest of the city, it does not appear that any useful purpose would be achieved by advertising for bids for this contract. Therefore, we respectfully request your permission to dispense with advertising and award a contract to Excelon Security Services, Inc., 80 Boylston Street, Boston, Massachusetts, in the amount of $34,000.

Very truly yours,

R. C. LINNELL,
Acting Chairman.

ELEVATOR, ESCALATOR SERVICING

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Your authority is hereby requested to dispense with advertising in the City Record, in awarding to Delta Elevator Service Corporation, a full maintenance contract for servicing the two Otis electric passenger elevators, the two Otis plunger electric passenger elevators, the three Otis plunger electric freight elevators, and the four Otis escalators in the city's John B. Hynes Veterans Auditorium, at 900 Boylston Street, Boston, during the period commencing July 1, 1974, and ending June 30, 1975, at a cost to the city of $16,320.

The contract is to include emergency repair call-back service at any hour.

In 1971, Delta Elevator Service Corporation was the low bidder for furnishing a full maintenance contract to the Auditorium, at a cost to the city of $16,320 per year. This contract has been renewed each year by the Auditorium Commission with no increase in cost to the city. Again this year, Delta submitted a letter offering to renew the contract for the 1974-1975 year at no increase in price. As the services of this contractor have been very satisfactory, the Commission feels it would be in the best interest of the city to retain their services for another year and voted to accept Delta's offer.

Because of the professional nature of the work and services involved, it does not appear that any useful purpose would be achieved by advertising for bids for this contract. Therefore, we respectfully request your permission to dispense with advertising and award a contract to Delta Elevator Service Corporation, 50 North Beacon Street, Allston, Mass., in the amount of $16,320.

Very truly yours,

R. C. LINNELL,
Acting Chairman.

BUILDING DEPARTMENT

BUILDING DEMOLITION

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The following buildings or structures have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. These buildings are a menace to the neighborhood. The locations follow:

1,3,5,7, and 10 Roach Street, Ward 15, emergency telephone bid for the demolition, as ordered by Leo F. Martin, Deputy Building Commissioner, to be followed by written confirmations.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 479, Acts of 1938 as amended, particularly section 116 (d) thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to raze the buildings or structures.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the entire lot of buildings or structures, but to break down their bids to show the charge against each separate address. This breakdown is necessary for later departmental use in billing demolition costs incurred against the individual property owner of each house.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

John G. Grant and Sons, $7,900; J. J. Duane, $8,185; Duane Corporation, $6,500; Maffei Wrecking, $7,500; Mystic Building, $10,700; Napoli, $7,840; Ups and Downs, $12,400; John A. Berardi, $9,999.

Duane Corporation, 41 Hallet Street, Dorchester, Mass., has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Bids for the individual buildings or structures were not requested because it would be a practical, physical impossibility for several different contractors to conduct efficient contracting operations simultaneously in individual buildings or structures. Under such conditions, there would be much mutual interference and each contractor would be exposed to severe hazards, not under his control, by the operations of adjacent contractors. I also believe that the aggregate cost of individual bids would be much higher than the cost of one bid for the total buildings or structures to be demolished and that handling the buildings or structures as one unit results in one administrative cost to the city rather than what would result from handling the individual buildings or structures as separate bids and contracts. Unit handling results, however, in this case in a contract price of $2,000, or over the statutory limitations upon awards that can be made without advertising, unless your Honor approves the transaction.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval for the awarding, without advertising, as required in the city charter, of a contract in the sum of $6,500, to the Duane Corporation, 41 Hallet Street, Dorchester, Mass.

Very truly yours,

RICHARD L. GRANARA, JR.,
Assistant Building Commissioner,
For RICHARD R. THUMA, JR.,
Building Commissioner.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The following buildings or structures have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. These buildings are a menace to the neighborhood. The locations follow:

67 and 69 Pembroke Street, Ward 9.

Attached is a copy of first bid which was voided by Building Commissioner when Mystic Building Wrecking Company sent a letter requesting that they be released from bid; second low bidder, John J. Duane Wrecking Company also declined.

Attached also is a copy of second bid and list of bidders. Letter asking for release from first bid is also attached. The Building Department requests approval of second bid held on May 6, 1974.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 479, Acts of 1938 as amended, particularly section 116 (d) thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to raze the buildings or structures.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the entire lot of buildings or structures, but to break down their bids to show the charge against each separate address. This breakdown is necessary for later departmental use in billing demolition costs incurred against the individual property owner of each house.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

Circlepower Demolition, $4,949; John J. Duane Wrecking Company, $7,275; Napoli Wrecking Company, $7,800; Mystic Wrecking Company, $7,900; John A. Berardi Wrecking Company, $7,979; Peter J. Maffei Building Wrecking Corporation, $8,400.

Circlepower Demolition Corporation, 1002 Harrison Avenue, Roxbury, Mass., has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Bids for the individual buildings or structures were not requested because it would be a practical, physical impossibility for several different contractors to conduct efficient contracting operations simultaneously in individual buildings or structures. Under such conditions, there would be much mutual interference and each contractor would be exposed to severe hazards not under his control, by the operations of adjacent contractors. I also believe that the aggregate cost of individual bids would be much higher than the cost of one bid for the total buildings or structures to be demolished, and that handling the buildings or structures as one unit results in one administrative cost to the city rather than what would result from handling the individual buildings or structures as separate bids and contracts. Unit handling results, however, in this case in a contract price of $2,000, or over the statutory limitations upon awards that can be made without advertising, unless your Honor approves the transaction.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval for the awarding without advertising, as required in the city charter, of a contract in the sum of $4,949, to the Circlepower Demolition Corporation, 1002 Harrison Avenue, Roxbury, Mass.

Very truly yours,

RICHARD L. GRANARA, JR.,
Assistant Building Commissioner,
For RICHARD R. THUMA, JR.,
Building Commissioner.

MODEL CITY ADMINISTRATION SECURITY SERVICES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

As the administrator of the Model Cities Program, I hereby request your Honor's written authority to dispense with advertising in the award of a contract to Excelon Security Services, Inc., 30 Boylston Street, Boston, Massachusetts, in the amount of eight thousand one hundred dollars ($8,100).

Under the terms of the contract, Excelon will provide security services for the Model Cities Administration offices, in the Bartlett Building, 2401 Washington Street, Roxbury, Massachusetts, and the Kenmore Building, 2414 Washington Street, Roxbury, Massachusetts. The hourly guard rate will be $3 per hour.

The reasons for not inviting bids is the evidence of satisfactory performance rendered by Excelon under two previous contracts awarded Excelon by the Model Cities Agency for similar security services. Furthermore, Excelon has demonstrated a commitment in compliance with the Department of Housing and Urban Development mandate.

The period of performance will be from December 1, 1973, until June 30, 1974.

For the foregoing reasons, advertising for bids would serve no useful or practical purpose.

Very truly yours,
PAUL PARKS,
Administrator.

HOSPITAL SERVICES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I hereby request authority to dispense with advertising in connection with the award of a contract in an amount not to exceed $110,000, to the Beth Israel Hospital Association, Boston, Massachusetts, for compensation of medical personnel and backup services provided to the Mary Eliza Family Life Center, said contract to be effective as of December 1, 1973, and terminate June 30, 1974.

This contract anticipates receipts from Medicaid, Medicare, and other medical insurers, for services rendered to patients at the center, in an amount which exceeds $40,000.

The Beth Israel Hospital has been the backup institution to the center for the past four years, providing medical personnel, inpatient hospital care, emergency services, outpatient services, as well as laboratory and X-ray services. The contract will require payment by the hospital to the medical personnel and for certain backup services provided to patients and recipients of services at the center. The funds for this contract will be Model Cities funds made available through the city's grant contract with the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Because the bidding process seems singularly inappropriate for a neighborhood health center contract, I am requesting authority to dispense with advertising in connection with the award of this contract.

Should there be any questions, please call me.

Sincerely,
PAUL PARKS,
Administrator.

DROP-IN CENTER

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

As the Administrator of the Model City Administration, I hereby request your approval to award a contract, without advertising, for services, in an amount not to exceed six thousand nine hundred sixty dollars ($6,960), to the Roxbury Action Program, Inc., 10 Linwood Street, Roxbury, Massachusetts, for the operation of a teen drop-in center, located at the Norfolk House, 14 Eliot Square, Roxbury, Mass.

The objective of the program is two-fold. The first objective is to provide recreational and educational activities for teen-agers residing in the Highland Park section of Subarea II. Workshops in leather work, jewelry design, drama, music, and black history will be offered along with general recreational facilities which will be maintained at the center. It is expected that this program will service approximately two hundred (200) teen-agers weekly.

The second part of the contract is to provide program direction for the Funderberg's Nutrition program at the Marcus Garvey House, 14 John Eliot Square, Roxbury, Massachusetts. Over three hundred (300) area residents will be served daily meals from Monday through Friday; three thousand four hundred eighty dollars ($3,480) has been allocated to this portion.

This letter supersedes my letter of October 21, 1973, whereby I requested, and you approved, on November 16, 1973, the award of a contract in the amount of two thousand two hundred fifteen dollars ($2,215) for the same services described in this letter, excepting the nutritional portion of the program.

This contract will be effective during the period December 1, 1973, through June 30, 1974.

The Roxbury Action program previously carried out a contract awarded by the city for the same or similar services proposed by this award. These services were rendered satisfactorily.

For the foregoing reasons, advertising for bids would serve no useful or practical purpose.

Very truly yours,
PAUL PARKS,
Administrator.

OFFICE OF CULTURAL AFFAIRS FIREWORKS DISPLAY

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

This is to request your written authorization to dispense with public advertising, and enter into written agreement with the Rockingham Fireworks Manufacturing and Display Company, Inc., Route 1, Lafayette Road, Seabrook, New Hampshire, for one aerial fireworks display to be held on July 4, 1974, on a barge situated in Dorchester Bay. The total cost of this display will be $7,500, with no rain date charge, which is fair, reasonable, and consistent with the written proposal which they have submitted.

Rockingham Fireworks and Display Manufacturing Company, Inc. is the only company in New England large enough to perform this service at this time, and they have promised to do it in an artistic and safe manner. Public advertising would serve no useful purpose because of the nature of this service and this city's unique needs.

Sincerely yours,
ELIZABETH G. COOK,
Director.

POLICE DEPARTMENT POLICE-COMMUNITY SYSTEM

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

As Commissioner of the City of Boston's Police Department, I respectfully request your Honor's written permission to dispense with public advertising in the award of a contract to the Mattapan Parent Teachers Advisory Council, Inc., 1641 Blue Hill Avenue, Mattapan, Massachusetts 02126, in an amount not to exceed thirty-five thousand dollars ($35,000), for the period June 15, 1974, through December 31, 1974.

Award of the contract is made pursuant to a grant received by the City of Boston from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration through the Governor's Committee on Criminal Justice under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 (P.L. 90-351), as amended by the Omnibus Crime Control Act of 1970 (P.L. 91-644).

The purpose of the grant is to allow the Mattapan Parent Teachers Advisory Council, Inc. to develop a police-community communications system, to include residents, police, and social service agencies in the Mattapan area, and to implement selective component measures which will enhance communication and understanding between the residents of Mattapan and the police of that district.

The Mattapan Parent Teacher Advisory Council, Inc. is a community-based organization which initiates programs designed to encourage communication among various elements in the Mattapan community. It is a multiracial group which mirrors the ethnic and economic composition of the community it serves. The Parent Teacher Advisory Council can provide the comprehensive approach and organizational experience needed, and the type of sponsorship, community orientation, and staff competence necessary to make the project successful. The group of residents and police who planned this program selected the Mattapan Parent Teacher Advisory Council, Inc. to be the administering agency for this project by a unanimous vote, and are confident of the Advisory Council's expertise in sponsoring a program of this nature.

Because of the unique services required to perform the function of this contract, it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful or practical purpose.

Sincerely,
ROBERT J. DI GRAZIA,
Police Commissioner.

AUDIO-VISUAL STUDIO

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I respectfully request your Honor's written permission to dispense with public advertising in the award of a contract to Albert Costa, Jr., of 77 Stadium Way, Boston, Massachusetts, in an amount not to exceed three thousand dollars ($3,000), for the period between March 15, 1974, through June 30, 1974.

Award of this contract is made pursuant to a grant received by the City of Boston from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration through the Governor's Public Safety Committee under the Omnibus Crime Control Act of 1970 (P. L. 91-644).

The purpose of the grant is in part to facilitate the installation of an audio-visual production studio at the Police Academy. The creation of a studio would greatly increase the Academy's ability to produce training tapes. Mr. Costa is an architect who was selected on the recommendation of the Public Facilities Department. His function will be to develop contract specifications and drawings for the renovations needed to install a studio.

Mr. Costa had previously worked with the Police Academy when a move to 73 Hemenway Street was contemplated. At that time, it was expected that the Police Academy would occupy several floors of the old Girls' Trade School. Although the move was never finalized, Mr. Costa drew up complete plans for a television studio and became familiar with the specific needs of the Police Academy.

Therefore, when a decision was made to keep the Academy at North Street, it seemed logical that Mr. Costa be utilized to develop all the plans for a studio at that location. His knowledge and understanding of the department's special requirements make it a wise decision.

Because of the unique circumstances surrounding the functions of this contract, it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful or practical purpose.

Sincerely,
ROBERT J. DI GRAZIA,
Police Commissioner.

RECRUIT TRAINING PROGRAMS

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I respectfully request your Honor's written permission to dispense with public advertising in the award of a contract to Dr. Russell L. Boxley, 331 Shawmut Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts, in an amount not to exceed four thousand four hundred dollars ($4,400), for the period between February 1, 1974, and June 30, 1974.

Award of the contract is made pursuant to a grant received by the City of Boston from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration through the Governor's Public Safety Committee under the Omnibus Crime Control Act of 1970 (P. L. 91-644).

The purpose of the grant is to develop a more comprehensive recruit training program at the Boston Police Academy. As a psychologist, Dr. Boxley will coordinate all counseling services for the recruits; teach several courses on human behavior; and manage all psychological testing of the recruit class.

Dr. Boxley first served the Police Department as a consultant for the recruit selection process. During this period, Dr. Boxley developed an excellent working relationship with both the Academy staff and the recruit class. His knowledge and insight into the psychological aspects of police work make his services a most valuable asset.

Because of the unique services required to perform the functions of this contract, it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful or practical purpose.

Respectfully,
ROBERT J. DI GRAZIA,
Police Commissioner.

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I respectfully request your Honor's written permission to dispense with public advertising in the award of a contract to Ms. Brenda Dunn, of 137 Foster Street, Boston, Massachusetts, in an amount not to exceed three thousand one hundred fifty dollars ($3,150), for the period between February 1, 1974, and June 30, 1974.

Award of the contract is made pursuant to a grant received by the City of Boston from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration through the Governor's Public Safety Committee under the Omnibus Crime Control Act (P. L. 91-644).

The purpose of the grant is to develop a more comprehensive recruit training program at the Boston Police Academy. Ms. Dunn will be responsible for counseling of the women recruits and will perform curriculum design duties relative to dealing with mental health problems. In addition, she will assist the staff psychologist in all testing activities.

Ms. Dunn has had considerable experience both as a counselor through the Boston University School of Social Work, and as a testing specialist through the Massachusetts Division of Civil Service. Ms. Dunn had previously worked with the department as a consultant on the role of women in policing.

Because of the unique services required to perform the functions of this contract, it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful or practical purpose.

Respectfully,
ROBERT J. DI GRAZIA,
Police Commissioner.

ELEVATOR SERVICE AND MAINTENANCE

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

I hereby respectfully request written authority to dispense with public advertising for bids, and to enter into a contract with the Beckwith Elevator Company, 8 St. Mary's Street, Boston, for service and maintenance to two (2) elevators at Police Headquarters, 151 Berkeley Street, for the period July 1, 1974, to June 30, 1975, at a cost not to exceed $3,000.

The above elevators have been repaired as of January 31, 1974, by the Beckwith Elevator Company, the low bidder, and the full maintenance program ends on June 30, 1974.

Beckwith Elevator Company, the contractor, is responsible for maintenance and in order to validate the guarantee the maintenance program should be extended to June 30, 1975. This would avoid any possibility of confusion as to any area of responsibility involved in the operation of these elevators.

Beckwith was the low bidder for the 1973-1974 service and maintenance period, and have agreed to service and maintain the above elevators for a cost of $250 per month, which represents a reduction of $40 per month from the bid price of 1973.

Therefore, I believe that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully,
ROBERT J. DI GRAZIA,
Police Commissioner.

"571 Ashmont Street, Dorchester,
April 15, 1974.

DEAR COMMISSIONER KELLY:

I would like to take this opportunity to commend three of your personnel of Ladder Company 27 of Neponset Avenue for their quick response, immediate action, and professional manner displayed in response to a heart condition call at 571

Ashmont Street, Dorchester, on the night of March 26, 1974.

Within minutes of my family's call for assistance, Lieut. Denis Sullivan and Firemen Walter Hurley and William Sullivan arrived at my home and provided the necessary emergency treatment and oxygen to relieve the pressure on my heart as well as possibly saving my life.

The expertise and professional manner displayed by these firemen is a credit to themselves, Ladder Company 27, and the Boston Fire Department. All too often we take for granted our Fire Department, failing to realize how important a role it plays in the community. I will appreciate it if you would convey to these three professionals my sincere thanks for a job well done.

Sincerely,

JOHN M. KELLIHER AND FAMILY"

Vandalism in Boston Schools Exceeds $1 Million

According to Mr. Henry Scagnoli, chief of public safety for the Boston school system, vandalism to school buildings in Boston has cost the city's taxpayers more than $1 million in the past year. "We're not talking about a couple of kids throwing a rock through a window anymore," he said. "What we're talking about now is wanton destruction. They're not just breaking windows. They're burning the buildings down. They're stealing some $50,000 worth of equipment out of classrooms, ripping out wiring, smashing plumbing, destroying heating and cooling systems."

"And we're not alone. Vandalism in America last year cost $1 billion, half of that to school systems. Every major school system in the country is spending millions of dollars simply repairing damage. Our best estimates here, this past year, run over $1 million."

Vandalism brought temporary closings to several schools, permanent closings to two.

In one two-month period (March and April) fires were set in twenty-seven different Boston schools.

School Department electricians and plumbers spent more than half their working hours repairing damage caused by vandals. Custodians rang up $80,000 in overtime responding to alarms and cleaning up school buildings after vandals had rampaged through them in the night. Hundreds of false alarms were rung.

More than $300,000 was spent in repairing broken windows. A total of $46,500 worth of equipment (typewriters, televisions, calculators, office machines) was stolen. Two buildings were burned so badly they had to be razed. School officials and community groups alike are at a loss to explain the great destruction.

Recently Anthony Galeota, who heads the School Department Planning Division and is in charge of repairs, turned over an in-depth report on the situation to Edward Lambert, executive administrative assistant to the Superintendent. He and associate superintendents John Kelly and William Harrison recommended an eight-point plan which could help the situation.

They are:

1. A central collection point where all information can be centered, avoiding the often vague figures and costs now available.
2. Change all exterior locks in school buildings.
3. Accelerate an external lighting program, floodlighting school yards throughout the city.
4. Closer supervision of lavatories by teachers or their aides.
5. Installation of burglar alarms.
6. More supervision in the community schools which stay open for various functions until 11 p.m.
7. Establishment of a more intensive program to bring pride in the school itself among students and their parents.
8. Treat each school as a unique problem and deal with it as such.

Mayor Kevin H. White

COMMUNITY PROGRAMS

Education

Mayor White, aware of Boston's deteriorating school plant, has initiated the building of more new schools in the last five years than have been built in any other five-year period in Boston's history. Ten community schools have been opened since 1968, used by children and adults alike; nine more community schools will be opened by 1975; and ten other schools have been substantially renovated.

Mayor White has demanded that the new University of Massachusetts opening in Boston accept most of its students from the city's high schools and from lower-income families to insure equal educational opportunities for inner-city students.

Mayor White's support of equal educational opportunity for all of Boston's students led him to criticize the state Racial Imbalance Law for its reliance on mandatory busing; he proposed a solution that would deal with the economic and social inequities between the city and its suburbs, and would involve the whole metropolitan area in a voluntary desegregation plan.

Elderly

Mayor White established the city's first full-time department to deal exclusively with the problems of the elderly.

He fought for and won half-fare prices for the elderly on the public transit system, and arranged for many theatres, restaurants, and stores to reduce their prices for the elderly.

Mayor White appointed thirty-three of Boston's elderly leaders to an advisory committee to help the city develop the kind of program the elderly need.

Under Mayor White's administration the number of housing units for the elderly has tripled — over 2,000 housing units have been built throughout the city.

Mayor White introduced a volunteer work program that has placed over 350 elderly in community-sponsored programs. By 1974, 1,000 more volunteer positions will be filled.

Mayor White fought for federal aid to continue the Senior Aide Programs that now employ sixty-two elderly in city government.

Health Services

Although Boston is world renowned for its medical facilities, many of its people receive inadequate health care, yet must bear the tax burden of supporting these institutions.

Mayor White is fighting to make twenty-eight private hospitals, now operating on tax-free property, provide health care to the people of Boston.

Mayor White has made health care available to more people with the introduction of fifteen neighborhood-based clinics offering complete treatment and follow-up care throughout the city.

Mayor White started the city's first full-fledged program to prevent and control drug abuse with treatment, education, law enforcement, and community action.

Mayor White established a Methadone Maintenance Program which treats 800 outpatients at Boston City Hospital and greatly reduces the chance for drug-related crimes.

Mayor White started the largest building and renovation program in the history of Boston City Hospital, including staff buildings, a biochemistry building, emergency and maternity buildings, and a multi-service outpatient department.

Mayor White started a plan to reduce the operating deficit and to improve the delivery of health services at Boston City Hospital by consolidating specialty services and eliminating duplicating facilities.

Mayor White constructed a $2 million central kitchen facility which makes and serves over 40,000 hot lunches regularly to school children.

Housing

Fifteen low- and middle-income housing developments have been built in every section of the city, comprising 2,000 elderly housing units and 130 family units.

Mayor White required the first accommodations for the handicapped in new construction. Over 100 housing units have been built that anticipate the needs of the handicapped.

Three thousand five hundred homes and 6,000 apartments have been brought up to housing code standards and rehabilitated under Boston's Community Improvement Program.

Mayor White cosponsored the first local Housing Court to deal exclusively with housing problems and to insure quick results for tenant complaints.

Mayor White sponsored the first local Rent Control Board in the state to control rising rent levels and to protect tenants from unfair rent increases.

Transportation

Mayor White has been a key figure in stopping the careless and disruptive expansion of both the highway and airport networks.

He has pressed for $1 billion in federal highway funding to be used in upgrading and expanding the mass transit system;

He has taken action in court and in the state legislature to halt airport expansion until a growth plan, taking the neighborhoods surrounding the airport into account, is made public;

He has filed suit against the Port Authority to force it to provide $10 million for soundproofing for fifteen schools affected by overhead planes.

Mayor White has filed suit against the tax-exempt businesses located on airport land to pay taxes to the city.

Mayor White has filed legislation for the state to assume half of the $80 million mass transit deficit in order to give it a sounder financial base than the property tax and to provide property tax relief for homeowners.

Mayor White has frozen parking spaces and will increase traffic fines and reduce downtown and off-street parking facilities to discourage passenger vehicles and to encourage the use of mass transit.

Police Reorganization

Mayor White has generated a major reorganization of the Boston Police Department which is now under his control for the first time in his six years of office. Despite strong opposition from the Patrolmen's Association, the Mayor has directed a major overhaul in the tradition-bound department, including a reorganization of the department's command structure, from deputy commander down to patrolman; the creation of new units to root out corruption, eliminate waste of manpower, and increase accountability and supervision within the department.

Mayor White is presently working with the new Police Commissioner, Robert di Grazia, to redeploy 10 percent of the police force now assigned from interior clerical duties to visible street patrol, to streamline the department's communication facilities, to increase and improve the use of police manpower during high-crime periods, and to speed up police response time to citizen calls for assistance.

FINANCE (TAXATION)

Federal

Mayor White participated in an intensive nationwide campaign in 1969 with the Legislative Action Committee of the United States Conference of Mayors for passage of general revenue sharing. In January of 1973 he was the first mayor to criticize the President's New Federalism proposals as "a shell game of enormous proportions for the central cities of America."

Mayor White has said: "After vigorously supporting the President's plan for general revenue sharing, I now find myself opposed to a former ally. The President's elimination of seventy categorical grant-in-aid programs brings to a halt the progress of successful projects already under way in Boston. He's now telling us to make up the difference by tapping general revenue funds. But general revenue sharing was meant to supplement, not substitute, for existing federal programs. So, in effect, he's telling us to rob from Peter to pay Paul, but the net result would be to starve both. For Boston the hard arithmetic shows a loss of over $100 million in federal aid."

State

Mayor White has continually led the battle for passage of state legislation to relieve the tax burden on all of Massachusetts cities and towns, including:

State assumption of 50 percent of the $80 million mass transit deficit which had been paid exclusively by homeowners through the property tax;

State assumption of county court and correction costs, now supported exclusively by homeowners through a property tax.

City

Mayor White is fighting for state assumption of the burden of tax-exempt medical and educational institutions in the metropolitan area to ease the property tax load on homeowners. At the same time, he has proposed wide-scale plans for institutional cooperation in developing innovative solutions to problems ranging from public education to health care. These programs are an effort to lower Boston's property tax ($196.70 in 1973), highest among all large American cities, and to compensate for the fact that 54 percent of Boston's land is tax free.

Mayor White initiated an intensive austerity program in January, 1973, designed to cut back the city's operating budget, to stabilize the escalating tax rate, and to ease the burden on property taxpayers. For the first time in a decade the city budget was reduced, by $5.4 million as a result of the ten following economies:

Ten percent cut in the city work force;

Ten percent cut in mayoral budget;

Elimination of the Civil Defense Department;

Elimination of the Boston Police Harbor Patrol Division and the reassignment of the seventy-one men to neighborhood patrol;

Nine percent cut in Boston Redevelopment Authority budget;

Two and one-half million dollars cut in Boston City Hospital subsidy;

Freeze on Boston School Department budget;

Freeze on the county budget; and

A shutdown of two county penal institutions within two years, unless the state takes them over.

FREE ARTS INSTRUCTION

Parks and Recreation Commissioner Anthony E. Forgione has announced that registration for Pinebank Arts Center in the Park is being conducted on an ongoing basis.

The new visual and performing arts center, in its first month of operation, is offering free professional instruction in the arts for adults and children who are residents of Boston.

"The Parks Department has long planned to provide a permanent, year-round arts center for Boston residents," Commissioner Forgione said.

"Pinebank Arts Center in the Park is unique because it provides to Bostonians, at no charge, the kind of training and exposure traditionally sought through art schools and college classes," he said.

The center, located off the Jamaicaaway (Rt. 1 south), in Jamaica Plain, is offering classes that include: drama workshop (mime, makeup technique, and improvisation), batik, silk screen, drawing and painting, and ballet and jazz dancing.

An expanded program, including classes in watercolor, ceramics, leather work, and at-home arts and crafts, will be available in the fall.

In the fall students will have the opportunity to plan and perform in dance performances, drama productions, and art shows.

For more information about the art adventures available at Pinebank, call 522-5203, Monday through Thursday, from 9:30 to 12:30, or Monday and Thursday evenings, from 7 to 9 p.m., or contact Dorothy Curran in the Boston Parks and Recreation Department, 722-4100, ext. 151.

Letters that cannot be delivered because of illegible, incomplete, or otherwise inadequate addresses have been a problem for United States Post Offices since the early days of the nation. A dead letter office was established to handle such mail in 1825.

SERVICE FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

Mayor Kevin White announced the opening of a telephone hotline for older Bostonians designed to provide them with direct access to city services and other valuable resources designed for the elderly.

"The elderly hotline concept represents an important new effort on the part of the city to establish a link between the needs of older persons and the services which are available to them," Mayor White said.

"It is my hope that the hotline will help break some of the barriers of loneliness and isolation which too often prevent the elderly from fully participating in society," the Mayor said.

"The purpose of the hotline will be to assist the city's older population in identifying and answering its own special concerns and needs," he said.

The hotline, 722-4646, becomes the most recent in a series of new programs developed by Boston's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly.

According to Taylor B. Wagenseil, Commissioner on Affairs of the Elderly, the hotline will be staffed by older persons who recently completed an intensive ten-week training program.

The hotline volunteers, according to Wagenseil, will be able to deal with problem solving over the telephone as well as provide information on public and private agencies whose business relates to the problems encountered by the elderly.

The hotline is open on Monday through Friday, from 9 A.M. until 5 P.M.

DRUG PROGRAM AWARDED GRANT

Boston's drug treatment program has been granted $360,000 from the National Institute of Drug Abuse for support of Boston's Polydrug Inpatient Unit, one of eleven United States pilot projects established in 1973 to treat users of nonopiates.

Program director Dr. Vernon D. Patch said the polydrug treatment units in many major cities represent early federal efforts to focus on the problems of abuse of substances such as barbiturates, amphetamines, and tranquilizers.

Barbiturate addiction and tranquilizer abuse have been the major polydrug problems treated in Boston's unit since it was established nine months ago. More than 100 patients have been admitted for inpatient detoxification, Dr. Patch said.

Early data shows polydrug users in the Boston area generally have more serious underlying psychiatric disturbances than heroin addicts and pose a more difficult treatment problem, he said. In another finding, America's No. 1 minor tranquilizer, Valium, has become a "street drug" in this area with a street value as high as a dollar for a single tablet that has a legitimate retail value of less than ten cents.

TECHNIQUES OF ART ON VIEW TO THE PUBLIC

Ten local artists will be employed by the Institute of Contemporary Art to do their creative work in public spaces around downtown Boston from August 3 through August 31. The project, "Works in Progress: Artists in Residence to the Public," is the first public art project developed by the Institute after its spring symposium on upgrading Boston's visual environment through public art. The public is encouraged to visit the artists at their public sites, to ask them questions, and watch their works develop over the four weeks of "Works in Progress."

Between 11 A.M. and 6 P.M. the public can see artists work in a variety of media in ten locations lent by Boston business and government. Yael Bentovim of Boston will sculpt with different fibers in the House chamber lobby of the Massachusetts State House; sculptor Caroline Cohen will work with vinyl on the Esplanade; Nancy Connolly will be making puppets and armature in the courtyard of the Charles Street Meeting House; and Marilyn Kirsch will draw and paint at the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank Plaza. At the Prudential Center Edmund Sullivan will continue his work sculpting in marble, and Marlene Oliver will be spray-painting onto Plexiglas outside the Auditorium MBTA Station on Boylston Street. At One Boston Place Plaza sculptor David Phillips can be seen making plastic lay-ups in flexible molds, while potter Nancy Selva works in the lobby of Boston City Hall, and sculptor John Raimond welds in stainless steel outside of City Hall Plaza. A video documentation of all the artists at work will be compiled by artists Tava and Jeffrey Hudson, and an exhibition of finished work will be on display at the Institute of Contemporary Art, at 955 Boylston Street, Boston, from September 10 through September 20. Admission is free.

"Works in Progress" will enlighten the public about the artist's actual process of creating a work of art. This project is made possible with support from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities.

LANGUAGE INTERPRETERS RESPOND

The need for language interpreters at Boston City Hall has brought a response for volunteer service by more than seventy City Hall employees speaking twenty-three languages.

According to Katharine D. Kane, director of Boston 200, "with the increased numbers of foreign visitors in Boston as a result of our bicentennial activities we must do all we can to put our best foot forward. By having a language corps available to serve as interpreters we can develop Boston goodwill within City Hall."

Among the many languages spoken fluently by the City Hall employee volunteers are Arabic, Bulgarian, Hindi, Pushto, and Urdu. Russian, French, Spanish, and other European languages are also spoken, with German, Spanish, French, and Italian most frequently spoken by the volunteers.

CITY ACTS ON NONPAYMENT OF TAXES

The City of Boston has taken title to 2,012 parcels of land for nonpayment of taxes for 1972, representing $7.5 million in lost revenue to the city.

Included among the properties are office buildings, apartment houses, residential homes, parking lots, and abandoned structures.

"The city does not want to become a landlord," said Collector-Treasurer James V. Young. "All we want are the taxes paid. The taxes were due some twenty months ago, and the taxpayers have had more than sufficient time to pay them," Mr. Young said.

"The city technically owns the property, but the taxpayer has an additional six months in which to pay the delinquent tax bill, plus interest charges, before the city moves to petition the land court for foreclosure," he said.

"If the taxes are not paid within six months, the property will be turned over to the Real Property Department for either auction or management," Mr. Young said.

Collector-Treasurer Young said the crackdown against delinquent taxpayers stems from the Mayor's policy of a balanced growth for Boston through a stable and improved tax structure.

Nonpayment of taxes for 1972 represented $4.30 on the tax rate.

LIVING WITH EMPHYSEMA

Emphysema is a long-lasting disease of the lungs which very few nonsmokers develop.

For someone with healthy lungs, it is difficult to imagine how life feels for a person with emphysema. These comments from many different emphysema patients, which were published in a recent issue of the magazine, "Respiratory Care," describe the effects of the disease in a grim, graphic way:

Emphysema is thinking the next breath won't be there.

Emphysema is feeling like I'm going to blow up from the inside.

Emphysema is not being able to sleep more than two and a half hours before I have to get up and clear my chest.

Emphysema is being weary constantly.

Emphysema is not being able to bend over and put your socks on.

Emphysema is going to my daughter's house for dinner and spending all day tomorrow in bed.

Emphysema is asking people to come and see me because I'm lonely.

Emphysema develops gradually. Some of the first signs of the disease can be shortness of breath during only minor exertion. As the disease progresses, the air sacs of the lungs, where oxygen and carbon dioxide are exchanged, rip and tear.

Doctors can help patients breathe easier with the disease, but, as yet, there is no known cure. The prevention — not smoking — is clear, however.

GAIL ROTEGARD APPOINTED

The Federal Energy Office (FEO) has announced the appointment of Gail Rotegard, Administrator of Visitor Services for Boston 200, to the Tourism/Recreation Advisory Committee.

Ms. Rotegard will represent Massachusetts and Boston 200, the city's bicentennial celebration.

According to John C. Sawhill, FEO Administrator, "the purpose of the Tourism/Recreation Advisory Committee is to provide direct and timely information on the impact of the energy situation, on tourism and recreation. "Additionally," noted Mr. Sawhill, "the committee will assist the FEO in formulating an energy policy for the travel industry."

"The representation of Boston and Massachusetts on the Tourism/Recreation Advisory Committee," says Ms. Rotegard, "is one way in which we can be sure that the people of our country will be able to travel and take part in our nation's two hundredth birthday. It will also assure many citizens in our own community jobs during the years to come through the continued development of the tourist industry."

The Tourism/Recreation Advisory Committee is composed of twenty-one members, representing a cross section of national leadership in the travel and recreation industry.

According to Mr. Sawhill, "Massachusetts is one of forty-six states in which tourism is one of the top three industries."

The Advisory Committee has a responsibility to see that the industry is protected and that Americans have a continued opportunity to travel.

Indiscriminate dumping on vacant lots in the City of Boston has become a serious enough problem that it can no longer be tolerated. For this reason, no demolition permits are being issued by the city Building Department to any individual unless he submits an affidavit stating the location of the approved site where he will dump the debris.

The city Building Department has every intention of prosecuting violators to the fullest extent of the law. A copy of each building demolition permit will be furnished through this department to the concerned district station so that officers will be aware of demolition activity. Members of the department will take appropriate action to stop illegal dumping practices.

V. LETTER OF COMMENDATION

The following letter is published for the information of the department:

"May 28, 1974.

DEAR CHIEF PAUL:

I am writing this letter to commend Fire Fighter Charles Madden of Ladder Company 27. I happened to be present at the Columbia Pontiac garage when one of the older mechanics collapsed from a massive heart attack and required artificial resuscitation and external cardiac massage. I began resuscitation, and Fire Fighter Madden arrived a short time later. He gave artificial respiration and accompanied the patient and myself in the ambulance to Boston City Hospital, where after further emergency treatment, the patient was admitted to the coronary care unit.

Fire Fighter Madden conducted himself in a very professional manner and provided a very proficient level of emergency medical care. Coincidentally, Charles Madden is presently enrolled in the EMT course we are giving at University Hospital.

I believe successful resuscitative efforts such as this points out the value of the EMT training courses, and I feel that you and Chief Cameron should also be commended for your efforts and foresight in getting so many of your men to take the EMT training course.

With best regards

Sincerely,

JEREMY M. RAMP, M.D., Director,
Emergency Services,
Department of Health and Hospitals."

DEAR COMMISSIONER KELLY:

I am a disabled veteran who ambulate with the aid of crutches. On the evening of May 17, 1974, the elevators in the building where I work at 291 Washington Street, broke down and I was stranded on the eleventh floor.

Some of the men of Engine 25 and Ladder 8, whose names I don't know, firmly insisted that they carry me down the stairs. I shall be ever grateful to these men for coming to my assistance and wish to commend them for their deep compassion, concern, and cooperation.

They are very modest people doing a great job serving the public.

Sincerely,
RICHARD BRETTMAN,

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

COMMERCE AND MANPOWER

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT PROGRAM

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I respectfully request your permission to dispense with inviting proposals by public advertising in the City Record, and to award a contract to Action for Boston Community Development, Inc., 150 Tremont Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02111, for the operation of a summer employment program for Boston's economically disadvantaged youth, at a cost not to exceed $1,935,795. Funds for this contract will be provided from a federal government grant to the City of Boston, through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, 1974, P.L. 93-192. The effective dates of operation for this contract will be from June 17, 1974, to September 3, 1974.

Under the terms of this proposed contract, ABCD will operate an eleven-week summer job program that will employ approximately 5,000 Boston youth from low-income families throughout the city. Enrolled youth will receive weekly compensation and counseling as well as on the job supervision.

At least $1,600,000 of this proposed contract will go directly to enrollee compensation. The balance will be distributed among project operations, personnel, overhead costs, supplies, travel, and equipment.

In view of the few agencies professionally capable of operating a program of this magnitude and short duration and, due to the extensive experience of ABCD with summer youth programs, it is my opinion that no useful purpose will be served by publicly advertising for bids.

Sincerely,

GERALD W. BUSH,
Director.

COMMISSION ON AFFAIRS OF THE ELDERLY

DEVELOPMENT CONSULTANT

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I hereby request your approval to award a contract for services, in an amount not to exceed five thousand, three hundred dollars ($5,300), to Mrs. Natalie Cabot Neagle, of Boston, for services as a development consultant to the Commission on Affairs of the Elderly.

Mrs. Neagle's function as developmental consultant to the Commission will be to provide assistance on overall program development, as well as to evaluate present Commission programs, and make recommendations for their improvement.

Mrs. Neagle is a well-known professional in the field of aging whose book, You Can't Count on Dying (Houghton Mifflin, 1962), is used as a primary resource in libraries and as teaching material. Her past work in founding and directing the Age Center of New England, Inc., a pioneer research institution for studying the normal aging process of an urban population, brought her high recognition both nationally and in the Boston professional community. Mrs. Neagle is experienced as a developmental consultant as well as an administrator, and her wide working experience in all aspects of the field of aging uniquely qualifies her for work as a special consultant to Boston's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly.

The funds to be provided under the contract will be used to cover the cost of her services.

This contract will be effective during the period July 1, 1974, through December 31, 1974.

It is therefore requested that notice of this contract be dispensed from public advertising in the City Record.

Sincerely,

TAYLOR B. WAGENSEIL,
Commissioner.

HOUSING COURT

COPYING MACHINE

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

I respectfully request your written authorization to dispense with writing a proposal of advertisement in the Boston City Record, and award to the XEROX Corporation, a contract for the supply and maintenance of our XEROX copying machine, during the period of July 1, 1974, through June 30, 1975, at a cost not to exceed $7,000, which I believe is fair and reasonable.

In view of the quality of the machines and services to be provided, it is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,

E. GEORGE DAHER,
Clerk.

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT

ENGINEERING SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Ever since the 1890s when the Boston Public Library was relocated to Copley Square, it has been necessary to have periodic examination made of its building settlement levels for the safety of the public and for the protection of the magnificent buildings, as well as their contents. This examination has been performed from the beginning by the firm of engineers, the J. R. Worcester and Company, and more recently by their successors, the firm of Gilbert Small and Company, Inc.

The firm of Gilbert Small & Company, Inc. is especially qualified because of exhaustive studies of the Library's conditions made by it over the past three-quarters of a century. It has a complete file of all pertinent yearly data relative to the water table during this period. In addition, it has a thorough familiarity with the buildings, geological conditions, etc., of the Copley Square area. The cost of this firm's services for July 1, 1974, through June 30, 1975, is not to exceed two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500).

The Board of Trustees, in charge of the Library Department of the City of Boston, have therefore:

Voted, That there be entered into, without public advertising, with Gilbert Small & Company, Inc., 1391 South Street, Needham, Massachusetts, a service agreement for the examination of building levels at the two Central Library buildings for the period July 1, 1974, through June 30, 1975, the total fee thus charged to be subject to the terms, agreements, and conditions set forth in said agreement.

In view of the foregoing, the permission of your Honor is respectfully requested to enter into this agreement with Gilbert Small & Company, Inc., without publicly advertising for bids.

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN CHARGE OF
OF BOSTON,
Respectfully,
By PHILIP J. MCNIFF,
Director.

WATCHMAN, FIRE ALARM SYSTEM INSPECTION

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Board of Trustees, in charge of the Library Department of the City of Boston, respectfully requests that you approve the signing of a service agreement, without public advertising, with the American District Telegraph Company, 10 North Avenue, Burlington, Massachusetts, for furnishing, during the period July 1, 1974, through June 30, 1975, of inspection service for the combination watchman-recording and fire alarm system in the Central Library building (now referred to as the Research Library building). In 1951 the equipment for the system was installed by the General Alarm Corporation. On September 1, 1955 the assets and service obligations of the General Alarm Corporation were taken over by the American District Telegraph Company. Inasmuch as the servicing of this equipment can be obtained only from the American District Telegraph Company, the Board of Trustees, in charge of the Library Department, acting in the name of and for the City of Boston, have Voted, That there be entered into, without public advertising, with the American District Telegraph Company, 10 North Avenue, Burlington, Massachusetts, a service agreement for the period July 1, 1974, through June 30, 1975, for furnishing of inspection service for the combination watchman-recording and fire alarm system in the Research Library building, the total fee thus charged to be subject to the terms, agreements, and conditions set forth in said agreement.

The total cost of the service during the period of the agreement is estimated to be $2,392. The approval of your Honor for the award of this contract to American District Telegraph Company, as above,

RENTAL OF PREMISES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Board of Trustees, in charge of the Library Department of the City of Boston, respectfully requests that you approve the signing of a lease, without public advertising, with Ernest M. Helides, as he is Trustee of the Helides Realty Trust, for the rental of premises located at 6 Weir Street, Taunton, Mass. These premises will serve as quarters for a Bookmobile center for the Eastern Regional Library program in the Taunton area. The lease will be for the period July 1, 1974, through June 30, 1975. The annual rate will be in the sum of seven thousand nine hundred and twenty dollars ($7,920). It is not possible to obtain competitive bidding by public advertising for this purpose.

Inasmuch as the total rental will exceed two thousand dollars ($2,000), there is respectfully requested permission of your Honor to enter into this lease, without public advertising for bids. Funds for the payment of this rental are made available to the City of Boston as reimbursement from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts through the state Aid Act for support to public libraries.

Respectfully,

OF BOSTON,
By PHILIP J. McNIFF,
Director and Librarian.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN CHARGE OF
OF BOSTON,
By PHILIP J. McNIFF,
Director and Librarian.

OFFICE OF CULTURAL AFFAIRS SUMMERTHING PROGRAMS

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I respectfully request your written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, in awarding to the Boston Foundation, Inc. a contract for the production of the 1974 Summerthing program, and for the production, management, and planning of the neighborhood arts programming, during the period of September, 1971, through June, 1975; and for the initial planning and organization of the 1975 Summerthing program.

Under the terms of the proposed agreement, The Boston Foundation, Inc. will supply and produce major performances in music, drama, and dance, as well as performances of lesser scope. In addition, the Foundation will supply workshop programs in the neighborhoods. All of the programs will be run with the assistance of local neighborhood coordinators in each of the twenty neighborhoods. The Foundation will also have responsibility for budget preparation, auditions of performing groups, planning and coordinating with community agencies and groups, other city departments, and neighborhood coordinators. The Foundation will also conduct personnel training, purchase and maintain technical equipment, and make arrangements for all necessary advance planning. In addition, the Foundation will supply and produce performances and educational programs in the neighborhoods of Boston, during the months when Summerthing is not in operation, in an effort to continue successful programs begun during past summers. The cost to the city will not exceed $473,510. The contract will be for the period July 1, 1974, to June 30, 1975.

In view of the success of the last six years of programs and the special nature of the services to be rendered, it is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose, and that award of this contract will be in the best interests of the city.

Sincerely,
ELIZABETH G. COOK,
Director.

PUBLIC FACILITIES DEPARTMENT

CONCEPTS APPLICATION SYSTEM

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The City of Boston Public Facilities Commission previously authorized the undersigned to request, in the name and on behalf of that Commission, from the Mayor, as I hereby so do, written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, and to award to the National Academy of Sciences, "NAS," a nonprofit organization (designated as an official, though independent advisor to the federal government), chartered by the Congress of the United States, with offices at 2101 Constitution Avenue, Washington, District of Columbia 20113, a contract to provide during an ensuing one (1)-year period assistance and advice to the City of Boston, through the medium of its Department of Public Facilities, including the Director of Public Facilities, jointly with other participants, in the founding of a nonprofit organization of public and private building owners and users dedicated to implementation and application of the subsystems concepts in construction on a nationwide basis, it being understood that NAS, through its Building Research Advisory Board, "BRAB," shall also continue pursuing its program for promotion of the development and use of the subsystem concept of building construction on a countrywide basis, at a cost to the City of Boston for such services in the fixed fee amount of $10,000; and to execute such contract in the name and on behalf of the Commission, upon receipt of said written authority from the Mayor.

The city and the aforementioned Building Research Advisory Board have found that the United States industry does not and will not effectively respond with significant cost savings to the requirements of any one program, however large, because tool-up costs and industrial production runs seem to absorb any savings involved. However, a standardization of requirements on the part of many large owners and users of buildings all over the nation, and a commitment by them to use a certain volume of production annually, will offer sufficient incentive to industry to induce it to respond to the mutual benefit of all, including the City of Boston.

In view of the above, and as indicated earlier, the idea here is that the owners and users of large building programs in the United States, who are committed to the subsystems concept, as here, band together in a nonprofit organization dedicated to the aforesaid objective; and, we feel strongly, that the National Academy, through its Building Research Advisory Board, is well equipped to bring such an organization into existence and further, to ensure that its influence will be directed toward the best interests of the building community in particular and the public at large.

As a concrete example of the enduring interest in and experience with the subsystem concept of building construction by NAS, through its BRAB, may I inform your Honor of the following: In December 1970, at the request of the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development, "HUD," the United States Government Printing Office published a 600-page volume of housing systems proposals, replete with illustrations of building systems and building subsystems, including three-dimensional modules, etc.; this volume actually came into being under the guidance of, and approved for, submission to HUD, through the Academy, acting by an advisory subcommittee of BRAB, chaired by William J. Bobish, F.A.C.E., Naval Facilities Engineering Command, Washington, D. C.; HUD has initially contracted with the Academy to have its BRAB objectively extract and prepare for publication the technical data contained in the aforementioned multiple systems, proposals which HUD had invited and received.

We think it clear that a public invitation for proposals in the present instance would not be of any avail to the city.

Respectfully,

ROBERT J. VEY,
Director.

GUARDS AND PROTECTION SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

In response to an advertisement in the City Record issue, dated April 29, 1974, the following general bids in connection with guards and protection services at various locations, were publicly opened and read aloud at the office of the Public Facilities Department, on Wednesday, May 22, 1974:

Safeguard Detective and Security Bureau, $17,637; Execelon Security Services, Inc., $56,079; Superior Security Services, Inc., $62,109; Odgen Security, Inc., $75,375; Watts Security System, Inc., $75,576.

For your Honor's further information Safeguard has not been incorporated for three (3) years as provided in the contract. However, in my judgment, it is in the best interests of the City of Boston to reject all five (5) advertised bids and award this contract, without advertising, to Safeguard Detective and Security Bureau.

Therefore, your Honor's written authorization is requested to dispense with further public advertising for bids and to award a contract, without advertising, to Safeguard Detective and Security Bureau, 294 Washington Street, Boston, Massachusetts, for an amount not to exceed $47,637.

Respectfully,

ROBERT J. VEY,
Director.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT

CONSULTANT

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The various state-federal projects such as Topics, Urban Systems and Urban Extensions have already been a tremendous assist in improving our public ways and give promise of being even more helpful. Unfortunately, the major drawback in getting such projects accomplished has been the drawn-out procedures between acceptance of these various projects by the state and their implementation by means of design, plan, specifications, etc., all of which lead to the actual contract work.

Our most serious delay in this request has been in achieving our hoped-for goal of improved, city-owned street lighting of both residential streets, major arteries, and business areas. Basically this delay has been because the consultants whom the state hired for this overall work were not street-lighting oriented and hence the resultant lag.

Since there is promise of several millions of dollars being assigned by the state to our street lighting needs, without any matching city funds, I feel that the quickest way to take advantage of these potential lighting funds is for us to engage a consultant firm which specializes in street lighting and which has first-hand knowledge of all of our standard procedures in such matters.

The firm of Edwards and Kelcey fits these requirements excellently. They have been working for a number of years on BRA projects, including street lighting, have also done similar work for the state and they have the all-round know-how that is so important.

Therefore, your Honor's permission is requested to dispense with advertising, and to award a contract to the consultant firm of Edwards and Kelcey, Inc., a New Jersey corporation, licensed to do business in this Commonwealth, with local offices at 470 Atlantic Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts, to prepare the necessary design studies, layouts, plans and details, specifications, and contract items, when and as required for street lights, needed for any of the above-referenced state-federal projects, as well as having similar duties relative to our various city-advertised projects which involve street lighting. Also, they would have to coordinate their work with federal, state and city requirements along with any other public or private agency affected. The total sum of the proposed contract not to exceed $90,000, and to be for a period not exceeding one year from the date of the award.

Payment for such services would be their direct payroll for said personnel multiplied by a 2.3 factor. In addition, items such as reproductions or any necessary related supplementary services performed by companies engaged by the consultant, will be paid for directly as out-of-pocket expenses.

Very truly yours,

JOSEPH F. CASAZZA,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Boston Exhibit Coming to Hancock Tower

Anyone riding on Paul Revere's horse during that famous ride couldn't have had a better sense of the action than visitors will experience viewing the Revolutionary Boston model exhibit on the sixtieth floor observatory of the John Hancock Tower.

The Revolutionary Boston model will be just one of a number of exhibits, including a simulated helicopter ride and a photographic wall display, in the 17,000-square-foot area devoted to the public observatory and gallery. It is scheduled to open in late spring of 1975.

On a clear day the White Mountains in southern New Hampshire, eighty to ninety miles away, are visible from the sixtieth floor. Chandler J. Blackington, director of community relations for the John Hancock, said this will be the "highest public observatory between Canada and New York on the Eastern Seaboard."

The 20-foot-in-diameter topographical scale model of Boston as it was in 1775 is on a scale of one inch to 80 feet and will encompass an area stretching from Cambridge to Boston.

Through synchronized lighting devices and a prepared six-minute tape Paul Revere's ride, frigates firing on Boston Harbor, the Charlestown fire, and the Battle of Bunker Hill will be spectacularly re-created.

Fabricated by Lester Associates, Inc., of Thornwood, New York, it will be the most historically accurate model of Boston of that period. Sinclair Hitchings of the Boston Public Library has served as historical consultant.

Some 250 buildings — such as Paul Revere's house, the Old North Church, and others — have been individually handcrafted and painted. Another 2,750 miniature buildings, based on eight prototypes of typical period structures, are also being assembled for the model.

Dozens of ships have been molded and coated with luminous paint.

The show will culminate with a present-day photographic overlay above the Revolutionary Boston model that will depict how the Back Bay was filled and how the streets of today emerged from early Boston pathways.

Carpeting on the floors, walls, and ceiling of the sixtieth floor will eliminate distractions and cut down on reflective light and glare, heightening visual impact day and night.

Stationary "fun scopes" for youngsters will be labeled and fixed on identified landmarks. Electrically operated high-power binocular units will be strategically located and available for close viewing of long-range subjects.

An overhead display of 110 mounted color transparencies of New England scenes will surround the perimeter of the observatory. It will include some rare prints

OUR BOSTON

Leonard R. Cutter

Twenty-second Mayor — 1873

Among the forty-five men who have served as mayor of Boston the shortest tenure — just thirty-seven days — was held by Leonard Richardson Cutter a century ago.

As chairman of the Board of Aldermen in 1873, he succeeded as acting mayor upon the November 29 resignation of Mayor Henry L. Pierce to begin service as new Congressman from the Third Massachusetts district.

Cutter, as fifteenth chairman of the Board of Aldermen, became the twenty-second man to occupy the mayor's office. He served until Samuel C. Cobb was inaugurated as mayor on January 5, 1874.

While acting mayor, Cutter continued to head the aldermanic board for the remainder of the municipal year and received plaudits of his colleagues for his dual service. He then stepped down to complete one more year — his fourth — as alderman.

Born July 1, 1825, in farm country, Jaffrey, New Hampshire, he left for Boston at age twenty after teaching three years in his native area. He found work in a grocery store in Boston, lived in the West End, and went into the grocery business for himself.

After a decade he turned to real estate and was a successful real estate agent and owner. He resided at Hancock Street, Beacon Hill, at the time of his elective public service.

He also was for many years a justice of the peace and earlier was a city assessor from 1859 to 1861.

After elective office he served until 1883 as a member of the Boston Water Board, four years as chairman, and also had overlapping service eight years as water commissioner.

Mr. Cutter, who had moved to 1 Arlington Street, Back Bay, died at his residence on July 13, 1894, at age sixty-nine.

ROBERTO CLEMENTE PARK DEDICATED

The late Roberto Clemente, a famous baseball star with the Pittsburgh Pirates for eighteen years, was honored on July 27 by the City of Boston when the Fens Stadium, Back Bay, was renamed Roberto Clemente Park. Hundreds of persons, mostly Puerto Ricans, attended the dedication. Mayor White unveiled a bronze plaque of Clemente, who was killed in a plane crash on December 31, 1972.

"We're going to maintain this park as well as we possibly can," Mayor White told the audience. "But we're going to need your help. We plan to keep the lights on at night.

"Let me remind you about the noble qualities of your countryman, Roberto Clemente. First — he was a remarkable person. Not only was he a great athlete, but he had deep concern and empathy for others. He was so moved by the Nicaraguan situation that one rainy New Year's Eve, he flew off on a mission to help others. He perished in the effort.

"I ask you to revere the memory of this man by helping to maintain and improve the city's newest playground — Roberto Clemente Park."

illustrating period landmarks adjacent to today's.

A swift simulated airborne ride through the Callahan Tunnel, sans the usual quarter, will be available when visitors step into the area set aside for the simulated helicopter ride. With synchronized audio, the film, shot from a helicopter by the Film Group of Boston, will be similar to cinerama. Heli-hopping through the city while keeping two feet on the floor, visitors will swoop over the Tobin Bridge, through the Callahan Tunnel, and over many historical interest points.

For those who can't take their eyes off the skyline, tiers of seats will be positioned for optimum viewing while a six-minute tape points out historical spots on the horizon. A weather station will indicate elements such as wind speed and direction, air temperature, and humidity.

The sixtieth-floor observatory was planned and designed by Chermayeff & Geismar Associates of New York.

In addition to the observatory, the John Hancock has provided a portion of its Tower lobby during 1975 and 1976 for one of the city's two major Boston 200 Visitor Information Centers. Included in the Center will be a three-dimensional wall map of the city that will light up to show major events, historical trails, transit systems, and other points of general interest.

POSTAL SERVICE EMPLOYING MORE WOMEN

The United States Postal Service has become one of the world's largest employers of women, the product of a long-standing postal tradition of providing career opportunities to women.

At the end of the 1974 fiscal year in June, postal employment totaled about 710,000, including 127,888 women, or more than 18 percent of the total force.

In the last ten years employment of women in the Postal Service has nearly tripled from the 1964 total of 45,000, when women comprised only 8 percent of total employment.

Currently, women are being appointed in increasing numbers to head post offices under a merit system which has replaced the old Post Office Department patronage system of postmaster appointments. Approximately 13,000 of these women serve as postmasters.

The opportunities for women are part of a postal service tradition dating back to at least 1775, when a woman — Mary K. Goddard — was appointed postmaster of Baltimore. Since that time, women have been well represented in United States postmaster ranks.

Women today are also entering other fields of postal or postal-related work in unprecedented numbers.

For example, there are more than 8,600 regular women letter carriers and motor vehicle drivers — positions virtually closed to women for many years. As late as 1964 there were only about one hundred in the entire country.

There are now more than 100,000 women mail-handlers and clerks in the nation's post offices. A generation ago there were relatively few women postal clerks and mail handlers, and their employment was confined mostly to small post offices.

There are now nearly 150 women in the 2,644-member Postal Security Force, whose duties include guarding postal property. An early recruit was Kathryn Prime, twenty-seven, a former judo instructor, now stationed at Philadelphia.

The ranks of United States Postal inspectors — the nation's oldest law-enforcement agency — now include nineteen women. This elite corps, set up by Benjamin Franklin, was first opened to women in 1969. Among the first recruited was Jane W. Currie of Chicago, whose father, the late Guy O. Williams, was also a postal inspector.

Historical records show that post offices have ranked along with such institutions as schools and hospitals as sources of meaningful employment for American women since the earliest days of the nation, when such opportunities were relatively few.

An Official Register of the United States, for example, listed twenty-five women postmasters serving in just one state, Minnesota, almost a century ago.

CIRCULAR LETTER NO. 1

July 18.

To All Department Heads.

GENTLEMEN:

You are hereby authorized to grant leave of absence without loss of pay to employees of your department who are duly accredited delegates of the Disabled American Veterans, Department of Massachusetts, so that they may attend their state convention to be held in Boston June 27-29, 1974, and their national convention to be held in New Orleans, Louisiana, August 3-10, 1974, provided that such leave of absence will not impair departmental operations to such an extent that it will be necessary to incur overtime expense or that it will involve employment of temporary personnel to perform the duties of said delegates during the permitted absence.

If overtime expense or employment of temporary personnel is required due to such absence, the leave of absence may be granted only with loss of pay.

Very truly yours,
KEVIN H. WHITE, Mayor.

MAYOR COMMENTS ON SUPREME COURT'S DECISION

The following is a statement of Mayor Kevin White:

The United States Supreme Court, in declining to make the suburbs part of any school desegregation plan, displayed a clear lack of understanding of the problems faced by big cities throughout the nation.

The Court's 5-4 decision is disappointing for it fails to recognize that major inequalities in resources and opportunities as well as the effects of racial isolation lie between a city and its suburbs, not between one city neighborhood and another.

In Boston's case this is not to deny that there are differences in opportunity within the city itself, but rather to emphasize that no section of the city can stand comparison with our more advantaged suburbs.

This is true whether one is measuring the equalized valuation behind each student (Boston, $15,290; Brookline, $55,556), the dollars spent per student (Boston, $935; Brookline, $1,471), the achievement levels of the students, or the percentage of graduates going on to college (Boston, 25 percent; Brookline, 75 percent).

It is a painful irony that communities with the least needy and most advantaged children can, with little effort, spend heavily on education, while the communities with the greatest need cannot keep pace and must tax themselves to the limit. This obvious injustice cries out for remedy.

A series of major education studies conducted during the past eight years has demonstrated (1) that the primary source of educational disadvantage is poverty, not skin color, and (2) that the most important determinant of a child's success in school, aside from the talent and background he brings from home, is the social and economic background of his classmates.

Thus suburban schools not only can spend more money with less effort than can city schools, but they contain a monopoly on the most important resource a school has to offer a disadvantaged child — namely, a majority of children from middle and upper-income families.

In a city like Boston, in which there are not enough middle-income children to go around, implementing the court-ordered desegregation plan means, in most instances, mixing poor children of one color with poor children of another.

We should not delude ourselves into believing that by ignoring the existence of gross social and economic inequalities we will solve the educational problems of poor children of either color. The evidence on this point is beyond dispute — racial integration improves achievement levels only when it is accompanied by social and economic integration. Therefore, any desegregation plan that does not include the suburbs cannot achieve the ultimate goal of providing equal education for all children.

GENTLEMEN:

You are hereby authorized to grant leave of absence without loss of pay to employees of your department who are duly accredited members of the annual convention of the Improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of the World, being held from Friday, August 9, 1974, through and including Sunday, August 18, 1974, in New York City, provided that such leave of absence will not impair departmental operation to such an extent that overtime or the employment of temporary personnel to perform the duties of the said delegates during the permitted period would be necessary.

If overtime expense or the employment of substitute personnel is required, then said delegates may be granted leave of absence only with loss of pay.

RECREATION: THE BOSTON PARK SYSTEM

The Boston Common has often been cited as the first public park in America. Certain it is that the idea of a park system first was realized in Boston and that for many years Boston led the park movement in the United States with its metropolitan park system and its playgrounds.

Fifty years ago the parks of Boston included a Common, a Public Garden, and a few small squares. During these last fifty years the people of Boston and of the metropolitan district have taken four novel ideas and shown the possibility of putting them into practice.

The first of these new ideas, which, while first tried in Boston, has since found general acceptance, was that of a park system—not separate and distinct odd bits of open spaces but a predesigned system of related park units. The second new idea was the development of a playground on the Charlesbank as a specialized kind of park area to provide swings and apparatus for athletic games and organized play. The successful experiment conducted in 1888 played a large part in the growth of the playgrounds not only of Boston but all over the United States. In accordance with a third new idea, the cities and towns around Boston were organized in 1894 as a metropolitan park district to carry out a plan for a system of metropolitan parks. Finally, as the central feature of the city and the metropolitan park systems, the Charles River Basin was created, utilizing ideas which, though ancient and familiar in Holland, had never been used on such a scale or for such a purpose in this country. All these activities were only the beginning of Boston's park system.

The people of Boston have understood the value and importance of public open spaces since 1634, when the Common was established, and have permitted neither British redcoats nor everpresent private interests to interfere with their continued enjoyment of them. Through that appreciation the citizens came to expect that with each new increment in size of the city new parks would be provided, and so it happened that, as the city grew, small squares and open spaces were provided in each new housing development (notable in the South End), so that those who moved to the new areas would still believe that the Common or something very much like it was close at hand.

It was natural enough, therefore, that when the swamps and mill ponds of the Back Bay were reclaimed the Common should be extended westward, resulting in the creation of the Public Garden in 1859. Still later, in the 1860s, Commonwealth Avenue was laid out, carrying a central open space one hundred feet wide, with roadways on either side, westward to Massachusetts Avenue. That was the extent of the development of the Boston park system 100 years ago.

PROTECTIVE MEASURES FOR CHARLESTOWN RESIDENTS

Acting on the order of Mayor Kevin White, the city's Public Works Department has erected a chain-link fence to protect residents of Perkins Street and Clinton Place from passing trains.

The Mayor's directive came as a result of a recent meeting with Charlestown residents protesting the lack of adequate fencing in the area.

Mayor White, who acknowledged that under most circumstances it would be illegal for the city to erect a fence on private property, cited the severe public safety hazard as the reason for raising a fence on property of the Boston & Maine Railroad.

"This situation is an emergency," he said. "When public safety is endangered, it is legal for the city to enter onto land it doesn't own and assume responsibility."

Charlestown Little City Hall Manager James Heelan said B & M officials have agreed to fence in the remaining 2,000 feet of railroad embankment within two weeks.

Mr. Heelan said the situation was brought to his attention a week ago by George Thomas, a resident on Brighton Street, who spearheaded the drive to get the railroad tracks near his home fenced in.

An official from the Public Works Department said the new chain-link fence is 100 feet long and approximately 10 feet high.

NORTH END LIMITS BUS TRAFFIC

Boston's North End has been relieved of heavy tour bus traffic on its internal streets.

According to Boston Mayor Kevin H. White, "The decision to limit tour bus traffic to the perimeters of the North End was made due to increased safety and pollution problems on the internal streets of the area."

The Mayor, in a recent letter to tour bus operators, said, "In the last two years this situation has accelerated, and the community is understandably worried about the Bicentennial years."

To alleviate the traffic problem in the North End and at the same time afford visitors to Boston the opportunity to enjoy the attractions of the community, fifteen bus stops have been designated on Commercial Street. A system of signs has been developed to direct visitors to the Freedom Trail and other historic sites in the North End.

Katharine D. Kane, director of Boston 200, applauded Mayor White's decision, calling it "wonderful news." Said Mrs. Kane, "We want to encourage visitors to Boston during the Bicentennial to take advantage of the city. The best way to take advantage of the city is to walk through it. With everything so close it makes little sense to try to drive everywhere. We can help people see more of the city by encouraging them to leave their buses and cars and walk the trails of Boston."

The effective date of Mayor White's decision was July 1, 1974.

A CLEAN SWEEP

The Parks Department effort to clean the city's parks and playgrounds moved into high gear on August 5 at Souza Playground in East Boston.

The cleanup campaign, conducted with the aid of volunteers, also focused on Cuttillo Playground in the North End.

"No matter how much the city does, we still need community support to keep our open spaces in good condition," Parks Commissioner Anthony Forgione said.

"We all want Boston's parks to get back in shape, and I hope this campaign will lead to a continuing spirit of cooperation."

A cleanup of different parks will be conducted weekly every Monday throughout the summer with the help of volunteers.

Each person who fills a trash bag given at each park will receive a VIP (Vandalism Injury Protector) Parks Department WRKO-T-shirt.

The campaign is being conducted with the support of radio station WRKO and disc jockey Dale Dorman, who will appear at the parks each Monday. A total of fourteen parks will be visited during the summer.

Personnel Order No. 74-265

The Boston Retirement Board having approved the same, the following-named officer is hereby retired from active duty under the provisions of the State-Boston Retirement System, effective at the close of business on Friday, June 21, 1974:

Post until July 5, 1974.

In a recent award of the American Arbitration Association, it was ruled that the city's detailing of police officers to the Operations Section of the Communications Division, grieved on June 21, 1973, was not a violation of Article IX, section 3D of the Collective Bargaining Agreement between the City of Boston and the Police Patrolmen's Association.

Section 3D of Article IX provides:

"The scheduled tours of duty of individual employees or groups of employees will not be changed or altered for the purpose of avoiding overtime provisions of this Article."

It was the Association's claim that an extension of the training time at the Operations Section from two weeks to one month was an attempt to avoid overtime payments and, therefore, a violation of the agreement.

The city's rejoinder was that the intent of the city in extending the training program was not for the purpose of avoiding overtime, and, in fact, it had no effect whatsoever on the amount of overtime available.

In reaching her decision, the arbitrator, Marcia L. Greenbaum, noted:

"To find this section (3D) was violated, there must be some showing (1) that if change had not been made there would have been more overtime available; or put another way (2) that because of the change there was loss or deprivation of overtime, and (3) that management's intent in making the change was to create a loss of overtime, that is, to avoid the payment of overtime, or, as one arbitrator found, (4) that this 'purpose of avoiding the payment of overtime so predominates over other plausible purposes as to constitute in effect the purpose.'"

"I find that the Union has failed to meet this burden of proof here." Therefore, concluded the arbitrator, "There simply was no overtime to avoid, and thus there could be no 'intent to avoid' in the extension decision."

June 20.

Commissioner's Memorandum No. 74-50

To: All Bureaus, Divisions, Districts, Offices, Sections, and Units.

Copies to: All Superintendents, Deputy Superintendents, and Directors.

Mention at Roll Calls.

Post until July 5, 1974.

In a recent decision handed down by the American Arbitration Association, it was ruled that the Police Commissioner's Special Order No. 63, dated May 23, 1973, did not violate Article XVII A, section 1 (Education Incentive Plan) of the Collective Bargaining Agreement between the City of Boston and the Boston Police Patrolmen's Association.

The Association had argued that police officers, under the terms of the agreement, should be compensated for educational courses even if such courses were taken at nonaccredited institutions and irrespective of whether the ultimate purpose was to obtain a degree. Therefore, claimed the Association, Special Order No. 63 was a modification of the agreement.

The city contended that Special Order No. 63 was merely an interpretation of the agreement, and argued that the accumulation of points was not enough, but in order to receive payment, police officers should be enrolled in an accredited program which assures that the officers will be taking courses relevant to his/her becoming a more effective and more efficient police officer.

Ruling in the city's favor, that Special Order No. 63 was not a modification of the contract, but rather a logical and reasonable interpretation which is consistent with, and applies the provisions of, the Agreement, the Arbitrator, Craig E. Overton, further noted:

"It would be erroneous to assume that just because a police officer takes an indiscriminate array of courses (and not be enrolled in an accredited program) that he/she shall be compensated just for accumulating a certain number of points. Quite the contrary . . . the agreement is that payment will be made for courses taken when a police officer furthers his/her education toward a degree 'in the field of police work.'"
